STATE BOSSES O. K. 4-CENT 'GAS' TAX

By WILLIAM I. GRUNDISH, Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, March 18.—The fate of every important measure before the Legislature is being decided at a series of conferences being held here by leaders of the Republican organization.

The conferences are being held behind closed doors. All but a few members of the Legislature are barred.

Seeping past the bolts and bars, however, come these reports:

That the conferees have decided in favor of an increase of the gasoline tax from 3 to 4 cents.

That the party is committed to a voting machine bill, which when passed, probably will be a combination of the measures introduced by Senator Frank J. Harris, of Allegheny, and Albert Davis, of Scranton.

That the Pittsburgh metropolitan district charter never will come out of committee, but that some bill that will put the principle of the metropolitan dis-

AIR-RAIL PLAN CONTEMPLATED

International News Service.

A coast-to-coast rail-air transportation system which will lower the time between the Atlantic and Pacific to 36 hours is "contemplated," according to E. W. Smith, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. "But it is too early to make any statement relative to the new service," he added.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh figures in this advanced step in transportation, according to information from reliable sources here today. It is understood that the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., of which Col. Lindbergh is consulting aeronautical engineer, will inaugurate the service, and that Col. Lindbergh will blaze the trail on the first trip.

The above confirms the exclusive story in Sunday's Sun-Telegraph, which gave all details of the new projected service as far as they have been worked out.

FIVE GIRLS HURT AS HE FALLS

Henry Kroeger, 32, of Tell street, Spring Hill, First National Bank Building window cleaner, lived an hour and a half today after falling 20 stories when his safety belt broke. He died in Mercy Hospital at noon from a fractured skull and broken arm.

He was cleaning twenty-fifth story windows when he fell.

STRIKES SKYLIGHT

At the sixth floor Kroeger struck a skylight with a wire grating 12 inches above the glass. His body hurtled through the glass and dropped him to the accounting department of the bank on the fifth floor of the building.

Kroeger landed on a desk in the auditing department on the fifth floor, bringing down a shower of shattered glass.

Helen Minton, 1342 Pritchard street, and Frieda McCarl, of Houston, Pa., were cut on the feet by the glass.

Ruth Rico, 840 Rebecca street, Wilkinsburg, and Anna May, Sampson street, suffered from shock and were taken home after being treated by a physician at the banking rooms.

CLERKS NEAR HYSTERIA

Many of the young women working in the auditing department of the bank were near hysterics as police and ambulance drivers rushed into the building to hurry Kroeger to Mercy Hospital.

Aside from the injury to his head and arm, no bones were broken, physicians declared.

SAME RUM CAR SEIZED TWICE

For the second time an automobile used in transporting liquor came into possession of federal prohibition agents today.

The car, bearing 13 five-gallon cans of moonshine, was seized by agents in Pasture street, in the rear of 1218 Wylie avenue. Two men unloading liquor, the agents reported, escaped.

Several months ago the same car was confiscated, according to the federal men, and sold by the government at public auction. Agents are checking to learn the present owner.

Christmas Brawl Murder Case Up

The sequel to a Christmas brawl came in Criminal Court today when Charles Feruch, 33, rear 242½ Second avenue, Homestead, was placed on trial on a charge of murder. He is accused of shooting to death Eli Ragy, 35, Louise street, Munhall, following a quarrel.

ASK $5,000 FORNEY REWARD

Albert W. Forney, missing slot machine racketeer, was today declared a fugitive from justice by Judge James B. Drew in Criminal Court, who announced that he will ask County Comissiomners to place a $5,000 reward on his head.

Forney's $2,500 bail was ordered forfeited by Judge Drew when the alleged slot machine king for the second time failed to appear for trial on 16 gambling charges.

M'GOVERN OPPOSED

What action the County Commissioners will take on Judge Drew's request could not be ascertained today. Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman, is in Harrisburg and Commissioner E. V. Babcock, it was said at his office, also "is out of the city."

Commissioner C. C. McGovern, the independent, was in the city volubly.

"Judge Drew's request is ridiculous," McGovern asserted, "and District Attorney Gardner should resign. Drew's going over Gardner's head is commendable and it isn't the judiciary's fault that criminals are allowed to skip bond. All the legal and moral responsibility in this Forney case hangs on Gardner's head.

"Drew's action is a reflection on Gardner and Gardner should quit. If, with the forces he had, he can't run down a man like Forney he admits his inability."

CAN'T BE FOUND

Whatever Judge Drew and other court officials thought, Pittsburghers apparently were convinced that Forney would not appear for trial. When the case, postponed from last Monday, was called, there were only two spectators—a man and a woman—in the courtroom.

While the man watched the proceedings the woman sat, apparently half asleep.

Hiram D. Hirsh, Forney's attorney, and District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, stood up when the case was called.

"Where is Mr. Forney?" Judge Drew asked Hirsh.

"I tried all last week, Your Honor,' Hirsh replied, 'but I could find no trace of him. Mrs. Forney knows nothing of his whereabouts. I have given all my

BROKEN AIR LINER IN WHICH 14 LOST LIVES IN CRASH WITH FREIGHT TRAIN

14 DIE IN WORST U.S. AIR CRASH; PILOT LIVES

NEWARK, N. J., March 18.—(INS.)—The toll of lives in the crash of the tri-motored Ford sightseeing plane here yesterday mounted to 14 today when Delmont Parsons, of Brooklyn, one of the two men who were not killed instantly, died in St. James Hospital.

The only survivor, Lou Foote, pilot of the big ship, is in a critical condition.

Parsons' death establishes the crash as one of the two worst accidents in aviation history. On December 3 last, 14 persons were killed when a plane plunged into the ocean off Rio De Janeiro.

HITS FREIGHT TRAIN

Foote and Parsons were riding in the cockpit of the giant plane. When the ship's motors went dead, it crashed into the side of a stalled freight train, the fuselage striking first. Foote had tried desperately to clear the train.

Parsons was a student aviator at the Newark field and went aloft with Foote to obtain instruction in piloting tri-motored ships.

Among the passengers in the plane's cabin were Reginald Z. Woodward, Brooklyn law student, and Gertrude Seever, of Newark The couple had been engaged for

ORIE RESIGNS, JONES NAMED MAGISTRATE

John W. Orie, convicted recently of failing to file an income tax return, has resigned as police magistrate, Mayor Charles H. Kline announced today. Alderman Thomas D. Jones, Republican chairman of the Eighteenth Ward, was appointed as his successor.

Unanimous confirmation of the appointment was made this afternoon by six members of Council present. Charles Anderson, W. Y. English and Daniel Winters were absent.

Orie, who was sentenced to six months in jail following his conviction, was appointed by Mayor Kline three years ago.

The Mayor declined to remove Orie until his appeal for a new trial had been heard, but after the Allegheny County Bar Association had adopted a resolution criticizing Orie's retention, he was suspended.

King George Able To Take Few Steps

BOGNOR, England, March 18.—(AP.)—Those about King George at Craigwell House today felt happier at the progress of his recuperation than they have felt in weeks. A few short faltering steps by his majesty yesterday—sufficient for him to cover 60 yards—caused the elation.

The steps were taken unaided, after he had lifted himself from his wheel chair in which he had been taken into the open air. It was the first time the king had walked since he became ill, more than four months ago.

BOMB BLAMED IN CLAIRTON EXPLOSION

The town of Clairton was rocked today by an explosion which destroyed one building and damaged six others in the business district and shattered windows for blocks around. No one was injured.

The explosion, which, police said, was from either a bomb or leaking gas, wrecked the grocery store of James Zillie, at 427 State street, Clairton, next to the First National Bank of Clairton. Fire consumed what remained of the building after the blast.

Windows in the bank and in apartments above it were blown in, and occupants of the apartments were showered with glass fragments. Police stood guard at the bank to prevent looting.

Across the street, the explosion shattered the plate glass windows of the Harry Jaskol department store, Strathearn Bros. hardware store, "Pete's" poolroom and barber shop and Crawford's drug store. Windows in apartments above the hardware store, the poolroom and the drug store were blown in.

The explosion occurred at 3 o'clock. Persons sleeping in nearby homes were awakened by a deafening roar, followed by the clatter of falling glass and debris. Someone reported to police that six men had been seen fleeing in an automobile after the explosion, but this was not verified.

Clairton police believed that the explosion may have been the work of enemies of Zillie, and discredited rumors that the intention had been to blow up the bank.

Albert Ottinger Held Up, Loses $75

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Albert Ottinger, former state attorney general and the Republican candidate for governor last year, was held up early today in front of his home on West Seventy-fifth street and robbed of $75. He had spent the evening at a club and reached home in a taxicab about 1 o'clock. As he started up the steps of his home a man about 25 years old stepped to his side and pressed a revolver against his body and took the $75.

NIGHT CLUB HOSTESS ASKS BIG FUND

By DAVID P. SENTNER, International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Crying softly and speaking in a slow, trembling voice, Marcia Estardus, 28-year-old showgirl, told of an alleged attack made on her by Harry K. Thaw, Pittsburgh millionaire, during a New Year's eve party in Thaw's apartment.

She was called to the stand as her own witness in a $100,000 suit she brought against Thaw for "natural damages suffered by her person and spirit from the attack."

ACCUSES ATTORNEY

Miss Estardus threw the defense counsel table into an uproar when she declared that a couple of months after the alleged attack is said to have taken place a man, posing as a newspaper reporter, came to her night club and offered his services as an attorney. This man, she said, was none other than Thomas A. McGrath, one of Thaw's attorneys. When cautioned as to the seriousness of her statement, Miss Estardus said she knew she was making a serious charge, but that "it is true."

Miss Estardus broke down as she was telling her story in which she pictured Thaw as a "crazy man."

"Mr. Thaw hit me for some reason. I didn't know what it was," she said.

"He had a brush in his hand. I ran to the door, but it was locked.

FOUGHT WITH THAW

"He then knocked me down on the floor. I fought with him, picking up everything that I could find and threw it at him, but he knocked me down again and then I knew that I was with a crazy man.

"When I tried to fight with him he bit me and tore my dress. He hit me wherever he could.

"I saw a window in the room and thought that the best I could do for my mother would be to jump out of it. When Mr. Thaw saw what I was going to do he opened the door.

"The next I remember I was on the floor and Morgan Pendleton, Thaw's secretary, was trying to bring me to. Thaw was racing up and down the hall. Pendleton then took me home."

Miss Estardus said that she did not tell anyone of the attack be-

Council Protests Income Tax

Pittsburgh City Council today gave official expression to the community's protest against the federal tax on earned incomes.

A resolution that Council go on record as recommending a revision downward on earned incomes and that the matter be referred to Congress was introduced by President James F. Malone and adopted.

Pittsburgh is the first large city in the country to voice, through its legislative body, the urgency of reducing the tax on earned incomes. In the Malone resolution it was pointed out that the income tax is unfair and imposes a heavy burden on wage earners.

GIRL IN 'HEX,' POISON CASE NOW BELIEVED SUICIDE

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 18.—(AP.)—While awaiting the result of the autopsy at the local hospital on the body of Miss Verna Octavia Delp, 22, who was found late Saturday near the emergency landing field of the Transcontinental air mail, state police said they were inclined to believe that the girl had committed suicide. A murder theory had at first been advanced by the investigators.

Theory that the girl had been fatally poisoned and her body carried from the Catasauqua pike to the place where it was found, was punctured when investigators revealed that she could have walked to the spot without getting mud on her shoes, as there are a number of cinder paths across the field.

Decision by the doctors concerning the nature of the poison or poisons which caused the death and the possible revelation of where she may have obtained these poisons, police said, would definitely rend much of the veil of mystery which cloaks the death.

Charles T. Belles, accused pow-wow doctor in the mystery, was questioned at length yesterday by police, but was permitted to return to his home last night, police said, but they denied that he was under arrest.

Miss Delp left the home of her adopted father, August Derhammer, at Green Pond, about 12 miles from here, Friday morning, to visit a "pow-wow" doctor, or faith healer, in this city.

That was the last seen of the girl until two men stumbled over the body lying in the rain-soaked field.

Because of the girl's reported condition a search has been begun for her sweetheart, who has been missing several months.

SUPREME COURT HEARS PLEA FOR CHURCH SLAYER

The State Supreme Court, opening its tribunal in Pittsburgh today, heard a plea for a new trial for Attorney Fayette J. Tyrrell, the Sunday School superintendent who is serving a 10-year sentence for killing Philip J. Clark in the Munhall Christian Church.

Attorney William H. Coleman argued that the trial judge had erred when he ruled out testimony of uncommunicated threats made by Clark against Tyrrell. Chief Justice Von Moischzisker indicated that he was not impressed with this argument by pointing out that threats which were communicated had been allowed in testimony.

Assistant District Attorney John E. Haggerty, opposing the plea, told of Attorney Tyrrel representing Clark's wife in her divorce action and asserted that the jury's only mistake was in finding Tyrrell guilty of second, rather than first degree murder.

'MERCY' KILLING, SUICIDE BY INVALID'S MATE FAIL

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP.)—We who have health, homes and happiness—what do we know of such tragedy as has come to the Edwin McDwires?

McDwire, 31, is an elevated train guard. Fifteen years he has been married, and during 11 of those years his wife, Mabel, has been crippled by rheumatism.

Each day before leaving for work McDwire has bathed and dressed his wife, prepared their breakfast, fixed something for her lunch, and in the evening gotten the dinner, tidied the small flat, read aloud the newspapers and travel books of which his wife was fond, and then prepared her for bed.

Last night McDwire cut his wife's throat with a razor. Then he used the weapon on himself.

"He did it," Mabel McDwire told police. "But it was a kindness. He wanted me out of my suffering. He has always been so devoted, so very good to me."

Mrs. McDwire will recover. Her husband probably will not.

PETITION WEEK BEGINS IN FIGHT TO CUT TAX ON WAGES

COURT ASKS REWARD ON FORNEY

information to the district attorney and as an officer of the court I wish to apologize for the fact that my client is not in court, and to assure you that I shall make every effort to find him."

HIRSH, DREW AGREE

Judge Drew was visibly impatient.

"You are satisfied," he asked Hirsh, "that he is now a fugitive from justice?"

"I am," Hirsh replied. "I believe the court has been very patient in this case."

District Attorney Gardner then reported to Judge Drew the unsuccessful effort of James McGinley, county detective, to locate Forney in New York.

BOND FORFEIT ORDERED

"I wish to petition the court," Gardner said, "to forfeit the bond in this case and to declare the defendant a fugitive from justice."

"Forney," Judge Drew then said, "is guilty of one of the greatest crimes against justice. He had insulted the prosecutor, who released him on bond, and he has given his greatest affront to the law by his failure to appear here this morning.

"If he acted on the advice of others," Judge Drew continued, "he was poorly advised. When he failed to appear a week ago a good excuse was offered, but we felt it should be investigated. We did investigate it and the court is now convinced that illness has not kept him away.

JUDGE VITRIOLIC

"He is entitled to the scantiest consideration of the court and that is what he will get," Judge Drew added. "If he had the sense he was born with he would have appeared here today.

"The court orders that his bond be forfeited and a warrant issued for his arrest as a fugitive from justice. I will ask the County Commissioners to set aside a reward of $5,000 for his arrest. This will set all the agencies of the law at work to apprehend him. It may drive him from the county if it has not already done so. But this country is too good for his kind anyway.

"The fact of his failure to appear," Judge Drew concluded, "is legal evidence of his guilt."

Forney, a witness before the Federal grand jury, entered a plea of no defense to conspiracy and was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail.

Before he had been in jail a month an energetic effort for pardon was inaugurated. The petition was indorsed by United States Attorney John D. Meyer. This indorsement was withdrawn later, however, after numerous church and moral agencies had protested to the Department of Justice in Washington.

While Forney was serving his federal sentence the county grand jury graft investigation was started and Forney was indicted on 16 gambling counts in connection with slot machine ring activities.

On his release from jail at the completion of his federal sentence, Forney posted bond and went into seclusion.

Hirsh, advised last Monday by Judge Drew to try and locate Forney, declared he has not heard from his client since March 8.

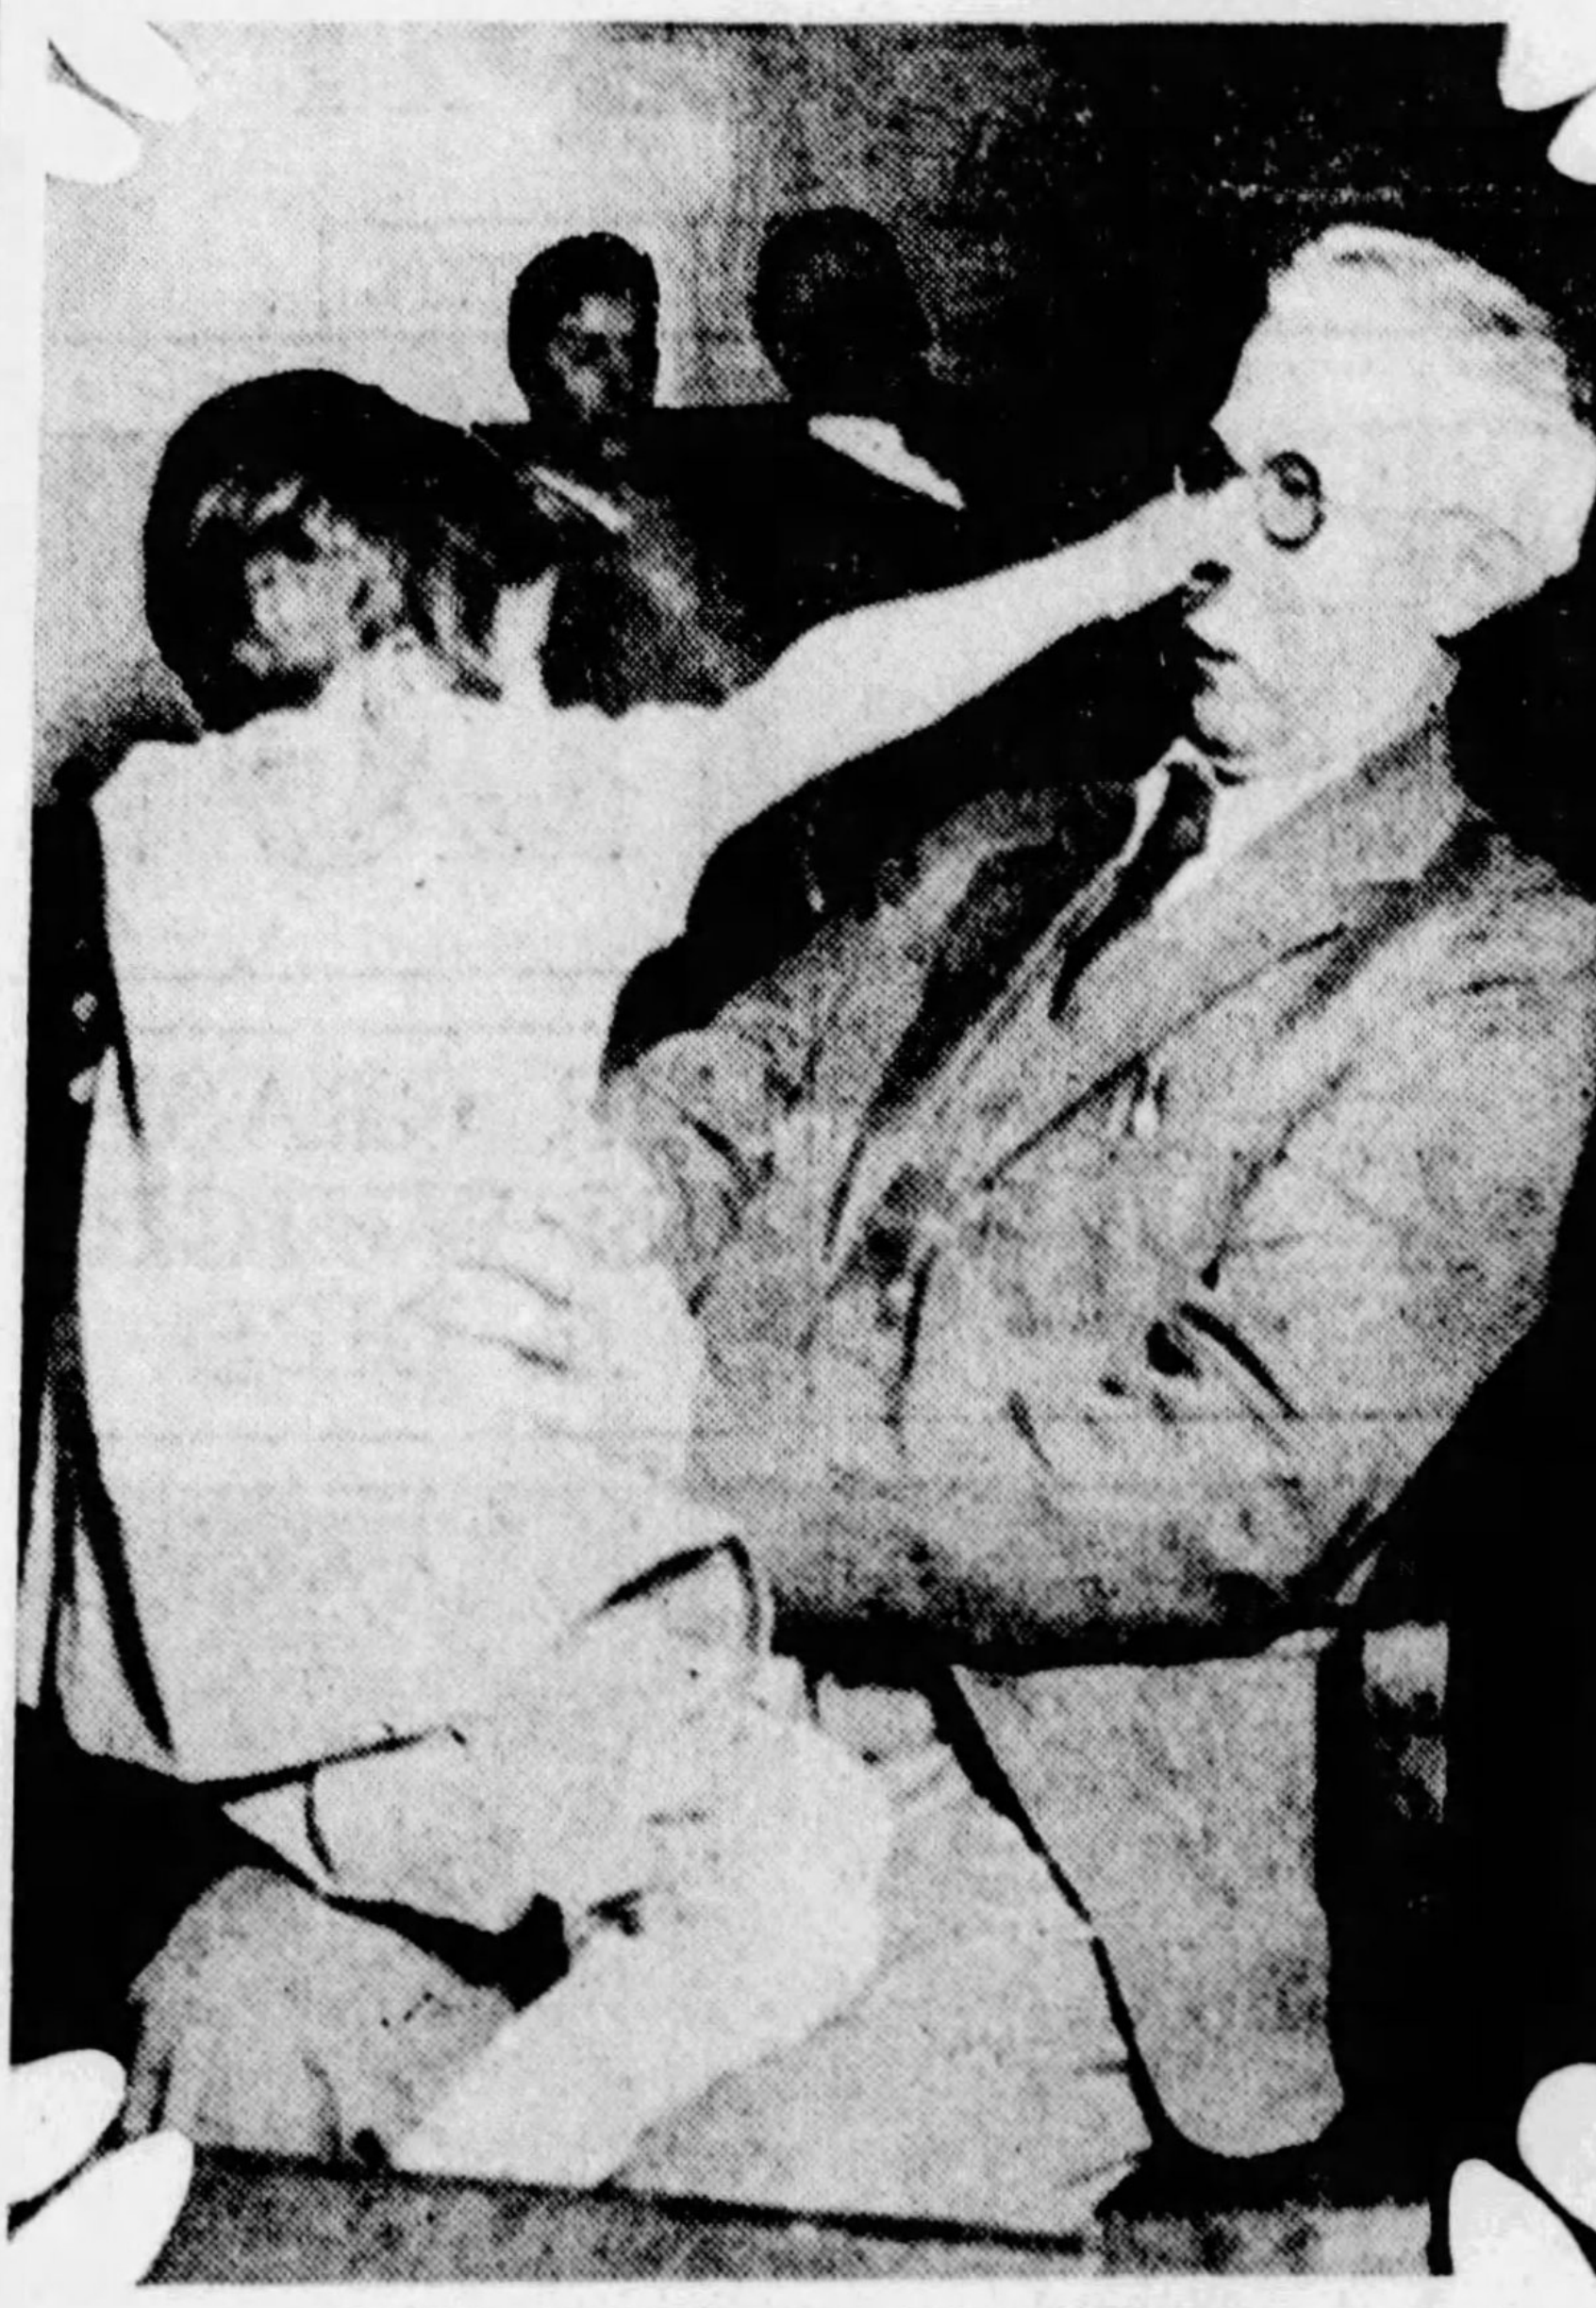
Forney's absence became public knowledge one week ago today when the confessed racketeer failed to respond for his trial.

At that time Hirsh produced a physician's certificate indicating Forney was ill in New York. Attempts by detectives, lawyers, newspapers and friends to locate him failed.

Prisoner Identified As Coraopolis Bandit

BEAVER, Pa., March 18.—James Howard, 35, of 455 Melrose avenue, Ambridge, held in the county jail in connection with the robbery of the Ambridge Gas Company offices and the shooting and wounding of Arthur Pew, manager, has been identified as the man who robbed the Broadway Pharmacy, Coraopolis, Pa., February 10, police say. Carl Burkhardt and Peter Nyl, both of Coraopolis, recognized Howard as the bandit who held them up in the Broadway Pharmacy, robbed customers of $250 in valuables and [illegible]ed the store of morphine and [illegible]in, it is claimed.

CONVICTED IN MYSTERY



ELIAS ARNOLD AND INEZ ARNOLD

The grizzled Ohio farmer convicted Saturday with his son, Arthur, of the kidnaping of Melvin Horst, who is still missing, played in court, before the verdict, with his 4-year-old granddaughter.

HORST MYSTERY STILL BAFFLES

WOOSTER, March 18.—Were Elias Arnold and his son, Arthur, convicted of child-stealing by a child's fantasy or is the mystery of 4-year-old Melvin Horst's disappearance still locked within their hearts in the Wayne County jail, where they await sentence from one to 20 years?

This question is puzzling authorities today as they rest a bit from the arduous search begun December 27 and culminating Saturday in the conviction of the Arnolds.

What happened to the boy who failed to return home to his Christmas tree and toys, which are still awaiting him in a corner of the little Horst home in Orrville, may never be explained.

Eight-year-old Junior Hannah, on the witness stand, told of seeing his playmate dragged into the Arnold home.

Defense counsel pounded hard, but the little fellow held to his story under cross examination. The rest of the evidence was circumstantial.

Red Cross to Raise Flood Relief Fund

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—All Red Cross chapters in the country have been authorized to receive donations for rehabilitation work in the flood sections of Alabama, Georgia, Florida and Mississippi, but no national appeal for funds will be made. James L. Fieser, acting chairman of the Red Cross, said that direct appeal for funds would be made only in the four stricken states, but that persons wishing to donate in other states would be requested to contribute through local chapters.

German Royalists March, Kaiser's Son in Line

STUTTGART, Germany, March 18.—(AP.)—The German nationalists organization, the "steel helmets," held its first convention in Wuerttemberg last night, with August Wilhelm, son of the former kaiser, and Prince Wilhelm, eldest son of former crown prince, in attendance.

The convention was opened in the public square. A torchlight procession followed, with the streets flanked by hundreds of Communists jeering, whistling and singing the internationale. Police finally dispersed them.

Herr Seldte, the organization's president, addressed the meeting saying: "We are not striving to seize the reins of the government by a coup d'etat, but by legitimate means."

"Borrowing" Taxi To Celebrate Brings Fine

August Kopenac's birthday party ended in North Side Police Court today when August was fined $25.

Twenty-four on Sunday, August departed his home at 821 Excelsior street, quenched his thirst and then "borrowed" a taxicab, which he drove until the brakes caught fire, police testified.

"After all," philosophized the understanding Magistrate E. M. Hough, "a man is 24 but once."

TROLLEY CRASH KILLS CYCLIST

One man was killed and several persons were injured in auto accidents Sunday and today.

MILLER AGAINST METRO BILL CHANGES

"If the Metropolitant District charter is emasculated at Harrisburg, as I know they have in mind, you will have a most incomplete document and we will appear ridiculous and ludicrous in the eyes of the world, which I hope wil lnot happen," Joseph T. Miller, chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission, declared today.

As a speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Electric League of Pittsburgh, in the Roosevelt Hotel, Miller vigorously defended the charter legislation and the commission which prepared it. It will not increase the tax burden, but will decrease it and it is constitutional, practicable and workable and not complicated, he declared in answer to recent criticism.

HAVE NEW BILL READY

A simple form of bill, creating a Pittsburgh metropolitan district with little disturbance of the present city and county forms of government and fashioned largely along the lines suggested Saturday by President of Council James F. Malone, will be prepared this week for submission to the Legislature, with little delay expected in its enactment, according to political opinion here today.

News from Harrisburg that the original charter bill, prepared after many months of labor by the Metropolitan District Commission, is destined for slow strangulation in committee, was followed by indications that a substitute in simple form, approved by W. L. Mellon, former state chairman, after conferences with state leaders in Harrisburg, will quickly take its place.

MELLON TO CONFER

Mr. Mellon is expected home late tonight and has arranged to meet Councilman Malone tomorrow. This meeting has been responsible for the belief that the Malone suggestion for a bill comprising 300 to 400 words may form the basis of the new legislation.

Mr. Mellon is expected to consult with Mr. Miller. The opinion is held here that the question of legislation will be again submitted to the commission as a matter of courtesy, so that its members may decide whether they w[illegible] by the original bill or w[illegible]t a substitute, either in [illegible]iculated form as propose[illegible]eek, o[illegible] simple for[illegible] pro[illegible] p[illegible]h the drasti[illegible]s in t[illegible]al bill to [illegible] for [illegible]islation.

REBELS QUIT TORREON

MEXICO CITY, March 18.—(INS.)—Lieut. Col. Roberto Fieros, the best known aviator in the Mexican Army, flew over both Torreon and Gomes Palacio this morning and later reported through Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, his commanding officer, that the rebels appeared to be evacuating Torreon and taking up fresh positions in Gomez Palacio.

Gen. Calles sent dispatches to President Portes Gil that the "evacuation of the Torreon positions by ther ebels was still in progress." He had first reported evacuation under way late Friday, following it up Saturday with advices stating that troop trains and motor lorries were proceeding northward from the Torreon district.

The dispatches from the front today stated that the rebels seemed to be concentrating on the Gomez Palacio front. On Saturday the advices from the arena of warfare intimated that the insurgents were trying to make their way to Chihuahua City.

Pity the poor bandit if the new city police patrol, put into operation at Frankstown station, takes up the chase. Sitting behind bullet-proof glass, Patrolman Flaherty shows how effectively the pistol loop-hole in the windshield would be used in a pursuit.

POLICE PATROL GROWS 'RITZY'

Prisoners will enjoy luxurious riding to Frankstown Avenue Police Station in the new patrol in service today. It is a six-cylinder motored vehicle equipped with balloon tires and four-wheel brakes. It is said to be a distinct improvement over the four-cylinder "puddle jumper" which it replaces.

Of 12-passenger capacity, the new patrol is equipped with two stretchers for accident cases. Heretofore patrols have carried but one. When in use the extra stretcher is suspended from the top of the patrol. The other rests on the seats, giving an upper and lower berth effect.

For protection of the driver and wagonman the windshield is of bullet proof glass. Directly in front of the wagonman's seat is an aperture to permit firing a pistol through the windshield.

With the attraction of comfortable, speedy riding behind a smooth running, high-powered motor, Driver Clyde Halliday and Wagon[illegible] Martin Flaherty are expecting of customers.

Foes of Dry Law Add 10 Directors

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(A.P.)—The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment yesterday announced the addition of 10 new directors. There are now 110 directors. MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 18.—(AP.)—Discussing the attitude of the flood victims of Alabama toward the pilots of 18 Army planes who flew food to them, Maj. M. L. Weaver, commandant of the field, related today how one group of famished refugees thanked the pilot who brought them food.

"One of my pilots had been flying over an isolated farm house near Brewton for three days," Maj. Weaver said, "and each time he dropped them food or clothing. Apparently several families had congregated there because the house was on a hill and well above water. Each time they waved to the pilot until yesterday. He noted they were running frantically about and circled his plane to discover why.

"White strips of cloth began forming letters. First a big 'G' and so on. In a few minutes they spelled in old white rags, 'God bless you.'"

14 DIE IN WORST U. S. AIR CRASH

six months and yesterday decided to make an air flight as a "lark." When witnesses of the crash rushed to the scene, they found the two locked tight in one last embrace.

INVESTIGATIONS BEGIN

Municipal and airport authorities were launching a rigid investigation to determine the causes of the crash.

Today, the investigators were to go again to the scene of the accident, for what additional facts they can gather. What investigators particularly want to know is:

Whether, as some spectators and field habitues said, the motor of the great plane had been functioning improperly on its trip preceding the fatal take-off.

SHIP BUFFETED SATURDAY

Whether it was only the port motor which had been acting badly on a former trip made Sunday or whether two of the engines were in bad shape.

What was the exact condition of the 12,000-pound ship after it had been badly buffetted Saturday while aloft with 14 passengers, and had landed only after the pilot had circled the field several times in a 60-mile gale.

In moments of consciousness, Pilot Foote mumbled repeatedly, "they quit on me." Parsons, his friend, on the other hand, said "the right motor stopped and we went right down."

ROUTS FIVE PROWLERS

MRS. HARRY HENGLESBERG

With this tiny "fountain pen," Mrs. Henglesberg, Allison Park, today routed five young men attempting to rob her home. The "pen" spread tear gas!

FORMS READY IN STORES, HOTELS

Today begins petition week in the movement to cut the tax on earned incomes.

So great has been the rush in signing individual petitions to Congress asking for a revision downward of income taxes levied against professional men and women, salaried people and wage earners that the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has had forms printed which are placed on file in hotels, stores, restaurants, tea rooms, cigar counters and other public places where the people will have every facility for registering their opinion on the income tax question.

G. T. Price.

George T. Price, vice president of Reymer & Brothers, directed that petitions be provided for the patrons of the company's chain of tea rooms, confectionery establishments and cigar stores throughout the city. A large number of Reymer's patrons are women and interest in the campaign has shown that women are more outspoken than men in voicing their objection to the income tax on salaries.

WOMEN FAVOR DRIVE

"Bonbons are sweeter and a cup of tea is more refreshing when you can have the privilege of signing your name to a document that tells Congress 'where to get off' in the matter of taxing us," was a woman's comment today.

The petitions placed in hotels in charge of young women secretaries found many signers. Visitors from out of town who had not had an opportunity to express their views on the income tax levied on those who work with brain or brawn were among the most eager to put their names on the petitions. As a result the hotel petitions bearing the signatures of people from all parts of the country were among the first filled up.

COUNCIL ACTS TODAY

The Dow Drug Stores, United Cigar Stores and other public places today received stocks of petitions. These are for use wherever they be made available and proprietors of stores, news stands, gasoline stations, garages and public offices where people congregate may obtain the special petitions on request at the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

In Pittsburgh City Council late today a resolution framed by James F. Malone, president of Council, is scheduled to be presented. Pittsburgh is the first city in the country to take official action in the income tax movement. At the same time a resolution introduced by Representative M. A. Musmanno is pending in the Pennsylvania Legislature. It calls on Congress for prompt action in the downward revision of taxes on earned incomes.

WOMAN ROUTS PROWLERS

An Allison Park woman frustrated an attempt by five young men to rob her home early today when she scattered tear gas among them. The intruders fled, carrying one of their number who was overcome.

The woman, Mrs. Harry Henglesberg, was aroused by noises outside her bedroom several hours after midnight.

Seeing the prowlers in the adjoining room she emptied a tear-gas fountain pen in their direction. Consternation and flight followed.

The alleged burglars were reported arrested within a few blocks of the home by members of the state highway patrol, who had been notified by Mrs. Henglesberg.

Michael Royco, 16, of 629 Blanton street, one of the suspects, was said to have been overcome.

The others were registered on police dockets as Tom Ross, 15; Ralph Ellis, 16, of 529 Farnsworth street; Vincent Durnin, 17, of 19 Blanton street, and James Snyder, 16, of 190 Alder street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henglesberg live on the second floor over their confectionery store.

VIATRIX WHO MADE AIR RECORD WIFE OF MAN HERE

Louise McPhetridge, who Sunday, in Oakland, Cal., established a new airplane endurance flight record for women, in private life is the wife of H. V. Thaden, of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Thaden moved to Pittsburgh two weeks ago to direct the manufacture of Thaden all-metal airplanes, recently purchased by Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation.

H. V. Thaden

"Mrs. Thaden," he said today, "has been flying about a year and a half. She's a good pilot."

When she landed at Oakland Airport yesterday she had been aloft 22 hours 3 minutes and 12 seconds. The former record of 17 hours 5 minutes and 37 seconds was held by Miss Bobby Trout, Los Angeles. On December 7 Miss McPhetridge, or Mrs. Thaden, established a new world's altitude record for women of 20,720 feet.

Mr. Thaden, a captain in the World War, aviation section, has long been noted as an expert pilot by men in the air industry. He also is a balloon pilot. The 1928 national balloon race, from Bettis Field, was the first race he had failed to participate in in seven years. A captain the Army Reserve Flying Corps, he is being transferred to the Three Hundred and Twenty-fourth Observation Squadron, Rodgers Field.

SETS ENDURANCE RECORD

Mrs. Thaden, who established a new woman's airplane endurance record over Oakland, Cal., at 22 hours 3 minutes and 12 seconds, is the wife of H. V. Thaden, of Pittsburgh.

"DONALD" "JOHN" "HERBY"

In Pittsburgh, even at St. Roselia Maternity Hospital, where foundlings are taken, babes are handled differently. All in a nice crib together, Don was found in a vestibule, John on a doorstep, and Herby on a porch, almost frozen from exposure.

"TOM" OF ST. ROSELIA'S

JUST "HARRY," AN OLD SOBER-SIDES
Harry's nine months old now and at St. Roselia's. There are only five foundlings there, almost a novel situation for almost always before they were many for adoption. A two-year-old state law requiring mothers to stay with their babies at least two months is believed responsible.

JOSEPH F. GERACI

Joseph Geraci started saving when he was 10 years old. At first he had his mother keep the money for him, but since he has grown older he has, of course, deposited his savings in the bank, where it earns interest.

Some of the recipients of the Sun-Telegraph thrift gifts have announced they would leave the new deposits remain in the bank. Others have said they would use these unexpected windfalls to purchase some long-desired comfort or pleasure.

All of these beneficiaries of the Sun-Telegraph's thrift encouragement—and there have been scores of them—have realized fully that the money was given as a reward for thrift.

Each of the checks awarded is a seed of thrift, sown in the hope that the recipient some day will reap a full crop of happiness and contentment from the soil of hard work and careful spending.

You have the opportunity right now to plant the seed of thrift for yourself.

DESSAU, Germany, March 18. —(AP.)—The Junkers airplane works announced today that one of the regular air service planes between Cracow and Lemberg had been attacked by an eagle and its progress greatly impeded.

PLANE RESCUES PASTOR, DOGS CARRY WIFE

NORTH BAY, Ont., March 18.—(AP.)—A missionary's wife who cared for her injured husband five weeks at a Hudson Bay trading post until a plane took him to a hospital, today was preparing to mush 200 miles to his bedside.

After the Rev. George Morrow, whose hip was broken in a toboggan accident, had been received in a hospital at Cochrane, Mrs. Morrow listened in on her radio at Moose Factory and was told of his safe arrival. She immediately made plans to join a dog team party going south.

The injured missionary made the journey from the Northern Ontario post by airplane, sleigh and train. Capt. Roy Maxwell, of the Provincial air force, who piloted the rescue plane, suffered a frozen nose and chin.

The airman said on his arrival here that at the post there was very little medicine and no skilled medical attendant to check the ravages of tuberculosis among the Indians.

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP.)—It is reported here from Constantinople that Leon Trotsky, exiled Soviet war chief, has told Albert Grzesinski, Prussian minister of the interior, that if allowed to enter Germany he will remain in Prussia and no other state.

JETTA GOUDAL'S 'TEMPER' RIGHTS UPHELD BY COURT

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(AP.)—A Superior Court ruling upholding the right of Jetta Goudal, motion picture actress, to indulge in tempermental outbursts at the expense of the film producing company which employed her, was handad down here by Judge Leon Yankwich.

Miss Goudal sued Pathe Studios, Inc., for $90,000, claiming that amount due her for services. The decision, which held that as an "artist" Miss Goudal was not subject to the same rules of obedience as a menial, awarded her $31,000.

The suit resulted from the discharge of Miss Goudal, then under contract to the Cecil B. DeMille Productions, which later was absorbed by Pathe, in September, 1927, because "temperamental outbursts constituted a breach of contract by herself."

Motion picture circles today predicted that the decision would place an entirely new light on the relationship of players with their employing producers. It was said that it might result in the upset of the whole contract system and the development of an entirely new type of working agreement between movie employer and "artistic" employe.

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 18. —(AP.)—The unidentified body of a man, apparently about 60 years old, was found by schoolboys in a small creek near Newlinsburg. HEFLIN PELTED WITH MUD BROCKTON, Mass., March 18.—(AP.)—Senator Heflin, of Alabama, was the target for mud and stones yesterday while here to address an audience under the auspices of Mayflower Klan No. 2, realm of Massachusetts Ku Klux Klan.

Arriving at Vasa Hall, where 800 guests of the Klan awaited him, Heflin was subjected to the jeers and catcalls from a group of about 100 gathered outside. During his address, in which he roundly denounced the Pope, Mussolini, the Knights of Columbus and Roman Catholics, a stone was hurled through a window near the stage. The senator's car was showered with a handful of pebbles.

When he left the hall Heflin was greeted by jeers. As he entered his automobile several in the crowd hurled mud at him.

Declaring that his life had been threatened in an effort to prevent him from speaking here, Heflin said that he had the word of 37 men representing three fraternal organizations that they would avenge him if he were killed.

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 18.—Jefferson County authorities, investigating the shooting of Carl Mossor, 39, World War veteran, at his home in Rush Run, last night, were convinced his wound was self-inflicted and that an attempt at suicide was prompted by worry over financial difficulties. The warden's resignation, which he announced last night, followed a disclosure by the Department of Justice Saturday that Mr. Snook had been given 30 days in which to resign, "because of utter lack of administrative ability."

Published reports recently told of two instances of the "planting" of Justice Department agents in the Atlanta prison. Peter Hansen, committed from Detroit a year ago, was transferred to Leavenworth Federal Prison and later released. Joseph Montana entered the prison after pleading guilty in Cincinnati to a charge of violating the national automobile theft act. He was released after serving two weeks of a three-year sentence.

Boy Ends Life For Failure to 'Live Proudly'

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Unable to live proudly, although he got a kick out of life, as he explained, Allan McLane Mowry, 19, and a member of a prominent family, shot and killed himself yesterday.

In a note addressed to his sister, Mrs. Hamilton Adler, in whose apartment he was found, he said in part:

"This is Nietzsche's philosophy, 'When it is no longer possible to live proudly, one can at least die with a semblance of pride.' "

Enclosed with the note was a receipt for a burial plot in Greenwich, Conn.

"No one can imagine how I hate and loathe doing this," his letter continued, "because I do get a kick out of life."

75 BABIES, NONE FOR ADOPTION, AT ROSELIA

Babies galore, abandoned babies, found on front porches and in boxes; babies without acknowledged paternity babies of all sorts—but none for adoption.

That's the status of the Roselia Maternity Hospital, Cliff street haven for the foundlings and unfortunates of Pittsburgh. The reason, according to Sister De Pahl, superintendent, is the two-year-old law that mothers must stay with their infants for two months.

Prior to this state regulation, infant mortality was high and adopted youngsters were many. The mothers, after they were able to be around, left the tots to the mercies of the sisters or other hospital agencies in the state. Drab futures faced many of the infants.

The law has the advantage of making the mothers get acquainted with their young, and few will give their babies up after that. Few of the tots die, where previously many did, through malnutrition and inability to get a good start.

And childless parents have a difficult time adopting.

In all, Roselia Maternity Hospital has 75 children ranging from a few days to 4 years. Five of them are foundlings—found on the streets.

9 SEEK 2 SENATE BODY JOBS

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—A spirited contest is reported in progress for the two Republican vacancies on the powerful Senate Foreign Relations Committee with nine applicants for the posts.

The contest seems to narrow down to a race between some of the Western independents and some of the "old guard." Chairman Borah, who is counted among the independents, is expected to use his influence for the candidates in this classification with a view to cementing his control over the committee.

Three Republicans on the committee bolted Borah's leadership for a while on the Kellogg anti-war treaty — Moses, New Hampshire; Johnson, California, and McLean, Connecticut. The latter is not a member of the new Senate.

With the prospect of disarmament conferences and resulting treaties, Borah naturally is anxious to make sure of his control in the committee.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the new chairman of the Republican Committee on Committees, holds the answer to the filling of the committee vacancies, but he is withholding comment until his committee meets.

Gladys Vanderbilt Honored at Barnard

NEW YORK, March 18.—(INS.)—Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Vanderbilt, of White Plains, N. Y., today assumed her duties as president of the Undergraduate Association of Barnard College. This is the highest honor given a Barnard student and follows Miss Vanderbilt's success as a dancer in "1929 junior show."

QUEEN MARIE, CAROL FA TO MEET ON PARIS VIS

PARIS, March 18.—(AP.)—If Queen Marie saw her e rant son, Prince Carol, during her 12-hour visit here yesterday she did so in strictest secrecy and Parisians generally know nothing of it.

At the Rumanian legation today it was said "the Queen did not see Carol." No one was found who actually had seen Carol and at the hotel where he usually stays it was said it was believed he had gone to Nice for the day.

Inasmuch as his mother and sister, Princess Ileana, are known to have changed their original plans for a visit to Brittany to include a stop-over at Paris for a conference with him—at his own earnest request—the situation baffled those observers with an interest in Rumanian national affairs.

Queen Marie arrived here at 8:30 a. m., and went shortly afterward to the home of Marshal Foch to pay her respects to the bedridden old soldier. Owing to his condition she was not permitted to see him. She made three visits thereafter at the homes of friends on the Champs Elysee and the Avenue Bois de Boulogne, leaving with Ileana at 8:20 p. m. for Saint Briac, near Dinard, to visit her sister, the Grand Duchess Cyril of Russia.

Carol and his mother may have met at one of those three homes, but it was said the visit at each was so short there would have been little time for more than greetings, had such a meeting taken place there.

The feeling was that Queen Marie had been warned of the possible political consequences of a meeting and had chosen to forego it.

It was said she would remain at her sister's a few days and then make her visit to the international expositions at Seville and Barcelona, Spain. She intends then to return to Rumania, where Carol's son, Michael, is king under a regency.

MAYOR, COUNCIL TIME LIMIT BILL COMES UP TONIGHT

2 CONSECUTIVE TERMS ALL ALLOWED

HARRISBURG, March 18.—The bill that would prevent Pittsburgh mayors or councilmen from serving more than two consecutive terms is on first reading calendar in the House tonight.

The bill, introduced by Representative Joseph M Schilling, Democrat, Erie, would affect every member of Council except Harry A. Little, who is nearing the end of his first term.

It was brought to Harrisburg by Lieut. Thomas Malone, of the Pittsburgh Detective Bureau, a fact which is regarded as significant politically. Some believe it is a move on the part of the Kline administration to strike back at Council. Others regard it as part of the movement to punish the present members for their failure to increase the pay of Pittsburgh firemen and policemen.

PAY MEASURE DELAYED

The Mansfield measure, which would have the people of Pittsburgh vote on the proposition to increase the police and fire pay rates, is on the postponed calendar in the Senate. It was recalled from the Governor when he made it known he would veto it unless some of its provisions were changed. He especially opposed the provision that would require Council to boost the pay rates in the event the raise was approved by the voters.

The Talbot bill fixing the gasoline tax at 3 cents and providing that it be collected from wholesale distributors is on second reading in the House. On the same calendar are the Hess measure licensing barbers and a number of measures sponsored by the Crime Commission. The last named measures do not include the bill providing life imprisonment for habitual offenders.

BILLS UP IN SENATE

Outstanding bills on the Senate third reading calendar for tonight are:

The Salus measure regulating the carrying of firearms and requiring licenses.

The Marcus bill increasing the fees of the coroner of Allegheny County, which already had passed the House.

The Goehring bill codifying the divorce laws.

The Lamb bill prohibiting the erection of dams more than 100 feet in height, which is supported by the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and is aimed especially at the proposal of the Clarion River Power Company to erect two enormous dams at Foxburg and Millcreek. Should these dams break, it is said, more than 800,000,000 tons of water will sweep down the Allegheny River, raising it 25 feet at Pittsburgh.

AIR PROPOSALS IN HOUSE

On first reading in the House appear the Turner bills establishing the legal status of air navigation and licensing airmen and aircraft, and the bill of William T. Bell raising the pay of the chairman and the secretary of the Allegheny County Board for the Assignment and Revision of Taxes from $5,000 to $6,000.

On second reading in the House is the Hagmaier measure providing for the election of the members of the county board of viewers and the Marcus bill giving the salary board authority to raise the pay of tipstaves to $2,600.

The new motor code, embodied in the Griffith bill, is on third reading in the House and unless sufficient votes are mustered against it, will pass tonight. Some amendments are to be made in the Senate, according to reports. Parts of the administration highway program are found in bills on the calendar and the rest will come out of committee this week.

The Memolo bill fixing the penalty for selling or giving away slot machines, punchboards or other gambling devices at two years' imprisonment or $2,000 fine or both is on first reading in the House.

Young's Selection Opposed by Labor

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 18.—(AP.)—John F. Gatelee, president of the Springfield Central Labor Union, has wired William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asking on behalf of 10,000 trade unionists in this city that the latter protest vigorously to President Hoover against the appointment of B. Loring Young as first assistant attorney general of United States. Gatelee declared that Young's proffered services as a public servant were decisively and overwhelmingly rejected by the electorate of Massachusetts in the recent election. Gatelee also charged that Young is [illegible] gistered lobbyist for the associ- [illegible] industries of Massachusetts.

enley Oval Used or Plane Take-Off

Schenley Oval was used as [illegible] nergency air field yesterday [illegible] n Harry W. McGee, assistant [illegible] pilot for the airplane division of the Ford Motor Company, took off there in a giant tri-motored Ford monoplane for a flight to Bettis Field. The big ship, which had been shown at the Motor Square Garden air show, left the ground after a 350-foot run down the oval. The wings were removed for the trip to the oval and the ship had to be reassembled there yesterday afternoon. It was to leave Bettis Field today.

Woman Dies as Auto Overturns on Hill

CUMBERLAND, Md., March 18.—When her automobile upset in trying to pass another car on the brow of a hill, Mrs. Mary C. Reynolds, 66, was killed on the McMullen highway last night. The car was driven by her son, Raymond, who was only slightly injured.

No Fish, Hoover Scorns Summer White House

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Discouraged at the paucity of anything except tadpoles in the streams of Mt. Weather, Va., President Hoover will not utilize the $48,000 appropriated by Congress for a summer White House there, it was just learned.

One of the last acts of President Coolidge was to sign the bill providing for the Blue Ridge Mountain retreat, and it was commonly supposed that Mr. Hoover had been consulted. If he was, however, he apparently has changed his mind.

Mt. Weather, within easy commuting distance of Washington, was selected by Mr. Coolidge because of its extraordinarily beautiful scenery. For a fisherman president, however, scenery is hardly enough.

CLUB HOSTESS ASKS BIG SUM

cause she would be ruined if the matter came out.

WRITES TO THAW

A letter written by her to Thaw on January 7, a week after the party, was read into the evidence.

In the letter she told Thaw that she was going to forget the incident as she wanted no publicity and that she would see him from time to time at her dances. She also invited him to attend one of her events.

The red evening dress worn by Miss Estardus the night of the party was exhibited and she burst into tears as she identified the torn gown.

She removed her hat and said that Thaw had torn her hair out and that part of it had turned white from the treatment.

STARTED IN APARTMENT

The whole affair started, Miss Estardus said, in the Washington Square apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Alexander, where she was on a party New Year's eve, 1927.

"At the Alexander party, I met Pendleton, and when the affair broke up went with him to Texas Guinan's Club," she said.

"Were you drinking at the Alexander party?" William B. Roulston, her attorney, asked.

"Yes, I had cocktails—maybe two, maybe three.

"We then got into taxicab, Pendleton, myself and another couple, and went to Guinan's. We had decided to go home when Pendleton suggested that I go with him to breakfast.

"We then drove to a house on West 75th street and went into a dining room. That is where Thaw appeared."

"Had you ever met him before," her attorney asked.

"Yes, at a roadhouse and also at a hotel where I was conducting a dance.

COOKED BREAKFAST

"Pendleton, however, introduced me and I fried eggs and fixed coffee for the party, which consisted of six persons.

"Among the persons at the party was Countess Olga, otherwise known as Tamara Thomas."

Miss Estardus, quietly dressed in blue, told of a marriage with a naval officer during the war from whom she was now divorced.

Previous to the girl's testimony, her mother, a white haired lady, had testified.

She said that her daughter, Mae O'Neill, was the sole support of the family which consisted of herself and her crippled husband.

Previous to Mrs. O'Neill's appearance on the stand, Roulston panned Thaw as a notorious philanderer and a "scallywag."

CHARGES ATTACK

Roulston said that he would show "that the girl was enticed to go into a compartment in the residence of Thaw, who attacked her, knocked her down and bit her."

"My client," Roulston said, "suffered natural damages in person and spirit from such an attack."

"We will also show," he said "that she was ashamed and humiliated and did not tell her mother or anyone of the attack until a month after it occurred.

"It will not be easy to prove, as everyone at the party where the attack was made was a friend of Thaw."

TELLS OF NIGHT CLUBS

McGrath started his cross-examination of Miss Estardus by questioning her regarding her activities along Broadway.

She declared she was executive secretary of the Film Players' Club and related details of her operation of a night club. She added that she staged supper dances at $25 per couple and furnished girl companions for men at parties. This latter statement she modified by saying she provided girls only for men she knew very well and could trust.

McGrath tried to confuse her with questions regarding the slapping. She said she couldn't be sure whether Thaw hit with a book or a hair brush because she was fighting for her life.

"Are you sure that Thaw bit you?" the attorney asked.

"Yes, I am sure he bit me because the teeth marks still show on my arms," she replied.

Miss Estardus explained that there were six others at the party. They tried to help her escape Thaw, she said, but he pushed her into another room and locked the door.

FEDERAL COURT OPENS AT ERIE

The regular March term of Federal Court opened at Erie today with Judges R. M. Gibson and F. P. Schoonmaker presiding. It was expected the list of cases would require a week to hear.

The most important case on the list was the so-called interstate liquor conspiracy. There was a probability, however, that it would be held over until the special April term of court here, since five of the defendants have not been apprehended. One of the defendants, Sheriff Arno S. McClellan, of Greene County, still has a decision pending on a preliminary hearing he had before the United States Commissioner Thursday.

Greene County Women Elect

Hook, president; Mrs. Wayne Scott, first vice president; Miss Dora Hawkins, second vice president; Miss Belle Rinehart, third vice president; Mrs. Murdock Fuller, fourth vice president; Mrs. Mary Hoge, recording secretary; Mrs. J. L. Fulton, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. L. R. Hawn, treasurer.

Missing Phila. Woman Is Suicide

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP.)—The body of Mrs. Bessie Thoman, of Philadelphia, who has been missing from her home in the suburb of Dahlem since December 28, was found in a forest district today imbedded in snow. Thawing weather revealed it.

The authorities said that Mrs. Thoman had obviously committed suicide as both radial arteries were cut with a razor found beside the body.

CITY'S SHAMROCKS

DOZEN MEETINGS MARK ST. PATRICK'S DAY HERE

Shamrocks still grace buttonholes above Irish hearts in Pittsburgh and its suburbs today as the friends of Erin prepared to celebrate socially the birthday of the island's patron saint, whose glories were told yesterday at a dozen meetings in the district.

At the largest of these, a gathering in the Harris Theater of members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, 1,000 persons sang Irish songs and heard addresses by members of city Council and several judges.

Councilman James F. Malone was chairman and introduced Judges James B. Drew and Frank P. Patterson.

The Rev. Lawrence A. O'Connell, of Epiphany Church, and Thomas J. Minnick, Philadelphia attorney, also spoke.

Wife Ill in 700-Mile Hike, Husband Jailed

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 18.—Accused of causing the temporary insanity of his wife by under-nourishment and exposure on a 700-mile hitch-hiking trip from Nashville, Tenn., to Dover, John Hooks, 30, was sentenced to the Stark County workhouse by Probate Judge J. H. Lamneck to stay as long as his wife remains in the Massillon State Hospital. Their two-month-old child was committed to the Tuscarawas County Children's Home.

FISHER POLICE BILL ATTACKED

The administration coal and iron police bill was condemned as inadequate and "a slap in the face to labor" at a meeting sponsored by the American Civil Liberties Union in the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House last night. Members of the Socialist and Communist parties here and a few trade union representatives attended.

A resolution calling for heavy bonds and close limitation of authority for industrial police was passed. Representative A. M. Musmanno, who introduced the bill in the House, was scored for weakening its provisions. He suffered a similar attack in a round robin signed by 200 University of Pittsburgh students yesterday.

STATE BOSSES FAVOR 4-CENT GASOLINE TAX

trict into effect with as little change as possible will be approved.

That the tax on anthracite coal is to be reduced, provided that the boost in the gasoline tax is passed.

That the bill creating the proposed department of revenue, which will handle the collection of all taxes, be sped on its way through the Legislature. It already has passed the House with but one dissenting vote.

That the administration coal and iron police bill should be passed.

TO BOOST TAX

Statements by Gov. John S. Fisher today served to reinforce the report that Republican organization leaders in conference here have determined to boost the gasoline tax from three to four cents.

While the Governor declined to make a definite statement of his attitude toward the increased levy, he pointed out at some length that in his opinion the highway revenues are not commensurate with the amount invested in motor vehicles.

The revenue received to build roads is less than 5 per cent of the $1,750,000,000 invested in motor vehicles in Pennsylvania, he declared.

"The gasoline tax should not be called a tax, but an investment in roads or tracks over which the automobiles can operate," he said.

At the same time Gov. Fisher made it clear that Pittsburgh and other cities have no chance to get back a portion of the license fees. Reminding that Representative Joseph C. Marcus, Pittsburgh, is to introduce a bill returning 50 per cent of the fees to that city, the Governor said:

"If it reaches me, I will veto it."

Although there are 208 members of the House and 50 senators, only seven men in the state have any personal knowledge of what happened at the principal conference held last night in the Governor's mansion.

"BIG SEVEN"

These are Gov. Fisher, former State Chairman W. L. Mellon, State Chairman Edward Martin, Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association; Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods, A. Boyd Hamilton, secretary of the Senate, and A. E. Brice, secretary to Mellon.

"No definite decision was made about anything," said Hamilton, who apparently had been designated as spokesman.

About 3 legislative proposals were discussed, he said.

The conferences are being continued today. Added to those attending are Speaker Aaron B. Hess and Senator Horace W. Schantz, of Lehigh, president pro tempore of the Senate.

LEWIS NOT INCLUDED

Last night it was regarded as significant that State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis, who has been waging an aggressive battle against the gasoline tax boost, was not called into conference. He is scheduled to meet with at least some of the leaders late this afternoon.

No representative of the Vare Philadelphia organization has appeared as a member of the inner circle. Although some members of the assembly allied with that faction may get behind the closed doors later today. One certain to be called in is Philip Sterling, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

SIX BANDITS LOCK UP 50 IN $300 M'KEESPORT HOLDUP

2 HIGHWAYMEN ROB 4 TAXI DRIVERS

Six bandits lined up 50 visitors in a pool room at 1125 Locust street, McKeesport, against the wall early yesterday, robbed them of between $300 and $400, then locked the victims in the cellar and drove away.

One man stood guard at the door while his five companions frisked the crowd. They took a small amount of change from the till, $35 from the pockets of Dominic Cafiero, the proprietor and 16 packages of cigarets from the cigar counter.

After an hour the crowd locked in the cellar succeeded in breaking down the door and notifying police. No clues beyond a good description of the men, who were not masked, could be found.

CAB DRIVERS ROBBED

Four taxi drivers were robbed by two armed bandits in the Lawrenceville district last night. Joseph Grada, of 155 Forty-third street, was hired by the men to drive them to Cabinet way and Thirty-ninth street, where they robbed him of $2. They told him to keep on going, walked across the street and hired a cab driven by Edward Frain, of 4562 Carroll street. At Liberty avenue and Fortieth street they robbed Frain of $7.

A Negro and a white man who hired him in Liberty avenue robbed him of $18, Purvis Lloyd, taxi driver, of 805 Arch street, reported to police.

John Fryman, a cab driver, of 726 Ridge avenue, McKees Rocks, was robbed of $18 by two passengers at Thirty-ninth street and Cobert way, he reported.

Charles Haugh, a cab driver, of Lovett way, North Side, is in the McKeesport Hospital suffering from bruises and lacerations inflicted, he told police, by a man and a woman who attacked him in the Long Run road Saturday night after objecting to the size of their bill. A motorist found him lying in the highway.

HELD UP IN STATION

Two men held up R. K. Mead, of Wellington street, in the Shadyside station and robbed him of $45.

Walking in Schenley Park early yesterday, H. W. Jefferson, of 4219 Forbes street, was held up by two bandits and robbed of $8.

Aroused from bed when he heard noise in his home, C. D. Coleman, 530 Grandview avenue, grappled with a thief as he was about to walk out the front door with a fur coat on his arm, early yesterday. The robber, described as a young man, ran away, dropping the coat when Mr Coleman proved the stronger of the two. Mr. Coleman called police from the Mt. Washington station, who made a search of the neighborhood, but could not find trace of the thief. The coat is valued at $50.

FLOOD SURVIVORS TELL OF LONG HOURS OF HORROR

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

International News Service.

ELBA, Ala., March 18.—Graphic stories of thrilling experiences in flood-swept Alabama were related by refugees today as rescue workers at Elba, Geneva and other hard-hit cities strove to restore conditions to a semblance of normalcy.

Ben Lee, 80, a Confederate war veteran, is the only known casualty in Elba, although several Negroes were reported drowned here. Lee died of heart disease as he saw his home floating down the flood waters of Pea river. At Geneva there is no loss of life so far as known.

Property damage at Elba, a city of about 2,000 population in Coffee county, was estimated between $2,000,000 and $4,000,000. The property loss at Geneva, county seat of Geneva county with a population of 2,500, will probablye total $4,000,000.

Miss Thelma Paul, 21, a home girl, said she was atop of the May Building from Thursday at 11 a. m. until Saturday morning.

"I was almost starved, as were all the others atop the building," she said, "and we certainly were grateful when airplanes from Montgomery and Pensacola came swerving overhead and dropped food to us. In all that time I did not have a drink of water. None of us had."

The two telephone operators of Elba, Miss Vivian Harper and Miss Minola Libert, stuck to their posts as long as they possibly could.

They telephoned the plight of the city to nearby towns and were instrumental in bringing the first rescue workers to the scene.

Miss Olean Morrow, 22, an employe of the Alabama Oil Development Company, said her home was a wreck, and she was trying to find a trace of her mother, father and two brothers from whom she had become separated.

W. L. Moody, Elba's barber, wandered about looking for his family whom he understood were rescued.

J. G. Wyrosdick, prominent Elba merchant, who was marooned with 400 others in the May Building in the center of the flood district, praised Gov. Graves for sending assistance so promptly to Elba.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity for the accumulation of savings which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital and, since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

10 MORE PLANES ORDERED FOR FLOOD RELIEF WORK

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(INS.)—By air, land and water, the government moved today to succor the thousands of homeless and hungry flood sufferers in the southeastern stricken zone.

Eight coast guard vessels have started up the Choctawahtchee River with rations and supplies, under orders to proceed as far as possible. The cutter, Commanche, is standing by the Pensacola base and keeping in radio communication.

From Washington today were dispatched two representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission to report on what emergency railroad measures the commission can take to aid in the situation.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

The "Can-Opener" Wife

I HAVE been tip-toeing about with a flashlight recently looking for that much exploited creature, the "can-opener wife," who has been inspiring all the humorists with pointed paragraphs.

* * *

And I can't FIND her! She simply doesn't exist—outside of the imagination and the comic strips. She is as mythical as the rolling pin wife!

I have not run across a single woman—or even a married one—who could not turn out a serious meal, with broiled steak, French fried potatoes and home-made biscuits as a basis. I have not met a single "delicatessen husband," who meekly munched canned baked beans and cold potato salad in place of food. It has been an awful shock!

* * *

All this flutter over the failings of the modern wife is apparently just a masculine FEAR-COMPLEX. Man has seen the arrival of the vacuum cleaner, the electric cooker, the patent dishwasher and all the ready-to-serve things that come in cans; and it has filled him with an appalling fear! Some day he may come in and NOT find a woman BUSY!

* * *

And man's pet pleasure, his one grand passion, is to see a woman BUSY around the house!

Some day he may zigzag home from the office, only to find his wife lolling on a chaise lounge reading the latest best seller, instead of hustling and bustling above the place, getting things ready for his grand entry. Breathless, flushed and panting with excitement!

* * *

Not that the modern man really LIKES the heavy, gravy-soaked dinners with which his mother stuffed him. He doesn't. He hates to wear darned socks and patched underwear and cravats that have been cleaned with gasoline.

He secretly loathes a house that is so spick and span that he can't throw his things around in it and put his feet on the furniture and drop his ashes anywhere. He much prefers a dog tent to a "home" that is kept going like a boiler factory half the time in order that it may look like a mausoleum the other half.

* * *

It's just the IDEA of the thing! The mental picture of "the busy little woman" fussing and rushing around dolling up the landscape for the coming of her royal lord and master—THAT'S what appeals to him!

* * *

It doesn't particularly matter what she's doing, just so she's DOING something—folding and unfolding his newspaper, pretending to dust the walls, or rearranging the flowers. If a woman should ever actually stop DOING things she might THINK—or something. That is why the average man spends half his time thinking up things for a woman to DO.

* * *

The modern wife who runs a house so easily and efficiently that you don't hear or see the domestic wheels go round just spoils the whole picture for him. He wants to smell the dinner cooking and hear it sizzling and see the family rushing around as though something were really HAPPENING when he makes the royal entrance. That's why he is suspicious of every new invention that makes a woman's work lighter—especially of the can opener!

Horoscope

Tuesday, March 19

THE astrological forecast for this day may be said to assist those of good business acumen and persistency to reap where they have sown, as Jupiter helps the judgment and reasoning powers, spurs the ambitions and gives fertility and resourcefulness. These may nullify the variability of Mercury, unfriendly this day to contracts, promotion and correspondence, and the malign force of the Neptune aspect. With probity and prudence in handling funds, speculation and finance may flourish, but beware new and untried ventures.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which their own merit, sound judgment and prudence may win out over some adverse and menacing conditions. They should be wary as to new ventures and in signing all writings.

A child born on this day may be ambitious, resourceful and well equipped for success and position.

Doris Virginia Grover of 200 a "Q" Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., had a bad cough with a tickling in her throat that meant no sleep for the family. Mother gave her REM and how quickly relief followed!

Tickling isn't fun

when a cough causes it

"My little daughter Doris Virginia gets coughs every winter," says Mrs. J. W. Grover, Jr. "When she gets one, she often gets an awful tickling in her throat. We had tried a number of cough medicines but never found one we could depend on. We were all kept awake once when she had a specially bad cough. I saw a REM ad in the paper and got a bottle at the drug store at 2nd and Pennsylvania Ave., S. E., near where we used to live. REM relieved her cough at once--and since then, there's always a bottle of REM in the house."

Restless nights don't do coughs any good. Many a person has REM to thank for a good night's sleep.

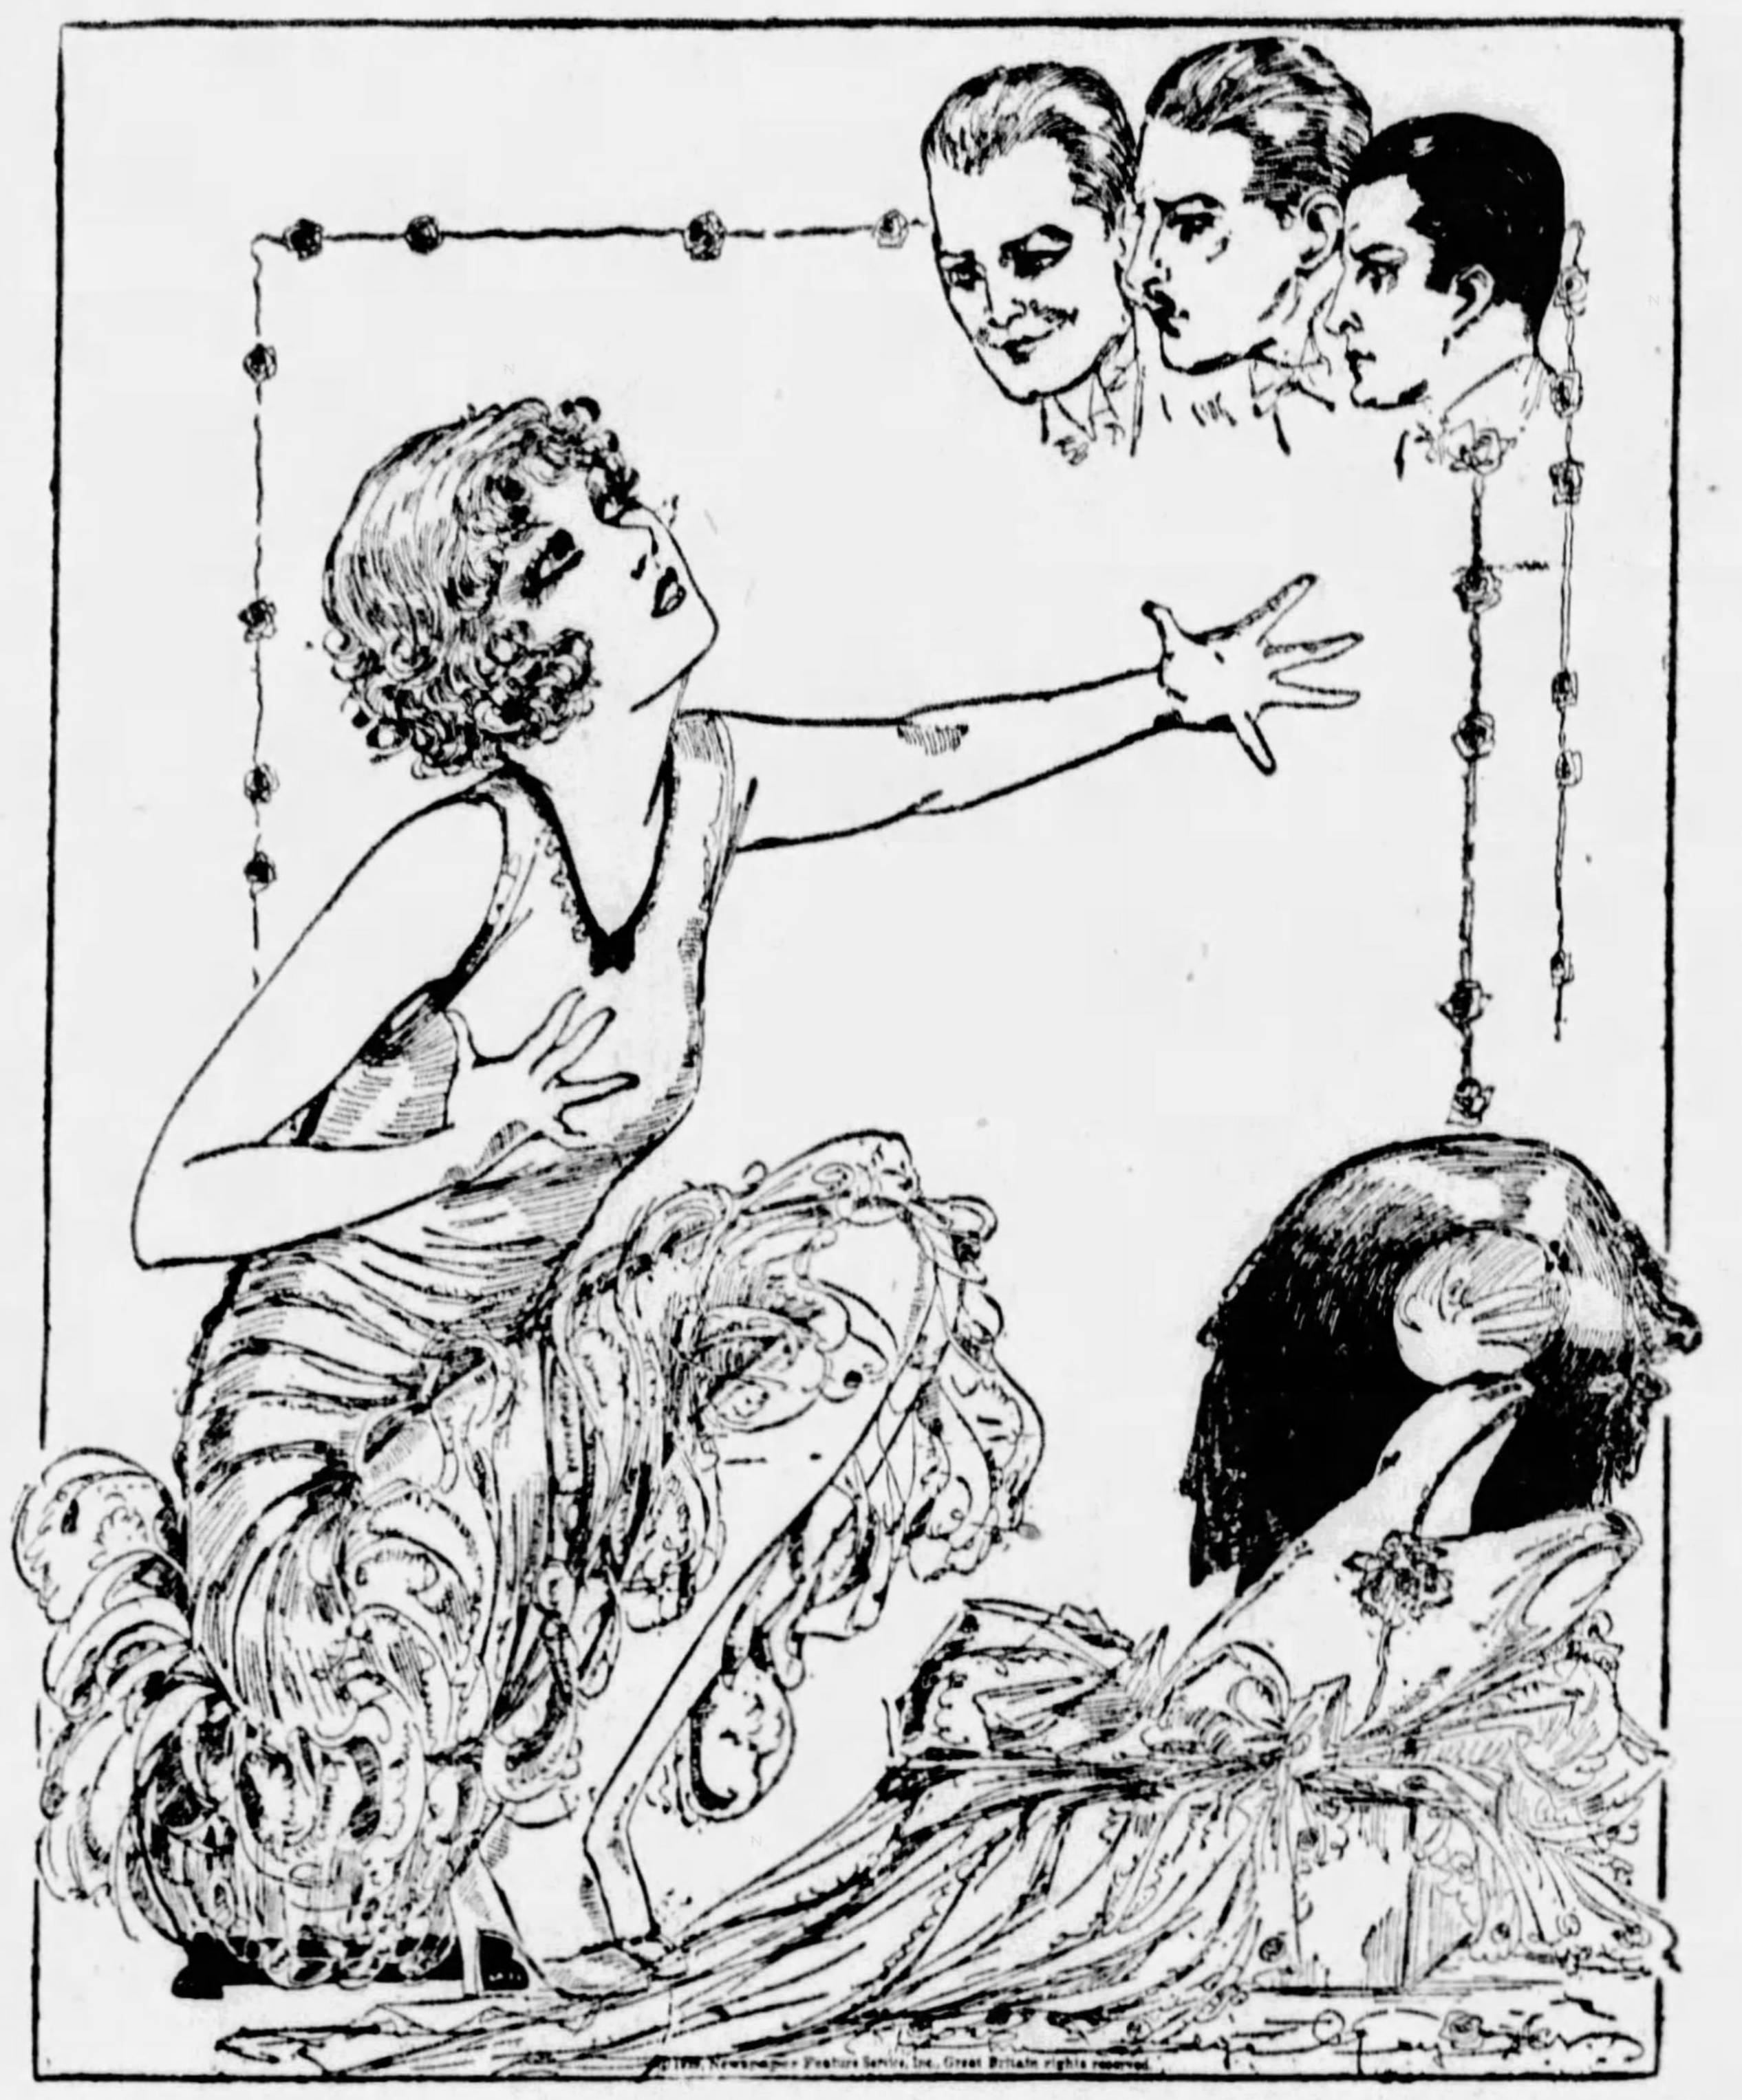
The Flirt's Sacrifice -:- By Madge Geyer



©1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

WHAT is the thing nearest my heart that I can sacrifice for Lent? Candy? Theaters? Clothes? Oh, I simply couldn't do without all those things. And besides—well, they really are essentials. I suppose I should do without some one of them, but it's really impossible. Oh! I know what I'll do! I'll give up all my boy friends! Really, that will be about the hardest thing I can do! For whatever in the world will happen to me? They'll think I've suddenly gone crazy. And those girls who are so jealous of me will get a chance to vamp them! But I'm not worrying! For I know each one of them thinks that HE is the only one! Silly, aren't they? And it will at least let me look around and find some new ones. Why, it will be just like a game, won't it? Only, maybe they won't come back after Easter, and then what in the world will I do? Oh, well, I guess I won't, but I really should you know, for their attention is the greatest thing in the world to me. I guess "once a flirt, always a flirt!" Wonder if I'll ever find the right one?

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge's Sternness With Lillian Staves Off Hysteria

NEVER in all our association had I spoken to Lillian with such brusque sternness. But I felt it was necessary to convince her that hysteria on her part might spoil our plan. I insisted that her husband's going away for the remainder of Marion's vacation might be the very thing which would solve her problem.

Hysteria! The word, held in such contempt by Lillian whose perfect poise is as much a part of her as her features, caromed around the room, came back to us, only to be thrown out again by the woman whose shoulders I held.

"Hysteria," she repeated, not angrily as I had expected, but reflectively, as though I had presented a new idea for her consideration. "I never expected to see the day I'd have that word handed to me, but I guess I deserve it at that. First I give you an imitation of a laughing hyena over this thing and then turn on the waterworks. You did right by your Lil in swatting her good with that word, so you did. But I'm all right now. Look at me! Feel my pulse, if you want to. I've thrown my last monkey wrench in the machinery. I'm now ready to listen quietly while you tell me what you want me to do."

She was smiling now, not mirthfully, though nervously, as she had before, but with her old cheery composure. With a little sigh of thankfulness that inadvertently I had sounded the right note, I spoke with authority.

"Do?" I repeated. "Do nothing but acquiesce in whatever Harry tell you, and refrain, as Dicky would say, from spilling the well-known beans. Give this telegram to Harry as if you suspected nothing, be appropriately regretful that he has to go away, and then in these few days that are left to you of Marion's vacation devote yourself to her. Remember she is getting older all the time and—"

Her face quivered again but she mastered its tremors and the choke in her voice as she finished my sentence—

"And this is probably the last time she and I will be together like this without anyone else to divide our interest. Oh! don't you think I realize that? Don't you think I love it, but it seems so unfair to Harry just as he's bought the car and everything—"

"I don't know just what particular complex you're suffering from," I told her caustically, 'but I imagine it might be called a divided-duty-obsession. Suppose you put it aside and make up your mind for once in your life to take the goods the gods provide and stop worrying about anybody else. After all, your husband is an adult with the usual complements of brains and common sense. I don't imagine he'll commit suicide or become a dope smuggler just because he thinks he ought to go to New York for a week or two."

She laughed and brushed her hand across her face and eyes.

"The cobwebs are all gone, thanks to you," she said. "I'll do exactly as you tell me, and neither Marion nor Harry shall guess that I know a thing of this little plot. But I want to hear again something you said a minute or two ago. Do you really believe Marion is getting over her aversion to Harry? I hoped so when she came in from that ride. It was the real reason why I was able to laugh at Harry's attempts to treat me with dignity when Dicky tipped me off to what he was trying to pull. Otherwise I'd have felt more like weeping. But the poor boy was a sketch, wasn't he?"

"He was," I assured her dryly, then hastily added, "but a good sketch."

"Thank you," she laughed. "But I wouldn't have hit you for agreeing with me. I'm too happy over what you said about Marion. Of course, it's too much to hope that she will ever love him as she did—Robert."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Impromptu Call

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly tell me if it is considered proper in this section of the country to call unannounced at a friend's home? I am from another state, and there no one calls unless the date and hour are stated. Since I have returned mother has not invited friends to our home to see me, but expects me to bounce in on them and surprise them. I have been home two months and have not met any old friends, as I cannot feel that it is proper, even with old friends, to just walk in on them. Personally I would not appreciate it. MRS.

IT is quite correct to call on friends unannounced; that is, if the call is made at times of the day when the convenience of this would be taken for granted. The afternoon hours—from, say, 3 o'clock to 5 or half after 5 o'clock—are the hours when calls of this kind are made. If the hostess is "at home" to visitors, she will be delighted to have you come in to chat, and if she is "not at home" you will leave your card to register that you have come to pay your respects. "Not at home" may mean that your hostess is really not at home, or it may mean that she is "not at home to callers," that is, that she is dressing or resting or otherwise occupied so that it is not convenient for her to have callers.

Many hostesses now, in all sections of the country, set aside the tea hour for this kind of calls, and are "at home" to their friends every day, informally for tea, say between half after four and half after five, or on a certain day of the week. Often Sunday afternoon is the day set aside, for people who are occupied during the week find this the only day on which they can make this kind of call.

Walk "Plain"

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When a girl and young man are out walking, should the girl take his arm, or is it quite all right to walk "plain?"

2. When two girls enter a door, should the one who opens it hold it for the other to enter first?

3. Is it good form for a girl to ask a man to her home to play bridge, if he has never asked to take her out? E. K.

I HAVE never heard that expression before, but thank you for it, for I have always needed just an expression. It is not only quite all right to walk "plain," but it is far better manners.

2. This is very polite.

3. Yes.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Avoid Poorly Fitted Shoes and Stockings

TO teeth and toes must go the palm for carrying misery to civilized man. Corns, bunions and decayed teeth have ruined the happiness and impaired the usefulness of millions.

DR. COPELAND

Primitive man had strong, clean and enduring teeth. Rough food demanded and received thorough chewing. Dental decay was rare indeed.

Primitive man wore no shoes. His toes were permitted to go where Nature intended. A line drawn through the length of the big toe and projected backward, ended in the middle of the heel.

It is a pity to think the physical body should grow less perfect as the direct result of civilized ways. But it has, certainly in some respects. That is particularly true of feet.

Men and women who are fussy to the last degree about their clothing will take any shape in shoes without question. They employ the best of tailors and dressmakers, but accept whatever is offered in footwear. Of course I am discussing fit and not materials.

During the World War there were many things given credit for "winning the war." I am sure no one can question that the physical condition of the soldiers was the chief factor. What was done to relieve them of foot ailments was no small part of this program.

Policemen and barbers, clerks in stores, farmers and laborers, housewives—everybody having occasion to stand on the feet hours at a time, can testify to the evil effects of foot defects. Tender feet, sore corns, aching joints, calloused soles—all these are bad enough. Then when these suffering feet are thrust into tight or ill-shaped shoes, there is increase of misery.

Don't neglect your poor suffering feet. Give a little thought to your shoes. Have them properly fitted.

Now about those corns: Do you know that there are well-equipped colleges where men and women are carefully trained in foot-care? As applied these days this profession has become really scientific.

It is possible to get rid of the ingrowing nails, thick corns, callouses and the other effects of wearing wrong foot gear. Don't fail to give yourself the benefit and comfort of such treatment.

May I remind you that it is not alone the shoes that must be borne in mind? Short stockings are capable of doubling up the toes and causing trouble.

Many persons pay dollars and dollars to have their finger nails manicured and never think of caring for their toes. Just because the fingers show is no excuse for limiting your care to them. You make a wreck of yourself by permitting sore feet to spoil your happiness.

Nerves are put on edge and health undermined by steady pain, no matter where it is located. Take care of your feet.

THE next time you see tiny Olive Borden, notice how exquisitely smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps her skin.

"It's so important for my skin to have the special velvety smoothness we mean by 'studio skin,' and Lux Toilet Soap is so splendid for it that I am delighted."

Smooth skin always wins

Hollywood directors find

9 out of 10 screen stars keep their skin lovely this way...

Mary Duncan, exotically lovely Fox star, says: "A screen star's skin simply must be silken smooth to be 'studio skin.' That's why I am so faithful to Lux Toilet Soap."

"BEAUTIFUL smooth skin is the great heart winner." George H. Melford, famous movie director, thus expresses the experience of 39 leading Hollywood directors.

"The public certainly takes to its heart the actress with a skin that shows flawless—faultlessly smooth—under the terrific test of the close-up lights," he continues. "Such a skin is a prime factor in making her a star."

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. It keeps their skin exquisitely smooth for that most important of all tests: the all-revealing close-up. And all the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms.

You, too, will find that this delicately fragrant white soap keeps your skin exquisite and smooth. Try it—today. And use it for bath and shampoo, too.

25,000 PLANS ENTERED IN TEMPERANCE CONTEST

As the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest enters upon its eleventh week, a survey of plans entered in the competition from all parts of the United States and from many other countries of the world, shows that nearly 25,000 solutions have been submitted.

Some of the "best minds" among this great outpouring of solutions to cure the evils of prohibition, is going to win the capital prize of $25,000 sponsored by William Randolph Hearst and offered through the Hearst newspapers. Lesser prizes of $5,000 and $1,000 may also be awarded by the board of judges. The names of the judges, who are among the most distinguished citizens of the United States, are soon to be announced.

DR. HARRIS' VIEWS

Dr. Louis I. Harris, general director of the public health service of the National Dairy Products Corporation, and formerly health commissioner of the city of New York, was invited to express his opinion on prohibition for the benefit of the prize contestants. His views follow:

"My chief objection to prohibition is that it has sought to precipitate upon the American people an edict for which they had not been prepared by education. It was, in reality, an effort to legislate virtue into the country.

"The abolition of the saloon would certainly be ideal; but the saloon has not been abolished—it has merely been forced to conceal its front. As a public health worker I have had the chance to see what the saloon does for society. In my years of district visiting in 'Hell's Kitchen' for the Vanderbilt clinic, I saw the misery wrought by the abuse of alcohol.

OPPOSITION AROUSED

"But reformers in seven-league boots, in the light of my experience, are bound not only to leave public approval behind them, but also to arouse public opposition. Scientists with a public health viewpoint, sociologists and economists are alike agreed in condemning alcohol as a public menace except when used most temperately. But the existing drastic and practically impossible legislation has, by its absoluteness defeated the very objects which rational minded public health workers are trying to achieve.

"Prohibition, if carried out logically in the interests of public health, would not confine itself merely to liquor, but would ban many articles we accepted in the daily diet of the prohibitionists themselves. Tea and coffee would be taboo.

URGES U. S. JURY

"I am not entering the Hearst temperance contest, but I would strongly urge the federal government to invite a jury of the highest type of scientists, physiologists, clinicians, economists and sociologists and let them state what they would seek to achieve in the interests of public welfare.

"Then I would suggest that the government call a jury of the best lawyers to enact into a practical law the aims of those who seek to serve human welfare. I would leave out of the plan all those elements that bring emotion and bigotry into the picture.

"I would ask the doctors if alcohol is a poison and if so to what extent. I would ask the sociologists if abuse of alcohol has wrought social havoc and if so, to what extent. I would ask the economists if its intemperate use had hurt the stability of the family, and if so, how much. Then, from the answers of these scientific-minded men, perhaps the basis of a solution of our present problem could be found."

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practicable temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize, shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

Tells Dyspeptics What to Eat

Strict Diets Often Unnecessary

It is a well-known fact that some foods have a strong tendency to produce excessive stomach acidity and consequent indigestion. By omitting from daily meals those foods that experience proves do not agree and limiting the diet to certain tasteless unappetizing foods, stomach troubles may in many instances be slowly overcome. Nine times in ten, however, indigestion, gas, etc., are due to excessive acidity and the premature souring of food in the stomach. Keep the stomach clean and sweet by freeing it of this extra acid and then sufferers can eat the foods they like best and as much as they want in reason and have no stomach trouble at all. Thousands of people do this daily by merely taking after every meal a little Bisurated Magnesia, which can be had at any good drug store in either powder or tablet form. Bisurated Magnesia instantly neutralizes stomach acids, stops food fermentation and meals digest as naturally and painlessly as in the stomach of a healthy child. Stomach comfort means a lot and most folks like good things to eat. Enjoy them both by making Bisurated Magnesia your daily after-eating protection.

Bank Stockholders To Pay 100 Per Cent

UNIONTOWN, March 18.—Stockholders of the defunct First National Bank of Dunbar are to be assessed 100 per cent in order to reach a final settlement in the affairs of the bank. This was made clear when Joseph A. Camble, receiver, petitioned the court for the right to dispose of or compound the remaining assets and to make whatever judgments deemed necessary on the assessment of stockholders.

The petition said the unpledged assets amounted to $180,615.10. So far the depositors have received dividends of 75 per cent with additional dividends to accompany the final report.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 18.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., gave a dinner party and a kitchen shower for Miss Harriet Ellison, of Boston, who golfs with him frequently. Miss Ellison is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eben H. Ellison. Her engagement to William Ferris, Jr., of Newton, Mass., was announced last fall. Mr. Rockefeller's personal gift to Miss Ellison was a collection of dimes for a bracelet to be worn in memory of their games together over the Ormond links.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

H. T. Skelding, Former Pittsburgher, to Wed New York Girl

OF LATE it's impossible for me to keep away from that bromide of conversation—the weather. But don't you think when the weather one's talking about is spring weather, one should be pardoned? After months and months of snow and cold rain and ruthless winds, it's no wonder that these sun-lit days we've been enjoying exclude almost everything from our minds and hearts. At first a lot of folks, like myself, regarded the weather with suspicion; we expected any morning to wake up to a snow-covered world. But one balmy day has succeeded another for so long that I'm tempted to believe spring is here to stay.

And I do hope so, for then, don't you imagine, we'll hear something definite about the spring weddings we've all been hearing rumors about?

A few dates have been named already. Besides hearing about wedding dates at home, there'll be those concerning former Pittsburghers, too, I'm sure.

MOST of our society folks remember the Skeldings, who were prominent in society here not so very many years ago. A son of the family, Henry T. Skelding, will be married in April, I learn. His fiancee, Lucie-Lee Hall, daughter of the Frank Griswold Halls, of Fifth avenue, New York, has named Saturday, April 20, as the date for her marriage to Mr. Skelding. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the New Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York. A reception at the Parke Lane will follow.

Mr. Skelding is the son of Mrs. Francis H. Skelding and the late Mr. Skelding, of Pittsburgh. The Skelding family now spends the greater part of the year in New York and Augusta, Ga. Mr. Skelding's father was at one time president of the First National Bank of Pittsburgh.

The bridegroom-elect was graduated from Princeton with the class of 1922. He is a member of the Tower and Princeton clubs. Now he resides in New York, where, like his father before him, he is engaged in banking. After the marriage the Skeldings will reside in Greenwich, where they'll find a goodly number of Pittsburgh's married sons and daughters.

All the girls in the bridal party are from New York. Dorothy Hall will be her sister's maid of honor, another sister, Mrs. Harry Lee Keel, will be matron of honor, and Martha Mithoffer, Alma Kline and Miriam Bradley will be the bridesmaids.

Paul Skelding will be his brother's best man. The ushers will be Alton Parker Hall, Theodore Oxholm, George Nichols, Richard H. Mansfield and James E. Brodhead.

Since we are naturally more interested in a former Pittsburgher, I've been talking more about the bridegroom-elect than the bride. Now I think you'd like to hear a bit about Lucie-Lee. She was graduated from St. Mary's School, Peekskill, N. Y., and from the Fontaine School, Cannes, France. Two years ago she was introduced to New York society at a dinner-dance. Since then she has continued her art studies in the states and in Europe.

ONE of the most important events of the week end, as far as the younger set is concerned, was Princeton's annual junior promenade, held Friday night in the university gymnasium. Of course the prom was followed by a number of other interesting events. There were dances, teas, dinners, swimming and water polo with the Navy and indoor polo with Yale.

Two of Pittsburgh's young women were among the 200 attractive girls from all over the country who were guests for the 2 week-end of the Princeton undergraduates. Caroline Crittenden, daughter of the William Jackson Crittendens, of Sewickley, who'll be a debutante next year, and Virginia Louise Johnston, daughter of the Charles Howard Johnstons, of Beechwood boulevard, who came out a year ago this winter, were the Pittsburgh "representatives."

ALL this talk about spring events might lead one to think perhaps the season at winter resorts was over. It will end soon, though, but in the meantime entertaining is reaching its height down south. And some folks are still arriving there.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Heinz arrived at Hot Springs just yesterday. And I daresay they'll do their share of entertaining.

SOME folks who are out of town aren't so far away as the South. Mrs. Frank Trevor Hogg, of Dallas avenue, and Miss Asenath E. Cavitt, of Roslyn Place, are in Philadelphia, where they're stopping at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

ONE of the most welcome additions to the list of events for our "little season" is the horse show held at the Allegheny Country Club. So I know you will be interested to know that the dates chosen this year are June 6, 7 and 8.

* * *

AN April wedding of interest will be that of Susan Shallenberger Power, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Power, Jr., of Wellesley avenue, and Max Van Palen Schoonmaker, son of Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, of the Bellefield Dwellings. The date chosen is April 6, and the ceremony will performed at 7 o'clock in the First Baptist Church. Katheryne H. Power will be her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Elizabeth Fordyce Daugherty, Elizabeth Lyons, Julianna Frauenheim, Helen Louise Cole and Louise Turner, all of Pittsburgh. Dr. Raymond Gerard Senour, of Cincinnati, is to be best man and the ushers will include Otto Carl Jaeger, of White Plains, N. Y.; Francis Joseph Quillinan, of New York, who is a son-in-law of Alfred E. Smith, you know; F. LeMoyne Page and John B. Foley, of Pittsburgh; Judge D. Paulson Foster, of Carnegie, and Russel Z. Noninger, of Washington, Pa.

THE marriage of Miss Harriet E. McCaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. McCaw, of Dennison, O., and James E. Hale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther R. Hale, of Dennison, was solemnized Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the McCaw home by the Rev. Dr. R. M. Freshwater, of New Philadelphia, O. The bride was graduated from the Pennsylvania College for Women in 1925 and has many friends here. She wore a gown of antique ivory satin trimmed with lace, and her tulle veil was held with a cap of lace and orange blossoms. She carried a colonial bouquet of roses and fresia. The attendants wore sunburn shades of rose satin and georgette and carried colonial bouquets of roses and sweetpeas. Mrs. L. M. Patterson, Jr., of New Philadelphia, as her sister's matron of honor, appeared in sand rose; Miss Sarah Chisholm, of Uniontown, roommate of the bride at college, as maid of honor, wore tea rose; and the bridesmaids, Mrs. T. W. McCaw, of Dennison, and Miss Eleanor Mowry, of Derry, Pa., were gowned in coral rose. Carl Walker, of Hillsboro, was best man and the ushers included Robert L. Hale, brother of the bridegroom; W. B. McCaw, of Grand Rapids, and T. W. McCaw, brothers of the bride; and L. M. Patterson, Jr., Mrs. Andrew Calhoon, of Beaver Falls, cousin of the bride, played the wedding music, with violin accompaniment by Mr. Calhoon. After a trip, Mr. and Mrs. Hale will be at home in Columbus, O. Mr. Hale is a graduate of Marietta College, class of 1925, and attended George Washington University. He is a senior in the college of law at Ohio State University.

AT a bridge luncheon given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. J. C. Campbell in her home in Cascade road, Forest Hills, announcement was made of the date chosen for the wedding of her sister, Miss Isabel Brechin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. * * *

MR. AND MRS. CLYDE C. TAYLOR, of Parkman avenue, Schenley Farms, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy May, to William B. Rodgers, son of Mrs. J. H. Rodgers of Babcock Boulevard and the Schenley Apartments. No date has been set for the wedding.

MRS. GEORGE A. BUSE and her daughter, Mrs. Malcolm Zander, of the Schenley Apartments, have left for an indefinite stay in California.

* * *

MISS BLANCHE and Miss Ellen Oyler, of Baum boulevard, who spent the early winter visiting friends in California, returned home by way of the Panama Canal, stopping in Central and South American countries and Havana.

SHOT TRYING TO STOP ROW, MOTHER ACCUSES HER SON

"My son, Anthony, shot me," Mrs. Jane Nardillo, 51, told police when they found her lying in bed in her home, 468 Williams street, yesterday, with gunshot wounds through the right hand and right thigh; "I tried to get the gun away from him when it went off," she continued.

According to the records at the Mt. Washington police station, her son, Mario Nardillo, 23, ran into the station house at 1 o'clock yesterday morning and told Sergt. Ben Reynolds that his father, Gabrielo Nardillo, 53, was beating his mother and that the door was locked. A squad of officers responded to the call, and found Mrs. Nardillo shot. The gun was found in a dresser drawer.

Police say that Mario and Patsy Borolli, 24, of 28 Albert street, had an argument in front of the home. Anthony, Mario's brother, went into the house and got his gun. The mother tried to get possession of the firearm, when it was discharged during the scuffle.

Yesterday before Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court, Anthony was held for court. Mario, his father, and Patsy were discharged.

Ward Worker Held In Rum Sale to Boys

Brandon in Morals Court yesterday on a charge of violating the Snyder act. Police testified that Pace, who is a minor ward political leader, had sold moonshine to the boys in his confectionery store at 1111 Federal street.

A Legion of Honor banquet at 6 o'clock will be followed by the conferring of degrees on more than 35 members by Frank A. Marshall, author of the DeMolay rituals, at 9 o'clock tonight. The ceremony, open to the public in the William Penn ballroom, will be broadcast over KDKA.

Mrs. Ralph C. Minehart will be hostess of the tea this afternoon, assisted by Mrs. George Rankin, Jr., Mrs. Thomas J. Jamison, Mrs. Phillip J. Brinkman and Mrs. John Mulvey. The ladies will be entertained tomorrow by a tour of the city.

'Hard Luck' Flier Upsets Twice in Two Planes

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., March 18.—(AP.) Emil Burgin, nicknamed "Hard Luck" by his fellow pilots because of the many accidents he has suffered, lived up to his name yesterday by turning over twice in two different planes within a few hours.

Taxiing down wind in a Fokker plane owned by the Acosta Aircraft Corporation, with Ben Yebora as a passenger, the wind lifted the tail of the plane and turned the ship over. Neither he nor Yebora was hurt, but the plane was damaged.

Burgin later tuned up another plane and took off. When up only a little distance motor trouble developed, causing him to make a forced landing in a field, turning over again. He again escaped injury.

$17,000 BONDS' FORFEIT ASKED IN U. S. COURT

Bond forfeiture judgments totaling $17,000, against 19 defendants who failed to appear for trial, have been entered in United States District Court by John D. Meyer, United States attorney.

Five of the judgments, for $500 each, are against Spiro Mitreff, Cleveland, O., who was surety in the cases of five Macedonians arrested for unlawful entry into the country. After being released on bond they disappeared, and Herbert J. Soothern and Frank Fisher, charged with bringing them into the country, were acquitted because the government was without testimony of the five men.

In addition to forfeiture of the amounts specified in the bonds, the sureties must pay interest from the date they were forfeited.

NEWSPAPERMAN DIES HERE

William Herron, well known throughout Pittsburgh, died Sunday morning at his home, Hale street and Hamilton avenue, East End, after a long illness.

Mr. Herron was born in Pittsburgh in 1861 and spent his entire life here. He entered the newspaper business when a boy in the employ of the old Pittsburgh Chronicle. From the Chronicle he went to the Pittsburgh Leader and four years later became circulation manager of the Pittsburgh Times. In later years he was employed in the circulation department of the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

"Two Bottles of Konjola Gave Me Amazing Relief"

Former Sufferer Had About Abandoned Hope—New Remedy Came to Rescue After All Else Had Failed.

The Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Sixth Street and Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh, does not spend all his time telling about the amazing accomplishments of this new and different medicine, Konjola. It is his happy experience to hear the joyous, voluntary indorsements of men and women who have benefited greatly through the use of this amazing medicine, Konjola. Not a day goes by but that he is besieged by those who either wish to know more about Konjola, or who wish to tell others of its wonderful merits. When you think of the proven, verified merits of Konjola, it is not surprising to know that this medicine succeeds in the most obstinate and chronic cases that have defied and resisted all medicines and treatments tried. Naturally Konjola does not base its success on promises, sweeping claims or theories, but on a bed-rock foundation of accomplishments and results. All who suffer and who would find new and glorious health, will be given a world of hope and cheer in the experience of Mr. John Moyta, 1259 Superior Avenue, Pittsburgh. Mr. Moyta made the following statement to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"Two bottles of Konjola gave me amazing relief—I had about abandoned hope, for all medicines and treatments failed to help me. I had about made up my mind that my case was beyond human aid. I had a severe case of kidney and liver trouble—serious to the extent that I tried everything recommended. Most of the medicines magnified those ailments rather than reducing them. The source of my trouble, I imagine, was indigestion. At times my back pained so dreadfully that I almost went mad. I was always listless; lacked ambition and energy. A day of work found me a physical wreck. So many failures took my faith in medicines and so when Konjola was recommended I did ot pay much attention to it.

"I continued to suffer—I was ally in a pitiable condition. eadily I grew worse—any day I pected a complete breakdown. en I began paying attention to many local and sincere insements of Konjola that were he papers. I wondered, could jola possibly benefit me? As a chance I determined to find ou myself. Lucky day! Soon this edicine proved to me that it was exactly what I always needed—that I was at last on the road to health and traveling fast. My kidneys became stronger and the pains less severe. A feeling of new strength, energy and ambition surged through my system. With the regulating of my liver, all my troubles vanished and once again I enjoyed glorious health. So you see, Konjola conquered when all else failed. That is why I publicly indorse it."

Just the same old story—success—just another proof, if added proof were necessary, of the exceptional merits of this master medicine. Do not give up hope, but take new courage for Konjola is at hand with a matchless record of triumphs.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Sixth Street and Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

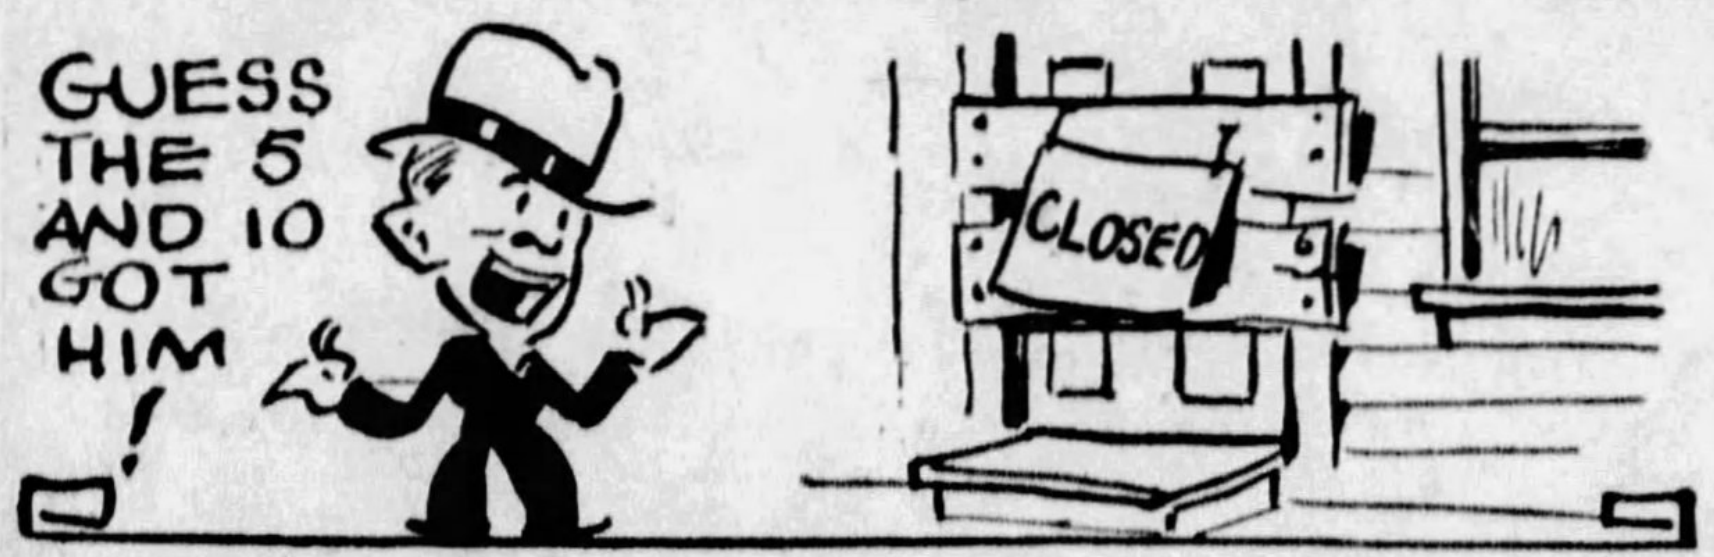
SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

HOW the recently signed Jones law is affecting Pittsburgh may be interesting to friends and enemies of prohibition. As you know this is what is called the 5 and 10 law, five years in the "coop" and a $10,000 fine.

It has, for one thing, caused several places of liquid merriment to close up without any further argument. Fun is fun, say these men who have quit the racket, but five years in jail they deem as bad cricket.

It has brought about in other places still running an increase in price. This on the age-old assumption that the gain should be commensurate with the risk. This increase in price, however, has affected so far only moonshine.



GUESS THE 5 AND 10 GOT HIM!
CLOSED

The Jones law also has brought about a small association of liquor dealers in one section of town modeled roughly after the fashion of old-time liquor dealers' associations in that joiners agree to abide by a certain code. This association will regulate prices. Dealers who do not join will find themselves in difficulties, say the sponsors of the new organization.

Finally, with a lot of the boys packing up their bottles and glasses, the Jones law is thrusting more business on the men who have elected to remain in the trade. Wary customers are looking for a tilt in the price of the stuff, but so far no advance is recorded by my secret service.

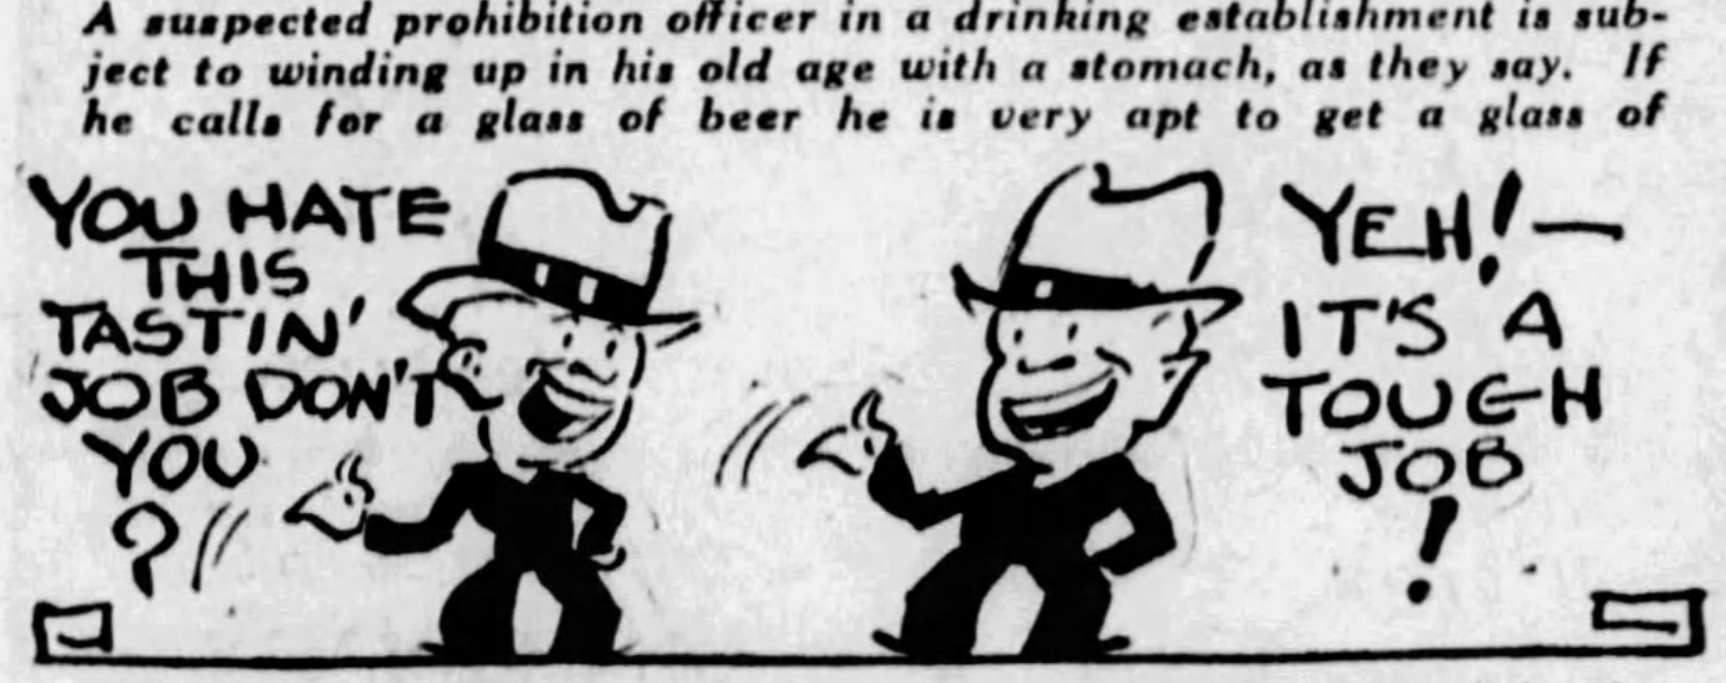
One of my under-cover men reports a situation that must bother enforcing officers forced to get evidence by the taste route. A suspected prohibition officer in a drinking establishment is subject to winding up in his old age with a stomach, as they say. If he calls for a glass of beer he is very apt to get a glass of odoriferous near-beer, mixed with water that does not help the taste any. There are gentlemen in the racket, too, who are not adverse to putting a certain powder producing nausea in the liquid served to the investigator.



YOU HATE THIS TASTIN' JOB DON'T YOU ?
YEH!— IT'S A TOUGH JOB!

OPERATIVE T-489 winds up his report under "Remarks" with the statement that on the whole the Jones law has the boys more worried than any development so far. They are hopeful that some way to defeat this measure will be figured out by learned counsel, but that at the present things are decidedly blue.

However, boys will be boys. The newest wrinkle, and one of the boldest, is a place for dispensing liquor in an office building. I leave the moralizing, pro and con, to weightier heads.

A trip around the offices of the town's men of affairs would reveal a worthy note in luxury of detail and comfort. One man is reputed to have spent $50,000 on his office. Expensive rugs, draperies and furniture are not the only form of taste displayed. Some of the offices have rare paintings in them.

Close to the top of the town's list in this connection there are a prominent lawyer; the head of a local department store; and the head of a furniture store.

There is good reason for such comfort, as pointed out by the dean of my department of philosophy. He scratched his Socratic head a bit, cogitated, ruminated and then declared that the average business man spends more waking time in his office than in any other one place, not excepting his home. The man, then, in a position to have a fine home would be foolish not to have an office just as attractive and comfortable.

THE idea, I might add, it catching on among columnists of the town. One such, for instance, is thinking seriously of getting a chair with arms on it. And within the year he expects to have his typewriter oiled.

HOEY, ATTORNEY IN CLASH

Attorney Albert Martin threatened to institute malfeasance proceedings against Police Inspector James N. Hoey in Morals Court today when the latter spirited two of his clients away.

"You'll get them when we are through with them," Hoey retorted, when Martin demanded that Helen Miller, 907 Wylie avenue and Tony Germinnara, 55 Tunnel street, be released.

The woman had been arrested charged with keeping a disorderly house and the man with being a suspicious person. At a hearing March 10, Magistrate A. D. Brandon held them over. Police refused to admit them to bail and Attorney Martin secured their release on $1,000 bond by habeas corpus proceedings.

Today Brandon continued the case a second time and released the two on the same bail. Hoey took the two into custody as they were leaving the courtroom, saying he would take them to the Bertillon room.

Martin announced he would apply to court a second time for release of his clients on a writ of habeas corpus.

BURKE LOSES IN HIGH COURT

Thirty-six opinions were handed down by justices of the State Supreme Court today when they opened the spring term in Pittsburgh. All but one of the opinions concerned Philadelphia and other eastern counties, being the results principally of the last sitting in Philadelphia.

The only Allegheny County case was that of Thomas Burke, Jr., against Annie Harkins and other heirs of Martin Burke, famous reputed bootlegger, who was murdered January 14, 1923. The suit concerned a saloon property which Thomas Burke claimed his uncle, Martin Burke, had secretly deeded to him, valued at $22,500. The lower court had dismissed the bill, holding the property was part of the Martin Burke estate. Justice Sylvester B. Sadler, who wrote the Supreme Court opinion, affirmed the decree of the lower court at the cost of the appellant.

DESCRIBES IDEAL GIRL

DOROTHY THOMPSON WRITING HER ARTICLE

Miss Thompson, wife of Sinclair Lewis and herself a writer, as she sat at her typewriter during a short visit to Pittsburgh and wrote the article, appearing on this page, in which she tells about her ideal girl, the Typical American Girl sought by the Sun-Telegraph, and discussed her new book in Horne's book department.

ARMENIAN GIRL RENAMED HERE

Pretty, dark-eyed Vartanoush Parounakin, who left her home in far-off Constantinople for an American education in the Pennsylvania College for Women here, has gained something besides knowledge in the year and a half she has been in Pittsburgh—a new name!

"Noushka" is her new name—a nickname supplied by her sister students at P. C. W.

WHAT IT MEANS

From bad to worse, some might say, but not Vartanoush! No siree! She likes it, but that's probably because she understands it. Let her explain:

"You see, Vartanoush means 'sweet rose' in my native tongue (Armenian). Vart—rose! Anoush sweet!

"Not hard, eh?" This with a vivacious little shrug and a bewitching smile with a flash of even, white teeth.

"Now, my pet name—'Noushka' —is a combination of Russian and Armenian. Nosh from Anoush, or sweet, and ka, the Russian for 'little.'"

AND HOW APPROPRIATE

"Little Sweet! How appropriate," someone ventured.

A blush spread over the ruddy cheeks into the roots of her jet-black hair.

"I—I don't know about that," was her hesitant reply. "I never thought of it that way."

Parounakian, "Noushka's" family name, means bough.

Today's Flagism

Grover Cleveland, one-time governor of New York and later elected twice to the presidency of the United States, was born on March 18, 1837. During his administration, federal troops marching behind the American flag were on a number of occasions sent to quell internal disturbances, and at least one warlike demonstration on part of a foreign nation was quieted after the belligerent country had given a second consideration to the power represented by the Stars and Stripes.

$500 FINE ENDS 1923 RUM RAID

Harry Rappoport, formerly of the Hill district, pleaded no defense to a six-year old liquor violation charge in Criminal Court today and was fined $500 and costs by Judge James B. Drew.

Thomas J. Cavanaugh, former police lieutenant and assistant federal prohibition administrator, testified he had raided a North Side garage owned by Rappoport, July 18, 1923, and had seized two truckloads of liquor in a concealed compartment.

The charge against Charles Frison, indicted jointly with Rappoport, was squashed when it was explained that he had died.

Bible Class Plans Annual Banquet

The Progressive Men's Bible Class of the First United Presbyterian Church, East Pittsburgh, has completed arrangements for its third annual banquet to be held in the church tomorrow evening. Ross Leffler, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Game Commission, will be the special guest and principal speaker.

Ladies' Aid Circle Arranges Meeting

TYPICAL GIRL IS FEARLESS AND FREE

Editor's Note: Miss Thompson, the wife of Sinclair Lewis and herself a writer, in Pittsburgh for a short time, when asked her idea of the Typical American Girl, sought in this district by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, wrote this article.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Watch the American girl—she is the key to the America of tomorrow. She has evolved in the last two or three generations far more than has the American boy. While he, still in school or university, "trains" for business, she, whether she goes to boarding school, university or just sticks around with the folks, is training for Life.

She wants a long sight more out of life than her male companion does. She wants All of it; and the thing which distinguishes her from her predecessors in any country or any age, is that she is afraid of almost no kind of experience. She wants to know what the whole thing is about.

FREEDOM IS GOAL

The most characteristic remark which I have heard a young American girl make in a long time was made the other day by the daughter of a rich and conservative New York friend of mine. Her mother had sent the 13-year-old girl to school every day accompanied by a maid; the girl protested that she was old enough to go alone.

"But, my dear," said her conservative mother, "you might have an unpleasant experience!"

"Oh, mother," she said, irritatedly. "I WANT an unpleasant experience."

She merely meant that she wanted to be free to investigate all of life.

"WOMEN WILL WIN"

The American girl is amazingly free from prejudice and she is not ready to accept any code of thought or conduct as final. She wants more beauty in life, more intensification of life than her predecessors did. She is not willing to accept business as the sole end of existence, and will cause any husband who thinks it is a great deal of annoyance. I shouldn't be surprised, in the next decade or so, to see a strong reaction of men against women—the women demanding more than the men feel they deserve or than they can give them.

But I am inclined to think the women will win, because they are going to know more. The girls are the people who are preserving the liberal art in this country, who are refusing to have their education bounded by technical knowledge which makes them efficient for only one branch of life. They hold on to Life for itself; they want to know about music, painting, household management, stocks and bonds, clothes, interior decorating, love (with a capital "L"), food, Europe physical culture—in short, they want to know about Everything and they want Everything.

Miss Thompson says she "loves" the American girl, and that the above characteristics must be possessed by the Typical American Girl. Do some of your friends possess them? Or do you think that Miss Thompson may possibly be wrong?

Send your ideas and nominations to the Quest Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the jury will decide whether Miss Trompson has analyzed the Typical American Girl with the same acuteness accredited to her in "The New Russia."

Missionary Circle To Hold Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilmerding, will be held tomorrow afternoon in the home of Mrs. George Graham, 226 Caldwell avenue.

ALLEGED RUM THEFT CHIEF DENIES BREAKING JAIL

"I didn't break jail," Tony Dell explained to Alderman George Anderson today, "The door was open and I walked out. Who wouldn't?"

Nevertheless, Tony, 30, arrested yesterday in Gallitzin, Pa., was held for court, charged with breaking from the Rankin jail on February 7.

Dell had been arrested as a suspect in whisky robberies from numerous drug stores.

In Gallitzin he had been living with his wife at his father-in-law's home and Gallatzin police said the "tip" had come from the father-in-law.

CASES DELAYED; ABIE MISSING

Abie Berkowitz was a muchly-missed bootlegger in Criminal Court today. Abie, who, it is alleged, once peddled cheap moonshine in Woods Run, was wanted for three things—most importantly, to be the star witness against Police Lieut. John J. Lynch, Patrolman William Moore and Howard D. Rosensteel and Martin Burke, all accused of operating a booze ring on the North Side.

The defendants insisted on going on trial today, but Judge James B. Drew ruled the case would get nowhere without Abie's testimony, so he ordered another postponement.

Abie also was wanted to go on trial himself in two courtrooms at the same time. In one case he was charged with giving a bouncing check for $230 to the Censord Rubber Company. In another he was accused of violating the liquor laws. His bonds amounted to $1,600 and Judge Drew ordered them forfeited.

Abie, also the star witness and instigator of the federal prosecution of the alleged rum rings on the North Side, disappeared from his Woods Run haunts three weeks ago.

USE 2 ROOMS IN SCHOOL HELD UNSAFE

Permission was granted Baldwin Township School Board to use only two class rooms in the condemned McGibney schoolhouse, at a conference held between Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr, Charles Dickey, superintendent of county schools, and the school board, Saturday, providing alterations are made for the safety of the children.

It was agreed by all parties to discontinue to use the two class rooms in the old structure, and make an additional fire exit in the new part of the building. Stairways also were ordered remodeled, leading to the second floor classroom. The John Eichleay, Jr., Company, was obtained for this work. This agreement will continue until ample accommodations are made for the children or until a new schoolroom is built, Marshal Pfarr said.

Starting today, more than 100 pupils were transported to the Union, Lafferty and Willett schools in buses.

Parents of the school children complained to Mr. Dickey last week, who requested Pfarr to examine the building. The building was claimed to be dangerous and unfit for use.

Woman Is Held In Liquor Raid

Mrs. William Dinert, of 2706 Sarah street, arrested Saturday night by Lieut. James B. Early and squad from the South Side Police Station on a charge of being a suspicious person when a 15-gallon still, police said, had exploded in the back room of her home, was held for further investigation by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court yesterday. Police testified they had confiscated a gallon jug partly filled with moonshine whisky.

Mrs. George Keen is chairman of the committee in charge and is assisted by Mrs. Thomas Chapman, Mrs. David Evans, Mrs. George Rickley, Mrs. Ralph McKinney, Mrs. Dess Heinz and Mrs. Sue Ford.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, March 18.

Well, yesterday was St. Patrick's Day. But do you think they would parade on Sunday? No sir. There wouldn't be any traffic to block if you used Fifth avenue on Sunday.

You know there is nothing as overestimated as a parade of any kind. It don't draw crowds, the people that are lined along the sidewalk are just trying to get to the other side, that's all. Nobody is interested in a parade but the fellow marching and his family, who are compelled to go see how bad he marches.

Every city should have one street away out where it won't interfere with business or traffic, call it Parade street, then let any organization go there and march till they dropped. Do that and see how big an audience they can draw.

Yours, WILL

TONIGHT'S 'JUST A NIGHT FOR CROONING' ON RADIO

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

TONIGHT is "Just a Night for Crooning" with purveyors of pep and personality scheduled to broadcast as follows:

Charles W. Hamp at 7 o'clock, through WABC; Little Jack Little at 8 p. m., WLW; Gene Austin through WCAE at 9:30; the team of Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson at 10 o'clock, through WJAS, and Ruth Durrell as the WTAM feature at 11 p. m.

All crooners, and good ones, too. Incidentally, Gene Austin was born in Shreveport, La., the home of KWKH and crooning radio announcers. Can you beat that? On further investigation we might learn that Gene and the possessor of that southern, "Doan go 'way, world" voice are related. We would not be surprised.

Next in important attractions will be Edna Wallace Hopper, "perrennial flapper," who will speak during the Davis Jubilee, over WCAE, at 11 p. m.

Henry Burbig will burlesque "Sheridan's Ride" from WJAS at 8:30 o'clock and another comedian, Will Rogers, the cowboy statesman, will be tuned in somewhere—perhaps the Alps—listening to his favorite songs being sung and played through KDKA at 9 p. m.

Thousands of members of the order of DeMolay will be tuned in on KDKA at 10:01 when this station broadcasts the ceremony accompanying the conferring of the Legion of Honor, Order of DeMolay, in the William Penn Hotel.

It has been a long time since fans have heard anything so beautiful as Alma Gluck's singing of "My Old Kentucky Home" last night on the Audion concert. The sponsors of this period announced that Mary Garden, prima donna of the Chicago Civic Opera, would be the next big star on Sunday, March 31.

The Emerald Isle was pretty well scattered over the United States yesterday with the two big "chains" and many individual stations offering special programs.

LOU KAUFMAN BACK

"I'll bet that's Lou Kaufman," was the utterance from many lips yesterday afternoon when the old familiar voice of KDKA's pioneer announcer was heard during the Symphony concert at 3 o'clock. Louis L. Kaufman had been absent from the microphone for two months due to a serious illness of pneumonia. He received many telephone calls of congratulation.

Radio's service to humanity was ably demonstrated Saturday night during the Byrd broadcast when KDKA sent messages of cheer to three aviators on the expedition who are stranded 700 miles from the base in Little Antarctica. A wing on their plane was wrecked in the dense woodlands. Com. Byrd informed KDKA by code that the aviators were equipped with a receiving set capable of listening to KDKA on the short waves and accordingly the unfortunate explorers were given warm messages of cheer from Pittsburgh.

A toast to Canada and the United States conclude the "battle."

The second episode deals with the mining period of the early 60s relating the story of the discovery of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines. A burro, slipping on a trail, loosened some earth which uncovered the ore and made possible the location of these famous lead, gold and silver mines.

'DOPE' INVADES HIGHEST PLACES

WASHINGTON, March 18. — "Dope" invades the highest places.

It is a respecter neither of person nor rank, but a master relentless to the unfortunate addict.

That fact is certain to be impressed upon President Hoover's special commission when, with its other activities, it investigates the ramifications of the noisome narcotics traffic.

For instance, not long ago a prominent member of a state legislature was engaged in a trying battle. His energy was sapped, his nerves were on edge.

One evening he complained to a friend that he was "done up" from the ordeal. His head was fairly bursting. He couldn't sleep.

"REMEDY" OFFERED

Solicitous and apparently well-intentioned, the friend pulled from his pocket a little white tablet.

"Here, take this," he said. "Let me fix it for you. Several of us have found that it helps. It will soothe you, and you can sleep."

The senator's face went glum. His lips tightened.

"No," he snapped. "No; put it away; I'd rather suffer the agonies of the condemned than acquire a habit that would master me throughout life."

And so it goes. Instances of this type are all too numerous. Oftentimes the friend's supplications are heeded. Thus new addicts are created. They start only with the intention of obtaining temporary surcease from pain and have found, not infrequently, that they couldn't "get off the stuff."

WOMAN DOCTOR ADDICT

In a large Middle Western city lived a prominent woman physician. Her name was known all over the country. During the course of her practice she felt the need of a stimulant. That was five years ago. She turned to the needle. And the needle became her master.

One day, although she knew the dangers of drugs, she took an overdose. The eulogies spoken at her grave were silent on the subject. But her intimate acquaintances knew. "Dope" had conquered, as always it does.

A society girl suffered for years from a throat irritation that caused her almost unendurable pain at times. The family doctor wasn't able to effect an immediate cure. She went to a "specialist." He relieved her—for he gave her dope and, little by little, increased the dosage.

To the warnings of her friends she replied, "Oh, it won't get me—I'll quit it as soon as my throat is well."

But she hasn't quit. She can't, even though now she wants to.

She has squandered a small fortune buying the stuff. What's the result? She's only a step or two ahead of the grave.

esert Rat and Brett Settle Old Feud in Lonely Duel On Sandy Wastes

a cottage of the R-X Ranch, Alexander Brett, junior, was sleeping, one browned arm flung across the pillow. Dawn tred behind the dark curtain of the eastern sky; in the al beyond the windows of the boy's room, a horse pped, whinnied.

Alex sat up in bed, and from his pillow on the other cot, esert Rat opened one eye and looked at him.

"Go on back to sleep, sonny—nobody's up yet!"

he little boy sighed as he snuggled back beneath the bedclothes. Soon people would be rising, the cowboys would come out of the quiet bunkhouse, and there would be all sorts of excitement about the ranch. Pete, the tall cowboy who old such thrilling stories of bad men and train robberies, and o was "working his way through" Reno's divorce mill, s going to let him help feed the horses. He didn't want to ass a second of these glorious days.

The sun was just over the izon when his bare feet ung softly to the floor. undlessly, he dressed him- f in khaki knickers and a aki shirt, with a red hand- rchief tied carelessly about s throat. Big boots, a soft t that was his pride.

"Goin out, son?" The Rat t up in bed, smiling at him. You just wait for me!"

Quivering with impatience, lex pressed his nose against the window, watching the closed doors of the bunkhouse.

'Oh, they're coming! hey're coming out!" he ed.

He was to have breakfast with the men—the other en!

"All right, all right." The at was dressed. Smiling at e child's enthusiasm, he wung him to his shoulder, stepped into the crisp morning air.

The Rat was fully concious of the dangers that ight touch this child—kicking horses or steers, swift-moving snakes, and more deadly than any of these, lexander W. Brett. The Rat was taking no chances. He followed the boy about like a shadow, his blue eyes tender and watchful.

"Say, there's a car parked out yonder—'way out," one of the cowboys said. "Know anything about it?"

No one knew, and a hurried inspection of the car gave no clue. Nevada license plates, and no papers of any sort in the pockets.

"Probably belongs to some dude," Pete yawned. "They don't care what they do with their property."

The Rat was silent, his eyes on his charge.

"You promised I could shoot jackrabbits today!" Alex reminded him, after breakfast.

The Rat nodded. He had promised—and there was no reason to let a mysterious car get on his nerves. Undoubtedly it belonged to one of the ranch guests. So he started with the boy for the desert. Once on the flat, they dismounted. The Rat showed the boy some strange tracks in the dry dirt—rabbit tracks.

"D'you know why they call 'em jack-rabbits, son?" he asked. "Ever noticed their ears?"

The boy nodded, looking up adoringly into the gentle face. Was there anything this strange companion of his didn't know?

"It's because their ears are long and pointed like the ears of a jackass. They—"

The Rat's hand dropped to his hip, and he swore softly. He had forgotten his revolver and his rifle hung in the saddle scabbard.

Alexander Brett, smiling suavely, was before them.

The boy edged sideways, close to the Rat, and felt for his hand, looking up at his father suspiciously.

"I'll take the boy, Pierce," Brett said, rather pleasantly.

The Desert Rat glared. "'No, you won't!" he retorted.

Brett was in high good humor. The nearest cowboy was half a mile away; around them was only desert—desert and an occasional jack rabbit. His car was easily reached.

"Pierce, you'll never learn!" he said, shaking his head. "Can't you see it's useless to defy me?"

Alex was tugging at the Rat's trouser leg. "Let's go back!" he whispered.

His father looked at him. "Come on with me, Alexander," he said. "We'll go for a ride. I'll take you in to Reno and buy you anything you say! What would you like?"

"Nothin'." The child clung close to his friend.

"Oh, you must want something." Brett's voice was bantering, condescending. "Think hard, my boy! A soldier suit—would you like a cowboy outfit?"

"Alex shook his "Don't want nothin repeated, passionately

Brett looked at the laughed. "So you'v to this, Pierce, in y age! A nursemaid! have Thursday aft off?"

The Rat turned. "Come on, Alex, we'll be getting back to the ranch."

"Stop!" The easy, good-humored tone was gone from Brett's voice. "Don't be a bigger fool than God made you, Pierce! D'you think I'm going away from here without my son?" He advanced toward them, threateningly, and the boy cried out in fear. "Alexander, come here to me!"

Alex Brett looked up at the Rat's face; then he squared his little shoulders.

"I don't have to do what you say!" he defied his father. "I won't go with you. You can't make me! I hate you!" The little face blazed with fury; the small fists were clenched.

Brett's face paled.

The Rat smiled. "Well, Alexander?" he said.

Brett swore. "I'll wipe that smile off your face!" he shouted, and he whipped his gun from his pocket. "You start walking back where you came from, Pierce, or I'll shoot you full of holes!"

Again, as on the day he scorned the danger in the muzzle of the kidnaper's gun, the Rat sprang forward. The shot from Brett's revolver went skyward as the Rat's fingers twisted the white wrist. The gun fell to the ground.

The boy stood, staring, as the two men grappled. The Rat was older than Brett; thin, white-haired, he appeared the more fragile, yet his frailness was deceptive. Faces set grimly, muscles swelling, the two old men fought on the Nevada desert beneath the hot sun—and behind the battle rose a background of hate, long-nursed, bitter.

Suddenly the child began to scream. Blood was streaming down the Rat's face from a cut on his temple; his blue eyes gleamed wildly through the red. Like a fury, the boy rushed toward the struggling men, kicking desperately at his father's legs, pummeling him with his small fists.

Brett's foot, in a heavy boot, swung out and knocked the child into a clump of sagebrush, where he sat, his cries rising higher and higher with every breath.

From the ranch house, where someone attracted by the shot, had seen the fight, men were flinging themselves on horses, racing madly out across the flat stretch.

"Damn you!" The Rat screamed. His wiry arm was suddenly freed; smashed downward, and the fist caught Brett squarely. He lost his balance, fell, pulling the Rat with him.

Writhing in the baked alkali dust of the desert, threshing against tense clumps of sagebrush, the two men battled to reach Brett's gun, still lying in the dirt. Two clawing hands stretched toward it, grappled, strained. Fingers touched it. Were torn away by the other fighting hand—returned—clutched it.

Wrenching for possession of the weapon, the men struggled to their knees, weaved upright. . . . The gun flashed high, held by two yanking hands, dropped between the fighters. . . .

Clatter of horses' hoofs, beating across the desert; men shouting—far in the distance, a woman s reaming.

Little Alex sat, his mouth opened in a scream, his eyes round with terror.

A shot . . . hot smell of powder in the desert air; and sudden stillness, as the two men staggered apart.

Captured :-: :-: By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD :-: :-: Daily Short Story

HERE were moments when Billy Jones' mother bewailed the fact that her son was painfully girl shy.

It was, she felt, humiliating to have him taking tickets is high school prom instead of gliding about the floor with harming partner. He was a ticket taker of his own free l. So afraid had he been that, unless he forestalled her some such act, his mother would insist on his donning his st clothes and escorting Sally Deming, or some other isance, to the festivities, that, the moment the date of the nce had been announced, he dashed around to the commit- and begged for the job.

During his college years, wever, his mother had own a certain relief that l was free of feminine en- glements.

He had grown into a tall low with fine gray eyes and nicest smile in the world she felt sure that, had he given the girls half a chance, he would have been the object of a pursuit that might have ended in too early a marriage.

As it was, nothing had ever beguiled Bill from the dream of his boyhood which had come to him when he read his first cowboy story. Some day, when he was grown, he could go out West and live the carefree life of the range. He would be a cowboy and handle horses.

"I thought a cowboy drove cows!" Sally had protested one day. (Bill never thought of Sally as a "girl.") She was just the "kid next door" with whom he occasionally conversed on topics of his own selection.

"His business may be with cows," Bill corrected her, "but he takes his fun wrangling horses."

There had been a brief struggle over Bill's going to college. "A fellow doesn't need to know Latin and history to be a cowboy, mother. It's just a waste of your money and my time."

"I'll make a bargain with you, Bill. You match your time with my money and when you get your diploma I'll pay your fare to a Wyoming ranch and stake you until you give it up or go it alone!"

Secretly, she hoped that four years would cure him as, no doubt, it had cured other boys who, incited by western fiction and cowboy films, yearned to be heroes by stirrup and lariat.

But she did not appreciate the single track mind of this particular boy.

On the day that he graduated, he handed his sheepskin to his mother. "Here's my diploma. When may I go?" He smiled but wistfulness and longing were in his gray eyes.

When he said goodby to Sally, she held on to his hand quite shamelessly. She was, although Bill had no inkling of it, very seriously in love with him.

"Perhaps we'll run across each other some day!" she said.

"Why, how's that, Sally?"

"I'm going to teach, you know—" Sally had graduated from normal school that year herself—"and I might get a job out in your West."

"Fine!" said Bill, but Sally saw that at the mere utterance of that magic, golden word, Bill's thoughts had flown elsewhere.

His attention might have been detained had he known that Sally, joining a teachers' agency, had filled in the blank beneath "Locality Preferred" with the word "Wyoming and underscored it heavily.

Bill left for the West in the early part of the summer and was taken on as an extra hand at the Bar M Ranch, which combined the business of raising short horns with running, in the summer time, a sort of hotel for easterners. Beatson's Dude Ranch it was called in various colorful folders and old man Beatson was tucking away from his paying guests a fortune never yielded by his thousand head of beef cattle.

By October, however, the last guest had departed and the snows had come. Bill, grown to love even the ubiquitous sage and cactus, faced his first winter on the range.

So, for that matter, did Sally, who had actually landed a teaching job in Cheyenne, many miles from the Bar M, but, at least, in the same section of the state.

If there were moments when each let his fancy fly across windswept peaks and drifted plains to busy cities where each snowflake fell only to be removed, it was Sally who grew homesick for them. Bill, although he would have liked to see his mother, had found the realization of his dream far more precious than the dream itself.

During the winter, work about the ranch necessarily slackened and Bill spent every possible moment down by the hoof-trampled corral, trying out one horse after another. Among the other wranglers was an old hand at the business who taught Bill many a wrinkle.

One horse Bill did not tackle. A glorious creature—one of a band of wild horses that had been caught in the fall round-up but never ridden. "He's a wicked one!" said Monty Jim. "And there's something in his eyes—"

Spring came with soft, sweet winds ballooning over the plains, with cottonwoods breaking into leaf beside streams that became rivers overnight.

Suddenly, everybody for miles around began to talk about the coming rodeo at Bowdleville in the latter part of June.

Sally, scanning the list of entries, felt her heart leap to her throat at the name of Bill among those competing from the Bar M. She made up her mind to be present at the rodeo, and from that moment lived with the thought of seeing him again.

Bowdleville, for those three days, became a transformed community. Chosen from a number of towns scattered across the plains, it worked hard to merit its selection. Provided amazingly comfortable quarters for the crowds that poured in, decorated its one wide street with banners and bunting, put up a grandstand for those who did not care to perch on fence rails.

Sally sent Bill no notice of her intention to be present. They had exchanged a few letters during the Winter but, instinctively, Sally felt that a surprise would be good for him.

She was sitting in the grandstand, excited and absorbed, when Bill, her Bill, made his bow to the audience.

Bill at last was going to tackle the wild horse that no one had ever ridden. Sally did not know that the beautiful creature had never felt the saddle. She really did not know just what sort of a performance she was going to see, but her heart was beating violently. Then she screamed aloud as she saw Bill flung upward as the horse reared madly. He was down—no, he was still on the horse! Oh! Oh, Bill—he would be killed before her very eyes! She clapped her hand over her mouth to keep from further screams.

Then, out of a cloud of dust, emerged Bill riding his captive from whose eyes something untamed and free had gone forever.

Sally ran out to find Bill smoking a cigaret and leaning against the corral fence post.

"Oh, Bill!" she said. She was still trembling.

Bill seized her hands. There was no doubt that he was glad to see her. After all, it was the next best to seeing his mother. He told her so.

Suddenly, she flung herself into his arms. "Oh, Bill," she cried, "I thought you were going to be killed!"

Bill, his arms about her slender figure, felt a strange sensation creep over him. This wasn't Sally, the kid next door. This was a new Sally. A lovely Sally.

He lifted his head and looked far off to a range of snow-crowned peaks down in Jackson Hole country. He had planned to cross those hills some day.

Three weeks later he went back East, where he and Sally were married.

Here's a way to avoid "sunlight starvation"!

When Baby Doesn't Get Sunshine—Look Out!
Now a hot breakfast food offers the "sun" vitamin that children need.
DO you know what "sun starvation" means? According to authorities, 90% of children in cities suffer from it. Now a great new discovery brings sunlight's bone building vitamin that prevents this "sun starvation" to your children in the famous hot breakfast food, Quaker Farina.
Just why sunlight has so tremendous effect upon your child's health, doctors have only recently learned. They call the secret Vitamin "D." When Vitamin "D" is present in the body, the child develops strong, healthy bones; hard, sound teeth. The child's appetite is good. Growth goes on "full speed."
Without this "sunshine vitamin," bones are soft and undeveloped. Usually appetite lags. Colds are frequent. Lack of Vitamin "D" is common because winter sunshine is "skimmed sunshine"—skimmed of its vital Ultra-Violet Rays.
Now a way has been found to secure this essential part of sunshine. A great scientist discovered it. Quaker Farina, famous hot breakfast food, is now being irradiated with Ultra-Violet Rays by his method, the Steenbock Process. Thus it can pass on to you the sunlight vitamin.
Quaker Farina is made of the creamy white heart of the wheat. Full of energy. Quick and easy to digest. The new tastes and looks the same. And now it has this added health factor which no other hot breakfast food can claim! Get irradiated Quaker Farina at your grocer's. The price is unchanged.
NOTE: All Quaker Farina is irradiated, although some packages are not so marked.

HOLDOUTS KILLING GAME, VET SAYS

CONNIE MACK, manager and part owner of the Philadelphia Athletics, after inducing a couple of holdouts to sign, sat down and composed the "Baseball Blues," and is now singing the same for the benefit of all who care to listen. He predicts that eventually the holdouts are going to kill their own game. Connie says that baseball is the only business in which employes and their sympathizers among the patrons refuse to look at both sides of the financial question with an open mind, and adds that he and other club owners soon will be forced out of the sport by what he terms the "increasingly exorbitant salary demands of the athletes in direct contrast to the small returns that the magnates realize from gate receipts."

Connie Mack

"Take our club for instance," he says. "Some of the players believe that just because we finished second in the American League race last year we are flooded with greenbacks. Well, the Athletics did not start their winning streak until we had only 20 games remaining on our home schedule. Naturally, our profits were small, as a result. To be exact, we realized only one per cent on our investment last year. Everyone must admit that the owners, who have to risk the large sums invested in baseball, are entitled to more than one per cent in earnings.

"THE owners now in baseball have not much farther to go under present financial conditions. The gate receipts are too slim, and we can't afford to carry on and pay the players their ever-increasing salaries. Unless some action is taken at once, the big money men of the country soon will be buying the ball clubs and running them as a hobby. That will ruin the sport, of course, for the gate will not be solicited, as the men with the millions can pay the players out of their fortunes."

Some of the other moguls concur in Mack's views, but Ed. Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, insists that the boss of the A's is all wrong. "The Yanks haven't any kick about earnings," he remarks. "Naturally, salaries are larger than in the old days, but so are earnings. Ball players are expecting more and getting it, along with painters, carpenters and bricklayers. I agree with Connie that there isn't as much money in being a baseball magnate as the public thinks. But we are doing fairly well. We stage football games and boxing shows to increase our earnings. True, some of the clubs have no revenue of that sort, but a ball club ought to be able to live without those accessories to its income."

THERE is another amusing row in progress between the ever-warring factions among the owners of the Brooklyn club. It doesn't take much to start those bellicose stockholders going anew. They'll grab at anything as an excuse for reopening hostilities. Now they're going so far as to squabble over the question as to which side deserves the "credit" for losing the decision to Dazzy Vance.

It develops that it was Steve McKeever, holder of 50 per cent of the stock, who forced the rest to grant Vance's demand for a $25,000 salary. But prior to that Manager Wilbert Robinson told newspaper men in camp that he thought Dazzy should be given what he asked, so when it was decided to accede to the pitcher's demands, Robbie let it be understood that he had been on Vance's side all along and had won the fight for him.

Dazzy Vance

THIS has caused another of the periodical McKeever explosions. Steve calls Robbe a "four-flusher," and asserts that the manager was guilty of some grandstand faking in coming out at a late date with the statement that the club ought to sign Vance at the latter's own terms when, as a matter of fact, he had voted against any such proposition at a meeting of the directors in February. Robbie admits now that he did agree Vance should be offered only $21,000, instead of the $25,000 demanded, but denies that the matter ever came to a vote. While the two are squabbling, Vance is in a position to sit back with nothing to worry about. The club takes all the risk and Dazzy will draw his fancy salary no matter what happens. If he develops a lame arm in training and has a poor season, he'll get his $25,000 just the same.

HOMESTEAD just can't be kept down in basketball. Floor talent is fairly bred in the Steeltown, and rarely has a quintet wearing the colors of that borough failed to fight its way to the top in competition, whether in professional, amateur or scholastic company. Homestead High School's 21-to-16 triumph over Bellevue High Saturday night, carrying with it the championship of the W. P. I. A. L., adds another brilliant chapter to the borough's remarkable record.

This titular victory puts Homestead abreast of the foremost in another respect, as it is the second time the Steelers have won the W. P. I. A. L. championship, and no school has captured the honors oftener in the 17 years of the league's existence. Homestead's previous success was scored in 1924. South, Wilkinsburg, Butler, Monessen and Uniontown are the other schools holding two titles. The Steelers will be strong contenders for the state title Friday and Saturday if they can eliminate the Northwestern champs tomorrow night.

IT MAY be two weeks before any definite line can be obtained on Glenn Wright's chances of being able to appear at his new post as Brooklyn's shortstop when the baseball season opens four weeks from tomorrow. He has rejoined the Robins in practice after having his injured shoulder treated by Dr. Cecil Ferguson, but is taking only light workouts.

Wright did not take part in the Dodgers' practice game when he returned to Clearwater Saturday. He remained out of the batting drill, too, camp reports stating that he confined his exercises to swinging a bat gently in a pepper game and throwing the ball for a short time. He did not throw much more than 20 feet at any time, nor with any speed. His right shoulder is encased in tape, and he has been ordered to go easily for several days and not to attempt to throw with anything like his old force until next week at the earliest.

Glenn Wright

NOT to be outdone by Jack Quinn, Grover Alexander and other time-defiers, Ray Caldwell is coming back at the age of 41 to pitch for Akron, O., in the Central League. His efforts will be watched with interest by fans in this section, where he really made his start. Though he pitched for Barthville and Butler in 1909, his first league engagement was with the McKeesport club in the O. & P. League in 1910. He won 18 games for McKeesport that year, against 14 defeats, and on the strength of his showing was purchased by the New York Americans.

THE sale of Caldwell to the Yankees showed how baseball scouts can go wrong on player values, as another McKeesport player who was sold to the New York Americans at the same time, and for

HALF-HOLIDAY GIVEN SCHOOL STUDENTS

By JESS CARVER.

"It's in!"

Imagine the vast sigh of relief that must have escaped Mr. William (Smilin' Bill) Campbell as his gallant Homestead High School basketball team won the W. P. I. A. L. ttile Saturday night. It was a long, hard pull, the way beset with hardships and barriers galore, but the Campbells were a'comin' and they came.

Today, still riotously happy, the student body celebrating with appropriate chapel exercises and with a half holiday, Homestead is looking forward to its tri-final game with the northwestern champions, Sharon High, in the Pavilion tomorrow night. Sharon is one of the two teams in the P. I. A. A. which has been able to repeat its 1928 district championship. Hazelton, District I, is the other.

Homestead, by the way, lays claim to the honor of having won the W. P. I. A. L. title three times, being the only team to do so. The Steelers won out in 1924, and in 1923, after having annexed the title, had it taken away and awarded to Monessen on a technicality.

SPURT WINS GAME

Homestead had to spurt in the final period to eliminate Bellevue's fine entry Saturday night, and spurt it did. Scoring seven points to Bellevue's two, and ringing them up after the North Borough tossers had tallied first, the Steelers once again impressed the onlookers, of which there was a record number on hand, with their fight and spirit. In fact Homestead's ability to come from behind stood it in good stead in every one of the tournament games.

Champions were crowned in all eight districts of the P. I. A. A. on Saturday.

The tri-final contest will all be cleared out of the way by tomorrow. Tonight, at Harrisburg, Williamsport, champions in District IV, will clash with Reading, victors in the District III race.

Tomorrow night, besides the Sharon-Homestead tussle here, Hazleton of District I will meet East Stroudsburg of District II at Easton and Meyersdale of District V and Altoona of District VI play at Johnstown.

NANTICOKE ELIMINATED

When Nanticoke was eliminated from the running by East Stroudsburg in District II, it removed from this year's race the only school which has developed two P. I. A. A. champions. Nanticoke won in 1925 and 1926 and its elimination, leaves both Homestead and Hazleton with a chance of tying that record. Hazleton, defending champs, has a fine opportunity to win the state title in successive years, something that no other school has yet been able to accomplish.

Western Pennsylvania has had three of its entries go on through to win the state title since the championship series was inaugurated in 1920, Homestead, McKees-

Wheeling to Play In National Cage Tourney

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., March 18.—(AP.)—West Virginia again this year will send forth its "Golden Knights" in quest of the "Golden Fleece" of scholastic basketball—the national championship.

The "Golden Knights" are the members of the Wheeling High School court squad, who was the state championship here Saturday night. By virtue of this triumph, they become the Mountain State's entry in the Chicago tournament which brings together the best of the schoolboy players of the nation.

It was the second straight year that Wheeling had won the state title, and the honor came at the expense of Elkins, which was defeated in the final game, 43 to 21.

ALLEGHENY LOOP MAY BE ENLARGED

By TOM BIRKS.

Will the Allegheny Valley Baseball League be composed of two sections this season, or will it string along with a 10-club circuit as it did last summer? This problem will be solved Thursday evening when the managers of the 10 clubs which formed the league last season meet in the Chamber of Commerce Building at New Kensington.

The problem that is facing the managers of this wide-awake loop is the fact that four new clubs want to enter the loop, and seeing that all four, Verona, Walker Buicks, Vandergrift and Springdale, have considerable prestige and following, the officials guiding the destinies of the circuit want to step out with the best sandlot circuit in Western Pennsylvania.

HOLD CONFERENCE

So with that idea in mind, a number of sportsmen met in New Kensington yesterday afternoon to listen to a proposition of forming two leagues, northern and southern sections, with New Kensington as the dividing line.

Looking at the league last season with Leechburg, Tarentum, Freeport, Arnold and Glassmere, on the northern side of the loop, Parnassus, North Bessemer, Verona, Springdale, Stewart Trucks and New Kensington K. of C. on the southern side of the loop, two great circuits could be formed with the traveling of all teams involved cut down to a minimum. In twilight baseball traveling must be considered, especially when some of the towns named have daylight saving time, while others do not.

It was suggested that in the event two six-club loops are formed, a playoff series between the winners would be arranged on a five-game series basis.

Yesterday's conference was the opening gun of the whole affair. It

PAL WITH ROBINS

In Andy Cohen's starring days at the University of Alabama, Max Rosenfeld was a teammate and a fraternity brother. Now Max is up in the majors, too, vieing for a berth in the outfield of the Brooklyn Robins. Johnny Kling, star catcher of the Cubs in their halcyon days, was one of the first of the Jewish stars of the diamond.

GIANTS' "HANDY ANDY"

For years, John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, sought in vain for a Jewish star. He finally realized his ambition when he picked up Andy Cohen, now a fixture at second base.

GRIMES, STEVE SWETONIC TO BE ON MOUND

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—Beset with outfield and infield problems, Manager Donie Bush, of the Pirates, today was anxious to get in as many games as possible this week with a view of getting somewhere in the solution of the two troublesome departments.

Donie probably won't be able to do much with the outfield until the Waner boys arrive in battle togs, and it isn't likely that Paul and Lloyd will join the team before it gets to Texas.

Burleigh Grimes.

The infield puzzle is intensified through the weakness of Jim Stroner, Wichita recruit, who has been too ill to show his best form since he put on the Pirate spangles. Stroner, however, may carry the key to the best first-defense combination.

NONE TOO PROUD

The Buccos are none too proud of their achievement of breaking even in yesterday's dual contest with the Missions and Seals. They won a pleasing victory in the forenoon by the score of 10 to 2, but in the afternoon the Seals, with Elmer Jacobs and Duster Mails on mound, made our boys eat cold dishes in the moist spectacle. The score of this game was 5 to 3. Rain fell in both games, but the showers were not hard enough to stop the action.

The schedule for today and the two succeeding days calls for battles with the Seals, who now own two triumphs compared to one defeat, counting the games played at Paso Robles and Monterey.

Bush stated this morning he expected to send Burleigh Grimes and Steve Swetonic out after the Coast League champs this afternoon. Both Burleigh and Steve have been ailing, but they were lively athletes in the preliminary sessions of yesterday.

The St. Patrick's Day fun was enjoyed by something like 6,000 fans, the afternoon game attracting about 4,000 to the park.

JOLLEY SHOWS STUFF

Smead Jolley may not be Irish, but the home-run king of the Coast carried a mighty shillelah in the interest of native sons. Jolley stole the show in the afternoon by driving in all five of the Seals runs on his homer, double and single.

Jess Petty was the victim of Smead's two-run homer in the first round. Petty worked five rounds before making way for Carmen Hill, who finished. Hill was scored on once.

Jacobs and Mails pitched cleverly

PIRATES DENY COVERING UP

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—Pirate officials today disclaimed any "cover-up" practices in connection with the action of Judge Landis in making free agents of Catcher Roy Spencer and Infielder Kyle Anderson, formerly of the Pittsburgh club.

Roy Spencer.

Spencer, the owners of the club state, was sold back to Indianapolis in a straight deal as a result of his protest of the contract offered him and his reported statement that he did not care to play for the Pittsburgh club.

The Pirate officials added that they had received no notice of being fined for their transactions in connection with the deals. It was reported that the owners had been fined $500. The notice, however, may be along later.

The ruling of Landis caused a lot of interesting comment in the camp of the club. Many of the players figure that the act of the Judge will be worth about $10,000 to Spencer. Roy is a corking catcher and may be able to sell his services for a big amount. The cover-up practice has been going on for years. It is stated that Landis some time ago warned the magnates they were in for a wallop, if they did not change their methods.

MAT REVIVAL CARDED FOR TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

If you take your wrestling straight—that is, seriously—or if you go merely to get a laugh at the grunting behemoths of the mat, there's no law to keep you away from or make you attend the revival of the grappling sport in the Moose Temple, downtown, tonight.

The stage is all set for the so-called extravaganza. Promoter Ray Fabiani, of Philadelphia, blew into town yesterday on a bicycle, or perhaps it was a railroad train, with his mat strapped upon his back and this morning he purchased a box of carpet tacks and hammered it securely to the stage of the Temple so the big fellahs won't trip up on it and throw the wrong men tonight.

This show is in the nature of a tryout without a rehearsal. Fabiani has been busy on a big show that he slipped over on the natives of Philadelphia last Friday night and was unable to get in here ahead of time. If he goes over o. k. tonight, he'll feed us some more of the same every week, and, if not, he'll take his portable mat back to Philly and leave us instead of his wrestlers flat on our backs.

ZBYSZKO IN PRELIMINARY

A funny-looking card is billed for tonight. Three bouts are listed and the only bird on the program whose name means anything to the casual wrestling fan, Old Man (Stanislaus) Zbyszko, the Pole, who came over on the Mayflower, is on in the first preliminary with a young Russian named Mike Katchoff, which sounds like some new sort of a fall. Their exhibition of black magic will be limited to 30 minutes, which may be all for the best.

In the second bout, or semi-final, which will be limited to 45 minutes, Fabiani will trot out Gino Garibaldi, the Italian, who takes a swell picture, and George Zacharias, a Greek, who is said to be in wrestling because he can't make a living yelling orders for two scups scoffee and cokenuts pie.

SEAL SLUGGER APPROACHES BAMBINO

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—Smead Jolley of the Seals seems to be the nearest approach to Babe Ruth in home run distance and power. And like the Bambino, Smead bubbles over with good nature, despite his nickname—The Arkansas Assassin. Jolley is 6 feet 2 and weighs more than 200 pounds. His batting mark of .404 last season established a record in the Coast League, and Smead nicked the pitchers for 46 homers. He is only 25.

Each season he faces the Pirates, Elmer Jacobs looks like a great pitcher. Jake has a beautiful hook and a dandy fast ball. He won more than 20 games for the Seals last year.

SHEELY REAL STAR

Earl Sheely has convinced this writer that he is not excelled in baseball in the art of first base play. Earl's performance of yesterday morning, was remarkable. Lefty Grimm at his best could not hope to make more sensational pickups, and Sheely is 6 feet 4. There may be plenty of trouble in the other infield posts, but there will hardly be any at first, if Sheely keeps well.

Catcher Koe Sprintz, holdout catcher of the Seals, who has been sold to Minneapolis, caught something like 160 games for the local champions last year. Sprintz, a St. Louis boy, is expected to replace former Pirate Ray Spencer who has just been made a free agent by Judge Landis.

The Seals seek one or two good pitchers and Manager Nick Williams would like to do some business with B. Dreyfuss & Co. Nick likes Wallie Tauscher and his opinion is shared by some of his players. Tauscher, however, is likely to stay right where he is. He has been one of the most promising of the young pitchers ever since he joined the club and he may get a chance to show this summer.

GRAHAM VS. CHOCOLATE

NEW YORK, March 18.—(INS.)—Jess McMahon, matchmaker for the New York Coliseum, announced today the new indoor arena will open April 12. The Coliseum has a capacity of 32,000. Its opening feature will be a 15-round battle between Bushy Graham, of Utica, N. Y., and Kid Chocolate.

M'LARNIN FAVORITE

NEW YORK, March 18.—(INS.)—Despite the fact that he was stopped by the Chicagoan last November, Jimmy McLarnin is an 8-to-5 favorite to defeat Ray Miller in their bout here Friday night. The Coast slugger is expected to have an advantage of at least six pounds.

FLOOR LEAGUE TITLES AT STAKE

By JULIUS LEVIN

Sectional and league championships among the amateur and professional basketball teams will be settled this week, starting with tonight's battles between the Miele-Franchinas and the Enoch Rauhs and the Duquesne Lafayettes and the M. J. Conleys.

The Miele-Franchina-Rauh contest is scheduled at Columbus Temple and will be the fifth and deciding battle of their season's series, the two teams having split even in four Allegheny County League games. Out in Duquesne the Lafayettes, three times winners of the Allegheny County League championship will open an engagement with the M. J. Conleys, winners of the title in the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League. The second game will be played at the Homestead Elks' Temple Thursday night.

Tomorrow night at the South Side Market House, the Duquesne Light and Kaufmann quintets will begin their series for the Commercial-Industrial League championship. Kaufmanns won the first-round title and Duquesne Light, last year's champion, copped the honors in the second. The second clash of the series will be played at Columbus Temple, Thursday night.

Another important series which gets under way tomorrow night, is the West Penn League's playoffs between the Knickerbockers, last year's champions, and the South Side Falcons. The Knickers were the winners in the first half and the Falcons in the second.

MAT REVIVAL TONIGHT

by special permission of Joe Stecher, and Jack Washburn, one of the few surviving natives of Chicago, are paired for the main bout, which is to be one fall to a finish, which means that it will end along about 11 o'clock, which is when all good wrestling shows are supposed to end.

Anyway, all kidding to one side, the atrocities are scheduled to get under way at 8:30, and whether you come to cheer or scoff or make a speech, Promoter Fabiani will be on hand in person to greet you with open arms if you have $1 or $2 with which to purchase a ticket.

LA ROSE SEEKS REVENGE

Tony LaRose, the Italian southpaw, of Cincinnati, who meets Cuddy DeMarco in the main bout at the Moose Temple Friday night, claims he has lost only one fight in his career, that to Rudy Ceder, of Tarentum, at Motor Square Garden some months ago, and he wants a chance to redeem himself, which he hopes to get if he disposes of DeMarco. He claims he was won 40 bouts by decisions, knocked out 23 opponents, fought 16 no-decision bouts and lost only one verdict. Among those he has met are Frankie Palmo, Alex Hart, Bobby Marriott, Jack Katkish, Louie Lavelle, Cowboy Joe Cannell and Joe Genet. He was signed to box Joe Dundee, the welterweight champion, at Charlotte, N. C., but Dundee turned him down because he is a southpaw.

Johnny Mellow, of Detroit, who meets Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., in the main bout at McKeesport next Thursday night, is one of the leading change-of-pace fighters in the business, as he has demonstrated in his series of successful battles against Cuddy DeMarco, California Joe Gans, Terry Lingo and other good ones in the Tube City, where he is a prime favorite. He is a cool, clever boxer and a good puncher with his right hand, and changes his style to suit the type of ringman he is opposing.

BOUTS TONIGHT

Terry Lingo and Ray Newton box a return match in the eight-round windup of a five-bout card at the Washington (Pa.) Gardens tonight, while George Perotta and Al Webster headline a program in the Jolly Bowl at New Castle. Newton holds a knockout victory over Lingo and in his only other start at Washington handed Battling Gizzy, of Donora, the latter's only knockout defeat.

Jack McCarthy and Teddy Welch meet in an eight-round windup at East Liverpool, O., tonight with Patsy Gallagher and Young Angelo boxing the semi-final.

VALLEY LEAGUE MAY EXPAND

is evident the clubs in the Allegheny Valley are going to step out this season.

Jack Friel, popular Tarentum sportsman, when approached regarding the idea, thought it was a wonderful thing for the league and got behind it. Then Jerry Clark, Arnold booster, while at first clinging to the 10-club system, changed his opinion when it was pointed out that traveling expenses could be cut to a minimum.

The gossip around the Aluminum town indicates that Arnold is going to have a crackerjack club, since its amalgamation with Braeburn. And the first baseman is going to be none other than our old friend, Dick Goldberg, who is now practicing in New Kensington.

The Walker Bricks are making a strong bid for membership in the proposed loop. This is a new club to leagues, but the management intends to step out in sandlot baseball. The Verona Firemen will be known as the Verona Community club. The townspeople have started to take quite an interest, and while having one of the best diamonds in local sandlots, dressing rooms and shower baths are being added for the teams.

The managers, however, will decide Thursday just how the league will shape up. The Allegheny Valley sandlotters feel that with a high brand of baseball, the league ought to do much better. It appears that two sections will operate this season with a championship series between the north and south groups in the fall.

Brickley Chosen Head of Referees

Dan Brickley, veteran referee of the West Penn Officials' Association, yesterday was chosen president of that organization for the season of 1929-30. James Mates was named vice president, Gradon Campbell, secretary; George Graham, treasurer, and Calvin L. Bolster, executive secretary. Bolster is the retiring president. Dan B. Dougherty, Martin K. Weitzel, Beggs Snyder, Al Black, and L. J. McGlinchey were elected board of directors. The annual banquet will be held on April 4.

'Frisco Seals Sell Holdout Sprinz To Indianapolis

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—(AP.) Joe Sprinz holdout catcher of the San Francisco Seals, has been sold to Indianapolis of the American Association for $7,500, Secretary George A. Putnam announced today. Sprinz was purchased in 1927 from Des Moines of the Western League for $13,500. He was a big factor in the winning of the Coast League pennant last year by the Seals. He caught 158 games, 40 more than any other backstop in the circuit.

LOCAL PINMEN ROLL 2,822 IN A. B. C.

CHICAGO, March 18.—After winning a slice of the $107,700 prize melon in the five-man team competition last night, Pittsburgh's representatives in the American Bowling Congress tournament today returned to the alleys in an effort to land among the prize winners in the singles and doubles competitions.

The Saunier Wilhelm five led the 32 "late shift" teams last night with a 2,822 total. The Pittsburghers did not break into the select "first 10" in the standings, but they did move into a position to claim some of the prize money. C. Bergfelt paced the team with 617.

Other Pittsburgh teams scored as follows: Wuerthele No. 2, 2,741; Wuerthele No. 1, 2,658; Allegheny Social Hunter, 2,639; Braddock Owls, 2,414.

NEW DOUBLES LEADER

In the doubles, Kansas City rated one-two today, with the J. Riley-H. Lembke combination leading the pack with a score of 1,301 and E. Shepherd-W. O'Donnell in second place with 1,287. O'Donnell also placed second in the singles and first in the all-events division.

Omaha's chief representatives yesterday, the Shell Oils, in fourth place, were only 30 points behind the leading Cordes Mets of New York, and probably lost that much through the failure of A. Warchton, No. 4 man, to show up until two frames had been played.

WINS SEVENTH PLACE

In the singles, R. Tschampers, of St. Louis, went into seventh place with 663 pins, with L. Fisher, of Cincinnati, landed into a tie for tenth place, with J. Burns, of Chicago, and Mort Lindsey, of New York, with a count of 658. Jeff Davis still ranks first in that event with a score of 723.

Fisher also scored 1,869 to get sixth place in the all events. Scores of Pittsburgh district teams in the five-men event last night follow:

FRANKLIN THRICE CHAMP

Coach Treadwell's crack Franklin High School quintet set a record for other teams to shoot for in years to come by annexing the annual Allegheny-Kiski Valley Tournament title for the third consecutive year, defeating Kittanning in the final game of the competition Saturday night 17 to 15.

Franklin was forced to come from behind in four of its five tourney games to win out. Two members of the team, Sutherland, captain and forward, and Jordanna, center, were picked on the all-tournament team.

against the big leaguers. The colorful lefthander toiled the last four rounds and continued in the rumless stride he displayed in Paso Robles a few days ago.

Walter Tauscher was the big star in the morning contest. The big pitcher held the Missions to one hit in the last four rounds, and he caused a panic on the Pirate bench by hitting a homer and a double. Glenn Spencer was an impressive young pitcher in five innings before departing.

STRONER STILL WEAK

Manager Bush used Jim Stroner at third in the afternoon. Jim fielded well, but Babe Pinelli kept him hitless in two official times at bat by robbing the youngster on a mad drive. Jim drove in a run with a sacrifice fly, and he was hit with a pitched ball.

The early game was given a flavor through the appearance on the mound of Ernie Nevers, former star fullback of Stanford University. Nevers is a big, powerful fellow, but he was touched up right well by the Pittsburgh hitters. Bert Cole, who succeeded him, was given a worse bombardment.

Rolly Hemsley was struck on the knee with a foul tip in the afternoon game, and today his knee is very sore. He was able to continue in the contest, but will be under treatment for some time.

Hoppe, Greenleaf Play Here Tomorrow

Willie Hoppe and Ralph Greenleaf, famous stars of the billiard and pocket billiard games, will give exhibitions tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Keystone Athletic Club. The two stars will compete at three-cushion and pocket billiards. The afternoon match starts at 3 o'clock and the evening affair at 8 o'clock.

BOXING JUDGE SUCCUMBS

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Thomas F. Flynn, one of the most dependable members of the New York State Athletic Commission's staff of boxing bout judges, died early yesterday at the age of 55.

Stricken with a heart attack while on the way to his home in Haverstraw after attending the Nick Testo-Izzy Grove bout at the Olympia A. C. here Saturday night, Flynn succumbed at 2 o'clock at the Nyack Hospital where he was taken by Mike Hylas, referee, and Patrick Lavelle, boxing commission inspector. With his two companions, Flynn had gone to what proved to be his last fight, not as a judge, but as a spectator.

GOLDEN PRINCE COPS COFFROTH HANDICAP

TIA JUANA, Mexico, March 18.—(AP.)—Golden Prince, the Kentucky Express of the horse racing world, won the rich Coffroth Handicap over a mile and a quarter after a thrilling stretch duel with Naishapur yesterday. Golden Prince equaled the track record of 2.02 3-5 and won by a neck. Scimitar finished third, six lengths back, and Quick Return was fourth, seven lengths behind the winner. Genie, the favorite, was never prominent.

The field of 22 horses was the largest that ever went to the post in a Coffroth handicap in the 10 years of the racing classic's history, and several of the contestants suffered from lack of racing room.

[illegible]900 TO WINNER

The big purse totaled $123,000. Of this sum, $108,900 went to the winner, including $5,000 to the winning trainer, Harry Unna, and $5,000 to the winning jockey, J. Parmlee, who rode a smashing race to victory. Naishapur's owner, the Wilshire Stable, owned by Chaffee Earl, of Los Angeles, collected $9,000, while Scimitar's owners, the Agua Caliente Stable, got $4,000. The fourth share, going to Miss D. Parsons, owner of Quick Return, was $1,500.

The winner paid in the mutuel machines $7.80 to win, $4.40 to place and $3.60 to show. Naishapur paid $6.60 to place and $4.40 to show, while the third horse, Scimitar, who was in the mutuel field, paid $3.20 to show.

The track was lightning fast and the weather was clear.

JOLSON ON SCENE

The winner was crowned at the judges' stand by Miss Betty Bowman, daughter of Wirt G. Bowman, one of the owners of the Agua Caliente resort. She was assisted by Al Jolson, famous singer, who was rooting for Vermajo, winner of the New Orleans handicap, to win, but who was joyful just the same in his task of helping crown Golden Prince.

Golden Prince was second choice in the pre-race wagering. The gallant son of Golden Guinea and Round the World is a chestnut gelding, five years old. Until last fall he had shown little in speed and was generally regarded as little more than a selling plater.

Unna, his trainer, who is regarded as the principal in the Sunshot Stable, officially named as owner, brought the big fellow to top form at Tia Juana this winter and spring, running him not only in distance events, but in sprints, and usually with marked success.

It was then that the gelding's nick name, "Kentucky Express," began to be mentioned in connection with other choices for the Coffroth.

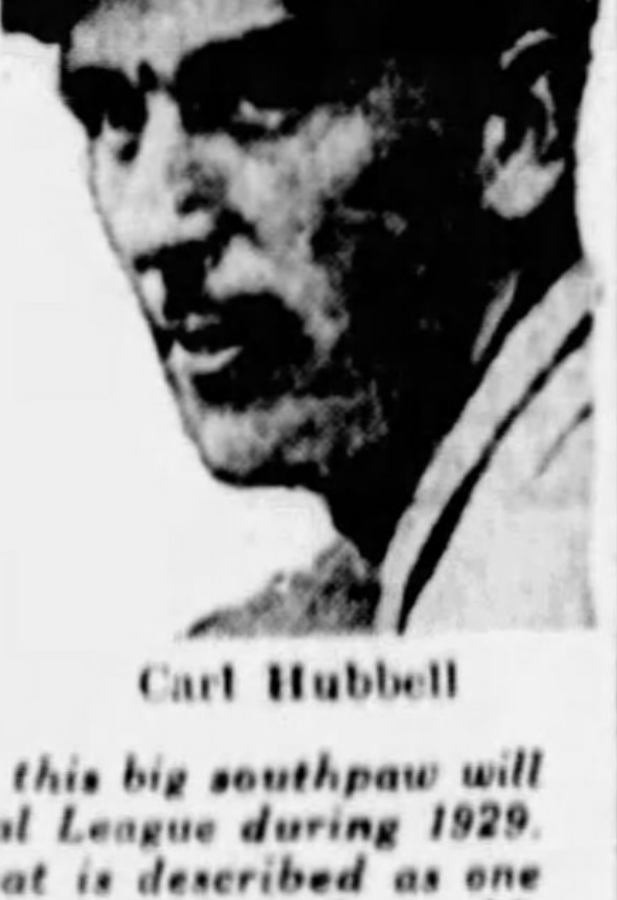
a larger price, fell far short of bringing the same results for his purchasers.

Senator W. D. Mansfield, who was operating the McKeesport club at the time, had another prospect that attracted the Yankees' attention in 1910 in the person of Third Baseman Gene Elliott. The Yanks, though obtaining Caldwell for $1,800, gladly paid $2,500 for Elliott, yet the third sacker blew up in a short time and was discarded as worthless, whereas Caldwell went on to become one of the star pitchers of the American League.

THE following was received from J. Wesley White, Jr., of Ben Avon: "Another year has passed since you last heard from me, and as it is time for a new all-star hockey team, I send you these selections: Goal, Worters, Americans; defense, Shore, Boston, and Clancy, Ottawa; center, Morenz, Canadiens; wings, W. Cook, Rangers, and Joliet, Canadiens.

"For my second and third teams my selections are, respectively: Hainsworth and Connell, at goal; G. Boucher and Noble, at right defense; Day and Mantha, at left defense; H. Smith and Frederickson, at center; Darragh and Bailey, at right ring; Kilrea and Stewart, at left wing. Honorable mention: F. Cook, C. Cooper, Nighbor, Duncan, A. Smith and Roach."



Carl Hubbell

MANY estimates of the Giants' pennant chances are being based on the possible showings of Pitchers Larry Benton, Fred Fitzsimmons, Joe Genewich, Jack Scott and Carl Mays. The dopesters appear to be paying little attention to one hurler who may prove a powerful factor for the McGrawmen. That chucker is Carl Hubbell. There is a chance that this big southpaw will be one of the leading flingers in the National League during 1929. He has a twisting curve ball, a fast ball that is described as one that sings, has loads of self-confidence and the poise of an old-timer. Nothing upsets him. He won 10 games and lost 6 after the Giants bought him from Beaumont last year, and this spring he looks like one of the best young bets in the league.

Andy Reese Pulls Fred Merkle At Houston

HOUSTON, Tex., March 18.—(AP.)—The New York Giants again have been victims of a "Fred Merkle," but it didn't cost them a National League championship, as it did in 1908. It didn't even lose them an exhibition game to the Houston Buffaloes yesterday, but it came mighty close to it.

With the Giants leading, 4-3, in the seventh inning, Andy Reese failed to touch second base while advancing on Lindstrom's hit. The Houston second baseman called for the ball just as Johnny Evers did in 1908 and touched the bag. This retired the side and a run that went over on Lindstrom's hit was wiped off the books. Houston did no more scoring.

MANAGERS SEEK FREED STARS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18.—(INS.)—Big league managers in the grapefruit belt were burning up the telephone wires today in an effort to sign several of the ball players declared free agents by Commissioner K. M. Landis last Saturday night because of irregularities in deals involving the players.

Judge Emil Fuchs, owner-manager of the Boston Braves, is said to have offered Guy Cantrell, Washington pitcher, $10,000 to sign a contract with the Braves. Judge Fuchs also was reported angling for Melburn Simons, Washington outfielder.

Cantrell has hopes of joining the Yankees, but Miller Huggins said he would not attempt to sign any of the "freed slaves." The New York manager was too busy worrying over an unverified report that Ed Wells, promising pitcher bought from Birmingham, also was to be declared a free agent.

Jack Hendricks, pilot of the Cincinnati Reds, was trying to sign Pitcher Claude Jonnard, of the St. Louis Browns, and Catcher Roy Spencer, of the Indianapolis club, both of whom were declared free agents.

Meanwhile Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, was up in arms at the prospect of the loss of two of his stars.

SAPP RETAINS MAT TITLE

ERIE, Pa., March 18.—Andrew Sapp, of McKeesport Y. M. C. A., was the only entrant from outside this city to win a championship in the Senior A. M. A. wrestling meet, held at the Erie Boys' Club, here, Saturday night. Sapp defended his title in the 160-pound class by throwing Mike Kavelage, E. B. C., in 7 minutes. In the first round he threw Kangas, Coraopolis, in 2 minutes.

Sapp attempted to carry away honors in the 175-pound class, but the veteran, Art Innes, was too experienced and threw him in 30 seconds.

A. Hacker, of McKeesport, lost to C. Lewis, of Erie, in the final of the 147-pound class. L. Klohs, of Coraopolis, was thrown by Campana, Erie, in the final of the 118-pound class. The summary:

112 pounds—A. Innes, Jr., E. B. C. threw R. Williams, E. B. C., in 3:15.

118 pounds—M. Campana, E. B. C. threw L. Klohs, Coraopolis, in 6:28.

125 pounds (semi-finals)—R. Bauschard, E. B. C., won the decision over A. Jones, McKeesport. Finals—R. Bauschard defeated E. Ritart, Conneaut, by default.

147 pounds (semi-finals)—C. Lewis, E. B. C., won the decision over J. Sapp, McKeesport; A. Hacker, McKeesport, threw R. Rebick, Coraopolis, in 4:50. (Final)—C. Lewis, E. B. C., threw A. Hacker, McKeesport, in 6:01.

160 pounds (semi-finals)—A. Sapp, McKeesport, threw M. Kavelage, E. B. C., in 7:03.

175 pounds—A. Innes, Sr., E. B. C. threw A. Sapp, McKeesport, in 30 seconds.

MONTREAL, Quebec, March 18.—(AP.)—Officials for the National Hockey League play-off games which start in New York, Detroit and Boston tomorrow night, have been announced by President Frank Calder.

Cooper Smeaton, of Montreal, and Bobby Hewitson, of Toronto, will handle the three-out-of-five game series between Boston and Les Canadiens, of Montreal, leaders, respectively, of the American and Canadian divisions of the league.

SETS NEW RULES

Lou Marsh and Mike Rodden, both of Toronto, were assigned to the all-New York series between the Americans and the Rangers. Jerry Laflamme, of Toronto, and George Mallinson, of Montreal, will officiate at the two-game series between Toronto and Detroit.

Officials for the later games in the play-off series were not announced.

President Calder also made clear certain points about the first play-offs. In the Boston-Canadiens series, each game will be played to a decision; that is, if the score is tied at the end of the regular 10-minute period of overtime play, the game will be continued until one team or another wins.

In the Toronto-Detroit and Rangers-Americans series, both of which are two-game home and home affairs, the league president said the first game would be of 60 minutes' duration only. The second game would be continued so long as is necessary for a decision to be reached.

PLAY TO DECISION

In the semi-final series between the New York series winners and the Toronto-Detroit series survivor, each contest will be played to a decision, the semi-final series will be decided when one team wins two games.

Each game of the final series for the Stanley Cup, of course, will be played to a finish. This series is on a best out of five games basis.

Cumberland Club Seeks Financial Aid

CUMBERLAND, Md., March 18.—The meeting yesterday afternoon at the City Hall in the interest of keeping the Cumberland franchise in the Middle Atlantic Baseball League, did not develop an encouraging situation, being poorly attended and an appeal will be made by Mayor Thomas W. Koon from the local radio station tonight, for financial aid.

Three thousand dollars of the $4,500 necessary to hold the franchise has been raised. The balance must be in hand by Wednesday evening, or Cumberland will be out.

Alumni to Honor Pitt Cage Squad

The Alumni Association of the University of Pittsburgh will tender the Pitt varsity basketball team a luncheon at the William Penn Hotel tomorrow noon.

Coach H. C. Carlson, Charley Hyatt and Capt. Jerry Wunderlich will make short talks.

LOCAL HOCKEY FINAL CARDED TONIGHT

By CARL W. SHATTO

The champions of the West Penn Amateur Hockey League will be crowned at Duquesne Garden this evening when the hefty Hornets meet the Philadelphia Company sextet in the third and final game of their titular series.

Trailing by a game as a result of the 5-0 defeat which they absorbed last Tuesday, the Hornets showed a complete reversal of form in skating to a 3-1 triumph over the Utilities sextet Saturday evening and with the series standing even and the crown at stake, tonight's fray should be productive of some of the most spirited hockey seen in Pittsburgh this season.

HORNETS CRACK RECORDS

In downing Philadelphia Company Saturday, the Hornets came up with two achievements which were absolutely original; the three goals slammed by Spiff Brooks were the first to be scored on that stalwart goalie this season and Ren Manners and Wallie Kilrea, classy forwards, were stopped for the first time since they appeared on Pittsburgh ice. True, Manners and Kilrea were not completely stopped, for they teamed up to turn in one tally, but compared to previous Manners-Kilrea scoring activities, one goal is just nothing at all.

The Hornets are confident that they can continue to check the Utilities front line while the Coulter brothers, their big guns on the attack and the heroes of Saturday's joust, roll up enough goals to make the crown their property.

PRIMED FOR COMEBACK

Philadelphia Company followers are looking at the situation through glasses of an entirely different tint. They point out that Dinny Manners, defense ace, was absent from the lineup that went down to defeat and that the tables and all other furniture will be turned when he gets back into the fray. Dinny suffered a severe injury to his back in the series opener, but he probably will be back in harness tonight and his return to battle will make the Utilities six at least an even-money choice to cop the gonfalon.

Saturday's game bristled with fist fights and the final gives promise of being a wild affair. Each club is prepared to give its all and there probably will be enough violent action to suit the most exacting.

ICE PIRATES LOSE FINALE

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Playing the final game of the regular National Hockey League season, the New York Rangers took a fast game from the Pittsburgh Pirates last night, 4 to 3. The game was played under the rules proposed for next season, allowing forward passing and kicking the puck in all three zones.

The experimental rules produced the effect for which they were designed. There was wide open action and plenty of it all the way through. The verdict of the fans was almost unanimously in favor of the change.

Ching Johnson, big Ranger defense man, who has been out of the game since December 1, with a broken ankle, returned for his first game and added some much needed stiffness to the Blue Skirt defense.

The Pirates scored twice late in the opening period to take the lead. Smith and Darragh got the goals with Lowrey and Frederickson furnishing assists. Toward the end of the second frame the Rangers went ahead with three counters made by Thompson, Boucher and Cook.

Thompson counted again in the final frame before Holway ended the scoring. Only two penalties were called during the game. The lineup:

Rangers.		Pittsburgh.
Roach	G.	Miller
Abel	R. D.	McCaffrey
Johnson	L. D.	Smith
Boucher	C.	Frederickson
Vail	R. W.	Darragh
Bun Cook	L. W.	Mills

Ranger spares—Murdoch, Keeling, Bill Cook, Boucher, Bourgault, Oatman, Carson. Pittsburgh spares—Lowrey, Drury, Holway, Bouchard. Officials—Lou Marsh and Bill Stewart.

Summary—First period: 1. Pittsburgh, Smith (Lowrey), 17:53. 2. Pittsburgh, Darragh (Frederickson), .08. Penalties—Smith.

Second period scoring: 3. Rangers, Thompson, 16.08; 4. Rangers, Boucher (Bun Cook), 2:48; 5. Rangers, Bun Cook (Murdoch), .25. Penalties—None.

"COW breaks record."

That headline may strike citified folk as not very important as what radio shares did yesterday on the New York Stock Exchange. But out here in the Middle West what cows do is mightily important. What they do is mightily important also in the state of New York, but the city folks don't realize it.

Here is the item about the record-breaking cow:

'Beauty Girl Gerben Rebecky, a 10-year-old Nebraska-raised cow, has shattered records for producing butter, according to W. P. Snyder, superintendent of the North Platte sub-station of the state agricultural college.

"Beauty Girl, a Holstein, has produced more butter in three consecutive years than ever has been produced in a similar period by any cow—more than 1,000 pounds of butter fat for three consecutive years. Her average daily production has been 10 gallons of milk containing three and two-thirds pounds of butter fat."

THE United States has 22,000,000 dairy cows and heifers worth more with their product than any of our billion dollar corporations or banks. Iowa has more than 1,300,000 of them, Nebraska more than 600,000, Wisconsin almost 2,000,000. So the people are rightly interested in cows and what they do. New Yorkers also should be interested seeing that there are one and one-third million cows in that state. But New York is notoriously provincially minded.

MY FIRST impression is that Omahans are too pessimistic over agricultural conditions and prospects—Omaha lives mainly on the agricultural industry. They were hard hit as many other sections were, following the terrible drop in farm commodity prices which accompanied the collapse of the post war boom. Farm land prices, like everything else, had become greatly inflated by war-made prosperity. Industry and business in general met their Waterloo in 1920-1921. The losses suffered were enormous. Since then agriculture too has suffered grievously, most grievously. But every inquiry, every investigation, every recent development tends to show that the worst is over.

The fact Omaha needs to grasp, is that it needs to pluck up fresh hope and faith in the outlook. Once it does this things will go better in the city—real estate, for example, which has been in the doldrums, would unquestionably pick up and outside capital would be more encouraged to come in and launch new enterprises.

THAT agricultural trend on the whole is toward improvement cannot be disputed.

Such leaders as the heads of the principal local banks, the chamber of commerce, union stock yards, Greater Omaha Association, Nebraska Power Company, Union Pacific whose headquarters are here, Northwestern Bell Telephone, Trans-Mississippi Grain Company are practically unanimous in declaring that the outlook has become distinctly less discouraging.

WHAT does the Federal Farm Loan Board's head, Eugene Meyer, record in his report just sent to Congress? Among other things he says:

"Taking the country as a whole the outlook is for continued though gradual improvement during the coming year. It is believed that the bottom has been reached and that a season or two of good crops at fair prices will go far toward restoring confidence in farm values.

"The banks report a smaller sum for loans in nearly all sections of the country.

"Interest rates on loans made by the federal land banks during the last year averaged 5.04 per cent."

THE testimony of financiers, heads of insurance companies, etc., is that they are now making progress in finding buyers for farms they had to take over through default on mortgages.

Let Congress by all means do whatever it can do soundly to strengthen agriculture, our most basic and most vital industry, but it is time to cease painting the entire picture as jet black.

Pool Activity.

The general supposition in the Street is that a number of big pools are operating actively and are responsible for the current strength in so many outstanding market leaders. The largest group in the market is the "million share" pool in new Radio which again is a leader in activity. Street reports have it that this group accumulated a heavy line of Radio around and under the 90 level and that it includes those which have been active in the Radio shares for several years plus the interests and affiliations of the Cuttens, Durants and Fishers.

Big Demand for Jersey.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was a feature of the oil shares today, continuing its strength and activity of last week. Standard Oil houses were said to be among the large buyers. The company owns two-thirds of Imperial Oil, Ltd., which sells around 95 and earned last year $3.50 a share. As the outstanding oil company of the world, Standard of New Jersey should get large benefits from the widespread efforts to put some sanity into the conduct of the oil business.

Amstrong's First Quarter.

The high rate of operations and the good earnings enjoyed in the last half of 1928 by Armstrong Cork Company have continued into the present year. Business of the company is exceptionally good and net income for the current quarter will be at least $1.50 a share, according to interests well informed on Armstrong. Cognizance is taken of the fact that as a rule the first half of the year, in the past, has been the better, with the exception of 1928. However, with the company off to this auspicious start, with the business outlook described as "very favorable" and with the year's dividend practically earned in the first three months, the company, barring unforeseen developments, is scheduled for a record year. This opinion is held by interests in close touch with the company itself and with general market conditions. Armstrong is paying an anual dividend of $2, of which $1.50 is regular and 50 cents extra. Recently issued report for 1928 revealed net income of $3,931,964, equal to $3.50 a share on 1,124,032 shares. In 1927 $3.34 a share, based on the same capitalization, was earned.

Westinghouse Dividend Prospects

Business of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company since the beginning of the current year has been running ahead of the 1928 period, with consequent improvement in net income. This, together with the fact that the company retired its funded debt on March 1, thus eliminating fixed charges, indicates there is a good possibility for an increase in the dividend rate. Based on figures from the beginning of 1925, Westinghouse has been earning at an average rate of over $6.90 on the combined preferred and common against present dividend requirments of $4 annually.

Wholesale Prices Sag.

A slight decline in the general level of wholesale prices from January to February was reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Labor Department. Farm products followed the downward price trend. Upward trends in steel production had been followed by increase of working forces. The most notable signs of dullness were in the old line trades of textile weaving and shoe making, neither of which was decluared to have gathered sufficient headway to absorb all the workers available.

California Oil Output Falls.

California crude oil production averaged 793,000 barrels daily last week, off 4,500 barrels daily from the week preceding. Attempts of Santa Fe Springs (Cal.) oil operators to curtail deep zone drilling have failed, due to opposition of a small group of independents.

The federal conservation committee of the American Petroleum Institute has adopted a resolution for keeping 1929 American oil production within 1928 figures.

The proposal of American Petroleum Instiue favoring limiting production to the daily average of 1928, if adopted, would mean a reduction of about 200,000 barrels a day from current levels. Latest figures, according to the Oil and Gas Journel, show daily flow of 2,663,00 barrels, whereas the 1928 daily average was placed at 2,460,00 barrels by the Bureau of Mines.

GMO-Opel Deal Confirmed.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, who is in Germany, confirmed that General Motors had acquired a controlling interest in the Adam Opel Company at a cost of approximately $32,000,000. The Opel company is one of the largest and best known manufacturers of automobiles in Europe. Mr. Sloan said:

"General Motors' analysis of the European economic situation justifies the conclusion that Germany has effected great industrial progress during the past few years. It is believed that insofar as the automotive industry is concerned Germany's present position is now somewhat analagous to that of the United States at the beginning of the development of the industry. General Motors at 24 strategic centers of world trade now has subsidiary operations assembling cars and trucks and selling them through 6,000 distributors and dealers in more than 100 countries. Investment in plant, equipment, inventories and working capital of operations overseas exceeds $65,000,000."

SCREW AND BOLT ADVANCES IN STEADY MARKET HERE

Resumption of buying interest in Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt and a continuance of the activity noted last week in Liberty Dairy marked the trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today.

Screw and Bolt got into new current high ground early in the day on buying thought to have been stimulated partly by the recent aeronautical show here and the favorable comments heard in regard to the new wind-suction propeller which Screw and Bolt will manufacture under patent rights. The present upturn in the stock is the first for several weeks and marks the first important move in the shares since shortly after the announcement of the splitup of the old stock and the admission of the new shares to the trading list. Old Screw and Bolt was exchanged for the present stock on a basis of 3⅜ shares of the new for each share of the old.

Libert Dairy continued in favor and opened with an overnight gain of more than a point at 41⅛, a new high record. The stock has been in good demand here for the past 10 days or so and buying has been steady throughout that period. Liberty Dairy is a recent grouping of dairy companies in this district with the Hermes properties forming the nucleus of the combine. There have been no official statements to account for the current activity in the stock, but the Street has heard rumors recenly that further expansion plans are under consideration.

In other directions the market was steady and price changes were confined to fractions as a general rule. Fuels were practically unchanged while the miscellaneous manufacturing issues were handled at figures showing from a quarter to a half point deviation from the prices prevailing on the close Saturday.

PEOPLES SAVINGS & TRUST COMPANY, Trustee
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Mr. A. Hunter Willis, Treasurer and General Manager of the National Foundry Company, who is to be Treasurer and General Manager of the National-Erie Company, summarizes his letter to us as follows:

BUSINESS

The National-Erie Company will combine into one organization located at Erie, Pennsylvania, the business of the National Foundry Company, established at Erie in 1898, with that of Williams Foundry & Machine Company of Akron, Ohio, organized in 1888. The National Foundry Company specializes in high grade steel castings, both open hearth and electric steel. It also operates a complete and up-to-date machine shop and gear cutting works. The Williams Foundry & Machine Company manufactures rubber mill machinery, practically all parts of which can be produced in the plant of the National Foundry Company. Substantial economies in operation and greater volume can be effected by this consolidation.

PROPERTY

The plant of the National Foundry Company to be acquired by the National-Erie Company is located in the heart of the manufacturing district of Erie, close to the sources of raw materials and with transportation facilities provided by four railroads. The plant includes an open hearth steel foundry, an electric steel foundry, machine shop and gear cutting works. Buildings are modern, of fire-proof construction and equipped with the latest type of efficient and labor-saving machinery. A new building is under construction which will house the machinery of the Williams Foundry & Machine Company (to be moved from Akron, Ohio) as well as considerable new equipment.

SECURITY

These bonds will be secured by a First Closed Mortgage on all the real estate, buildings, equipment and other fixed assets of the National-Erie Company. The present property has been appraised by the American Appraisal Company as of February 1, 1929, as having a sound value of $1,688,640, after depreciation of $613,260. In addition $200,000 in cash will be deposited with the Trustee for the construction of a new building and purchase of new equipment which will come under the lien of this mortgage. The Pro Forma Balance Sheet as of December 31, 1928, shows Net Tangible Assets of $2,735,619 equal to $3,647 for each $1,000 bond to be outstanding. Net Current Assets alone are shown as considerably more than the amount of this issue of bonds.

EARNINGS

For the five years ended December 31, 1928 combined earnings of the National Foundry Company and Williams Foundry & Machine Company (after eliminating estimated non-recurring charges averaging $70,129 annually) amounted to $1,361,065 available for interest, depreciation and Federal Taxes. This is equal to an annual average of $272,213, or more than five and one-half times interest requirements on these First Mortgage Bonds.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

Proceeds from the sale of these bonds and from 30,000 shares of Class "A" Stock will be used in acquiring certain assets of the Williams Foundry & Machine Company; to retire present outstanding bonds of the National Foundry Company; to liquidate bank loans; for the construction and equipment of a new building and to supply the required additional working capital.

MANAGEMENT

The management of the National-Erie Company will be in the hands of those who have been responsible for the success and growth of the National Foundry Company and will be augmented by members of the organization of the Williams Foundry & Machine Company and others.

APPRAISAL—AUDIT—LEGALITY

The land, buildings and machinery have been appraised by the American Appraisal Company. Books of the National Foundry Company have been audited by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst and of the Williams Foundry & Machine Company by Messrs. Arthur Young & Company. All legal matters pertaining to this issue are subject to the approval of John B. Brooks, Esquire, of Erie, for the Company, and Messrs. Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay of Pittsburgh for the Bankers.

STOCKS RALLY AFTER EARLY DECLINE

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Several waves of selling swept through today's stock market, carrying many industrial and public utility issues down 1 to 6 points, but fresh buying support was quickly provided, and a general recovery was under way by early afternoon. The frequent shifts of speculative sentiment reflected the battle of opposing speculative forces for control of the price movement, with the "bulls" apparently obtaining the largest outside following.

Wall Street apparently was not disturbed by the speech of Gov. Young of the Federal Reserve Board in Cincinnati on Saturday night in which he reviewed the credit situation and stated that a rise in rediscount rates would be the last resort of the board in its effort to curb the excessive use of credit for speculative purposes. Call money renewed unchanged at 7 per cent with only a nominal calling of loans, but bankers expect the rate to work higher within the next day or two. Time money rates hold firm at the highest levels in eight years.

RADIO SLIPS

Early selling was directed principally against some of the recently strong pool specialties. Radio (old stock) broke 17 points to 532 and the new dropped nearly 6 to 103½, but rebounded to above 106 by early afternoon. A drop of 6 points in Wright Aeronautical was attributed, in part, to selling inspired by the loss of 14 lives in a plane equipped with the company's motors. Rossia Insurance, Johns Manville, Electric Auto Lite, Safeway Stores, International Combustion and Weber & Heilbroner all sold down 2 to 3½ points, the last-named touching a new 1929 low at 71½.

Coppers rallied briskly in the early trading with several of the leaders moving into new high ground. Heavy profit-taking, which set in just before midday, was checked by reports that large producers were not accepting any orders for the red metal, and that what little was available was being sold at 22 cents, an increase of a full cent above last week's price.

Railroad equipment shares were in brisk demand on reports of rapidly expanding business. Baldwin Locomotive, which has been quiet for months, soared 16 points. American Locomotive moved up 4½ to a new high at 122 and Lima Locomotive advanced 3 to a new top at 53¾.

COPPERS AT PEAKS

Otis Elevator ran up 15 points to a new high at 240. Among the score or so other issues to sell at new peak prices were Anaconda, Kennecott, Miami and Nevada Coppers, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Trico Products, Grand Stores, Advance Rumely common and preferred and Lambert. National Cash Register sold down 3 points to 130 and then rallied to 138½.

A better demand also was apparent for the oil shares, with American Republics in the vanguard of the advance. Superior Oil was under heavy accumulation, advancing to within a fraction of the year's high.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, March 18.—Favorable weather conditions in domestic wheat territory southwest, together with lower quotations at Liverpool led to early downturns today in wheat values here. Liverpool price setbacks were ascribed to an increase of wheat stocks at that port. Opening ⅛c to ⅝c off, Chicago wheat later continued to decline. Corn developed pronounced weakness, starting ⅝@¾c down, and subsequently undergoing a sharp further drop. Oats were easy. Provisions likewise tended to sag.

Declines in wheat prices today that were associated with prevailing auspicious weather conditions for the domestic crop southwest and with lower Liverpool quotations came in the face of distinctly unfavorable crop reports from Chicago experts traveling in Kansas. One of these experts telegraphed from Hutchinson, Kan., that on a trip through parts of Sedgwick, Sumner, Harper, Kingman and Reno Counties he found wheat conditions very poor to fair, and that considerable wheat promises to be abandoned, especially in Sumner County. As a whole, the district referred to averages in condition now between 50 and 60 per cent.

Friends of higher prices for wheat contended today that accumulation of supplies in North America had its effect on values months ago, and that there could be no reasonable expectation of materially lower prices until there was definite evidence that 1929 wheat production would be abundant—evidence which cannot be available for three or four months yet, if at all. It was further asserted that there was at present a heavy speculative short interest in the market, whereas the opposing side was principally made up of substantial domestic and foreign holders.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today with nearby, duty free, and Cuban sugar available at last paid prices of 3.74c delivered, but with buyers showing no interest above 3.71c. No sales were reported.

Raw sugar futures market opened 1 point lower to 2 points higher on covering and some investment buying of later deliveries. The failure of demand to broaden in the spot market seemed to check any aggressive buying, however, and after the initial demand was satisfied prices reacted under liquidation and selling by houses with Cuban connections, with the list at midday 1 point net lower.

In refined a fair withdrawal demand was reported and prices were unchanged at 4.90c for fine granulated. Second hand sugars were still offered in fair sized volume at below refiners' list quotations.

Statistics Confirm Prosperity.

Business statistics from many sources confirm our predictions of continuing prosperity in most lines of industry and trade, says Hartshorne, Fales & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange. Steel and copper are booming quite obviously, with production and prices rising steadily. A general commodity price advance would be disquieting and indicative of inflation, but thus far only the red metal has reached limits that call for warnings of caution. The advance in steel prices is gradual and is naturally due to the heavy demand from firms turning out new buildings, automobiles, airplanes, railroad equipment, farm implements, machinery, etc. Crude rubber, wheat and cotton have shown an advancing price tendency recently, but not as a result of over-speculation. Employment continues at a high level in industrial centers, and this is reflected in well-sustained retail activity. The fact that freight car loadings this year have steadily exceeded last year's showing is indicative of the consistently growing volume of activity.

To those interested in the security markets, business statistics, on the whole, offer nothing alarming. But the money situation has taken a turn that is rapidly developing uncertainty in the minds of many people heretofore optimistic. Since the middle of February, in fact, interest has centered directly on the question of the Federal Reserve Board's attitude toward stock speculation. It is well known that this board regards the stock market situation as a source of real danger. Its public warnings, however, came out at a time when they could not be other than bearish on prices, and hence aroused widespread criticism. Doubtless the Federal Reserve authorities are sincere in trying to avert trouble, but what can they do? An advance in rediscount rates may solve their problem, but they have been extremely reluctant to try this remedy.

Foreign Financing.

Financing for Canada and Latin America accounted for 60 per cent of the total foreign governmental and corporation issues brought out last year in the United States security markets, according to Gage P. Wright, New York economist and president of the Business Economic Digest.

"Most American investors," Mr. Wright points out, "think of the growing totals of foreign financing mainly in terms of Europe, and do not realize how large a proportion stays on our own continent. Last year, for example, $1,178,000,000 of foreign issues brought out in the United States security markets were for Canadian and Latin American corporations and governments, while $779,000,000 of such issues were the rest of the world, as shown by Dow, Jones & Co. summaries. Both figures would be considerably increased if data were available as to seasoned foreign securities bought by American individuals, institutions, banks and investment trusts; and if we could pro-rate a fair share of financing by American companies doing an international business.

"Latin America and Canada supply minerals, foodstuffs, petroleum and other raw materials used by American industry in large volume. They also offer great actual and potential markets for our production. So our financing of their needs has a logical basis; and a working mechanism already developed by a volume of financing little appreciated."

Q. R. S. Plans Splitup.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Q. R. S. Company, of Chicago, has been called for April 12 to consider changes in the financial structure of the company in connection with acquiring the business and patents of the DeVry Corporation. The DeVry Corporation is one of the pioneers in the manufacture of moving picture cameras, projectors, etc. The board of directors have recommended an increase in the authorized capital stock from present 75,000 shares to 400,000 shares. Present stockholders will receive three shares of no par value stock for each share now held.

Steel Car Orders Gain.

Ward, Gruver & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, have issued an analytical circular on the Pressed Steel Car Company, which says: "A decided turn for the better is being shown in the affairs of the railway equipment companies. After several years of operation at an unusually low rate, orders received since the first of the year have exceeded all expectations."

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

New York Curb Market New York Curb Market

LOCAL PEOPLE MADE RICH BY RADIO RISE

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

RADIO CORPORATION OF AMERICA was selling below $100 a share over a year ago and Shirley Austin, member of the New York Stock Exchange firm of C. D. Halsey & Co., was handed a telegram that came over the firm's private wires. The message stated that "Radio is good for 500," meaning that some one in the East believed the shares would sell at $500 a share or over. Mr. Austin said "stop the kidding," but the telegraph operator said the message was legitimate. The advice was accepted and as a result of that telegram several Pittsburgh men have made fortunes in Radio and two of them have their original holdings which are now selling far above the 500 mark. One of these men started with a 10-share transaction and pyramided the deal until now he has shares valued at a quarter of a million dollars. During one of the sharp breaks in the market and in Radio he almost lost his entire holdings, but the market turned quickly and saved the day.

This is unusual, of course, but it points to the strength of the technical position of stocks because of the very heavy margins customers have on shares like Radio that fluctuate so widely and quickly. Similar incidents could be printed if space permitted, but it is a fact that Pittsburgh traders have made more money in this bull market than ever before. As a matter of fact there are no stories heard of any big losses. Perhaps that is a story for another time.

MEXICAN ISSUES HOLD UP

A SURPRISING fact is the lack of weakness in Mexican issues since the revolution began. One authority stated "If the rebellion is put down within a relatively short time there are indications that it will be done without external or internal financial aid, although it is obvious that the financial program as laid out early in the year regarding payments on internal and external debts and liquidation of current accounts will necessarily be interfered with." Pittsburgh is a holder of some Mexican securities dating back to two generations ago. Mining interests from Pittsburgh were at one time extremely active in that country and are yet to some extent, but the holders of the securities have never been able to "see daylight," meaning that the price they paid has never been reached. They were in a fair way to see this realized, but the revolution has again caused confusion.

AN OLD-TIME stock trader talking of the "old days," remarks that if the bucket shops were in existence they would be getting the worst licking ever recorded. This continuous bull market would have swamped them. The Pittsburgh brokerage world can be proud of its record since the bucket shops went out of existence. One of the leading bucket shop keepers here and one of the last to quit the game is now taking small bets on horses. He lost his money in an industrial venture. One day's transactions in a stock like Radio would have wiped out every bucket shop in a community.

COPPER HAVING ITS DAY

THERE are only 12 days' supply of copper metal on hand according to figures published by the Metal Bureau. For many years copper producers have barely paid expenses with the metal at 12 and 13 cents a pound. It has advanced to above 20 cents a pound in the last two months. And of course the inevitable has occurred. The advance in price will be investigated. Consumers of copper metal have and are complaining to the government regarding the sharp upturn in the price of the red metal. Charging conspiracy and a few other things, consumers who failed to cover their requirements feel they have a kick coming. It should be remembered that the large demand for copper metal is coming from industries that also are calling for large tonnages of steel. Copper is not alone in setting new records. Nickel, aluminum and other metals are in constant and greater demand than ever. It is a metal year or, as the old-timer says, "'Tis a mining year."

COPPER metal has been kind to Pittsburgh men. Calumet and Arizona is perhaps the leading copper security in which there is a large interest. Originally offered at $8 a share, payable $2 every so often, the stockholders were never called upon for more than two payments and by the time the last $2 was asked, the shares had advanced 20 times that price. Much of the original stock is still here. The estate of the late Senator Boies Penrose had some 50,000 shares of the stock that had been bought at the original price. The stock sold up above $200 a share and is now around $150, with more ore reserves than it had at any time in its existence. United Verde Extension could have been bought at a few cents a share and it later sold up to $45 per share. And it was Pittsburgh money that put it over. It struck one of the largest ore bodies ever found in Arizona. Many Pittsburgh men are wishing that history will repeat itself. They are in copper companies in the making.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 18.(AP.)—Wide advances and sharp declines marked the trading in today's curb market, reflecting the conflicting views on the credit situation. Call money was steady in the early trading, but traders look for higher rates.

Firestone Tire made a sensational jump of 18 points to a new record at 277, while Ford of Canada, Saturday's spectacular feature, sold down 40 points to 1065. Fox Theaters was one of the weak spots in the specialties, declining more than a point. Trans Lux was up more than 4 points to a new high.

Utility stocks moved irregularly lower in the face of the announcement of new electrification plans for an eastern railroad. Movements, however, were comparatively narrow.

Newmont led the mining group into higher ground as copper prices held firm at their peak prices.

Aviation Corporation of the Americas was active around 62, and in the motors Auburn advanced fractionally, but Checker Cab slipped down two points.

Oils were higher on the recommendation of the executives Houston meeting for 200,00 barrels daily curtailment in production. Gulf rose 2 points and Humble more than a point.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

GAINS SHOWN BY U. S. STEEL, BETHLEHEM

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—The annual reports to stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, both published yesterday, describe a marked upturn in this basic industry in 1928.

The U. S. Steel report points out that steel prices were somewhat lower during the year while production reached a new high record, explaining that this reflected a substantial excess producing capacity in the industry.

It said, however, that "the reasonable prices charged for iron and steel products have undoubtedly stimulated consumption to a national extent, thereby enabling plants to maintain satisfactory operations. Thus the public is well served."

PROFIT CALLED "FAIR"

"While the operations of the properties of the corporation show a fair, but not fully commensurate, profit return on the investment employed," the report says, "these results are due largely to the foresight in devoting a liberal portion of surplus and reserve to improving and establishing the plants and facilities on a more efficient basis of operation."

In reviewing the earnings statement for the year, U. S. Steel gives its net income after deduction of interest on funded debt and addition of special income receipts and net adjustment of various accounts, at $114,173,774. This compares with $87,896,800 in 1927. Bethlehem's earnings were $18,585,922, as compared with $15,826,142.

At the end of the year, United States Steel had cash on hand of $152,107,633, as increased from $112,867,470 at the end of the previous year. Bethlehem had cash totaling $28,470,936, a marked increase from the $16,721,596 at the end of 1927.

United States Steel's undivided surplus increased to $410,277,342 from $363,044,913. Its net property investment was carried at the end of the year at $1,661,123,969, a decrease from $1,709,779,732 at the end of 1927. Bethlehem carried its property at $454,322,855.

PRODUCTION BY INGOTS

U. S. Steel produced 20,105,749 tons of steel ingots during the year, against 18,486,444 in 1927, while Bethlehem produced 6,478,981 against 5,590,754. U. S. Steel's mills operated at an average capacity of 83.4 per cent in comparison to 78.9 in 1927, and Bethlehem operated at 82 per cent compared with 73.6 per cent.

Employes of U. S. Steel totaled 221,702, a decrease from 231,549, at the end of 1927. Bethlehem had 62,039 employes, practically unchanged from the previous year. U. S. Steel paid in wages $413,699,720, and Bethlehem paid $114,437,334.

The Bethlehem report points out that the large rebuilding and modernization program instituted by the corporation in 1923 was completed in 1928, the cost of additions and improvements to properties in those years totaling $157,032,259, which was paid largely out of earnings and depreciation, maintenance and other reserves, and the proceeds of $55,000,000 of preferred stock sold in 1926. Cash expenditures for additions and improvements during 1928 totaled $19,943,804.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, March 18.—Cotton opened barely steady today at a decline of 12 to 21 points under liquidation and rather active selling promoted by relatively easy cables and reports of better weather in the South.

Houses with Wall Street connections were among sellers on the decline, which extended to 20.81c for May and 20.19c for the new October contract, or about 20 to 25 points net lower during the early trading. The decline met considerable trade buying and covering, however, and the market was rather steadier at the end of the first half hour. Prices showed rallies of a few points from the lowest.

Private cables reported London, Continent and Bombay liquidation in Liverpool, influenced by prospects for better weather in the South. They also said the turnover in cotton cloth was smaller as result of a disinclination to pay current prices. Brokers with Liverpool connections were among the early sellers here.

Some stop orders were uncovered on the early decline, which extended to 20.81c for May and after their execution prices rallied a few points from the lowest on covering and trade buying. The volume of business tapered off on the bulges, however, and the market was quiet at net declines of about 18 to 20 points at midday. The early selling was accompanied by rumors of bearish private ginning figures which seemed to lack confirmation and a private report was published estimating the total ginnings for the season at [illegible] bales which was considered about in line with the government crop estimate of last December.

GENERAL MOTORS BUYS SHARE IN GERMAN FIRM

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—The General Motors Corporation announced yesterday that it had taken a substantial interest in the Adam Opel Company in Russelheim, Germany, at a cost of approximately $30,000,000. The announcement was in the form of a statement of President Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., who now is in Wiesbaden, Germany. The negotiations were reported several weeks ago.

In his statement, President Sloan said:

"The Opel Company manufactures the Opel automobile, as well as other Opel products. It enjoys a dominant position in the automotive industry of Germany, manufacturing about 45 per cent of the total number of cars. The Opel plants are well fitted, are favorably situated and employ about 12,000 operators. Opel ranks among the first 10 German industrial organizations.

"The Opel Company will continue to be operated as an independent organization by the present management, which has already made it such an outstanding success. General Motors will contribute engineering, manufacturing, financial and managerial cooperation to the end that, it is believed, Opel's already high efficiency can be still further enhanced and its business rapidly expanded.

"This event marks the transition of General Motors into an international manufacturing, as well as distributing, organization. While General Motors' business overseas reached in 1928 a total of approximately $300,000,000, yet it is felt that there is an opportunity for the profitable employment of capital in a manufacturing country like Germany. Due to different economic conditions prevailing abroad, American cars because of their engineering design are limited to a relatively small part of the potential market. This association with Opel brings therefore to General Motors an opportunity by the addition to its present line of cars of European design particularly adapted to markets like Germany."

Listing Delay Puts British G. E. Higher

LONDON, March 18.—(AP.)—British General Electric shares jumped from 57 to 63 shillings 9 pence on the stock exchange today with the new turn in the situation resulting from American protests against restricting the new £1,600,000 stock issue to British subjects only.

It had been planned to open the lists for this issue today, but this was postponed pending further discussion.

BUGS BAER Says

THE TANKS LOSE A WAR.

"Bugs" Baer

As Commissioner of Detours for one-way grade crossings we must protest against the proposed 10-cent tax on gasoline.

As a rumble seat chauffeur of long and experienced bouncing we add an indignant amendment to the constitution of squawks.

As a pedestrian, who rates a pension by reason of a pronounced body squeak, we denounce the monarchists who would curtail the freedom of the skids.

It has been only 30 years since the Standard Oil used to take its skimmed gasoline down the bay and use it to polish the Gulf Stream.

At that time kerosene was the popular beverage. Gasoline was a dangerous fluid that would remove spots from the coat and put 'em on the tongue.

Kerosene was used exclusively in lamps. A younger generation discovered that it was also good in glasses.

Gasoline had a habit of exploding in a way that produced mileage in the wrong direction. The automotive engineers taught it to cough in the carbureter in homeopathic gargles.

From then on, the industry made rapid and progressive jams. Gasoline became the ambrosia of traffic and the nectar of the tours.

Early gasoline tanks were filled by the hand-to-mouth method. Every driver ordered 10 gallons at a clip. Five in the tank and five on the ground.

With General Motors and Henry Ford turning out more cars than could be assembled, the price of [illegible] grew horns on a bull market.

Now, various states are slapping on terrific plasters for the purpose of improving the state treasury and roads.

The better roads enable you to go faster and be arrested more times for speeding.

Reports from Massachusetts indicate that chauffeurs are disguising themselves as Indians again and that there will be a gasoline frolic that will make that Colonial tax protest look like a tea party.

The finest public buildings in America are gasoline [illegible]. When a tax of 10 cents is [illegible] on to a gallon of gasoline, they will have to take the self-starters off the motor cars and put 'em on cash registers.

They call these Wayside shrines filling stations because they empty your pockets.

If your tank holds 20 gallons that will cost you about four dollars for the atomizer and an extra two dollars for the perfume.

The situation demands a new Paul Revere on a motor-cycle, another Swamp Fox in mud up to his hubs, and a Mad Anthony Wayne getting madder over a garage bill.

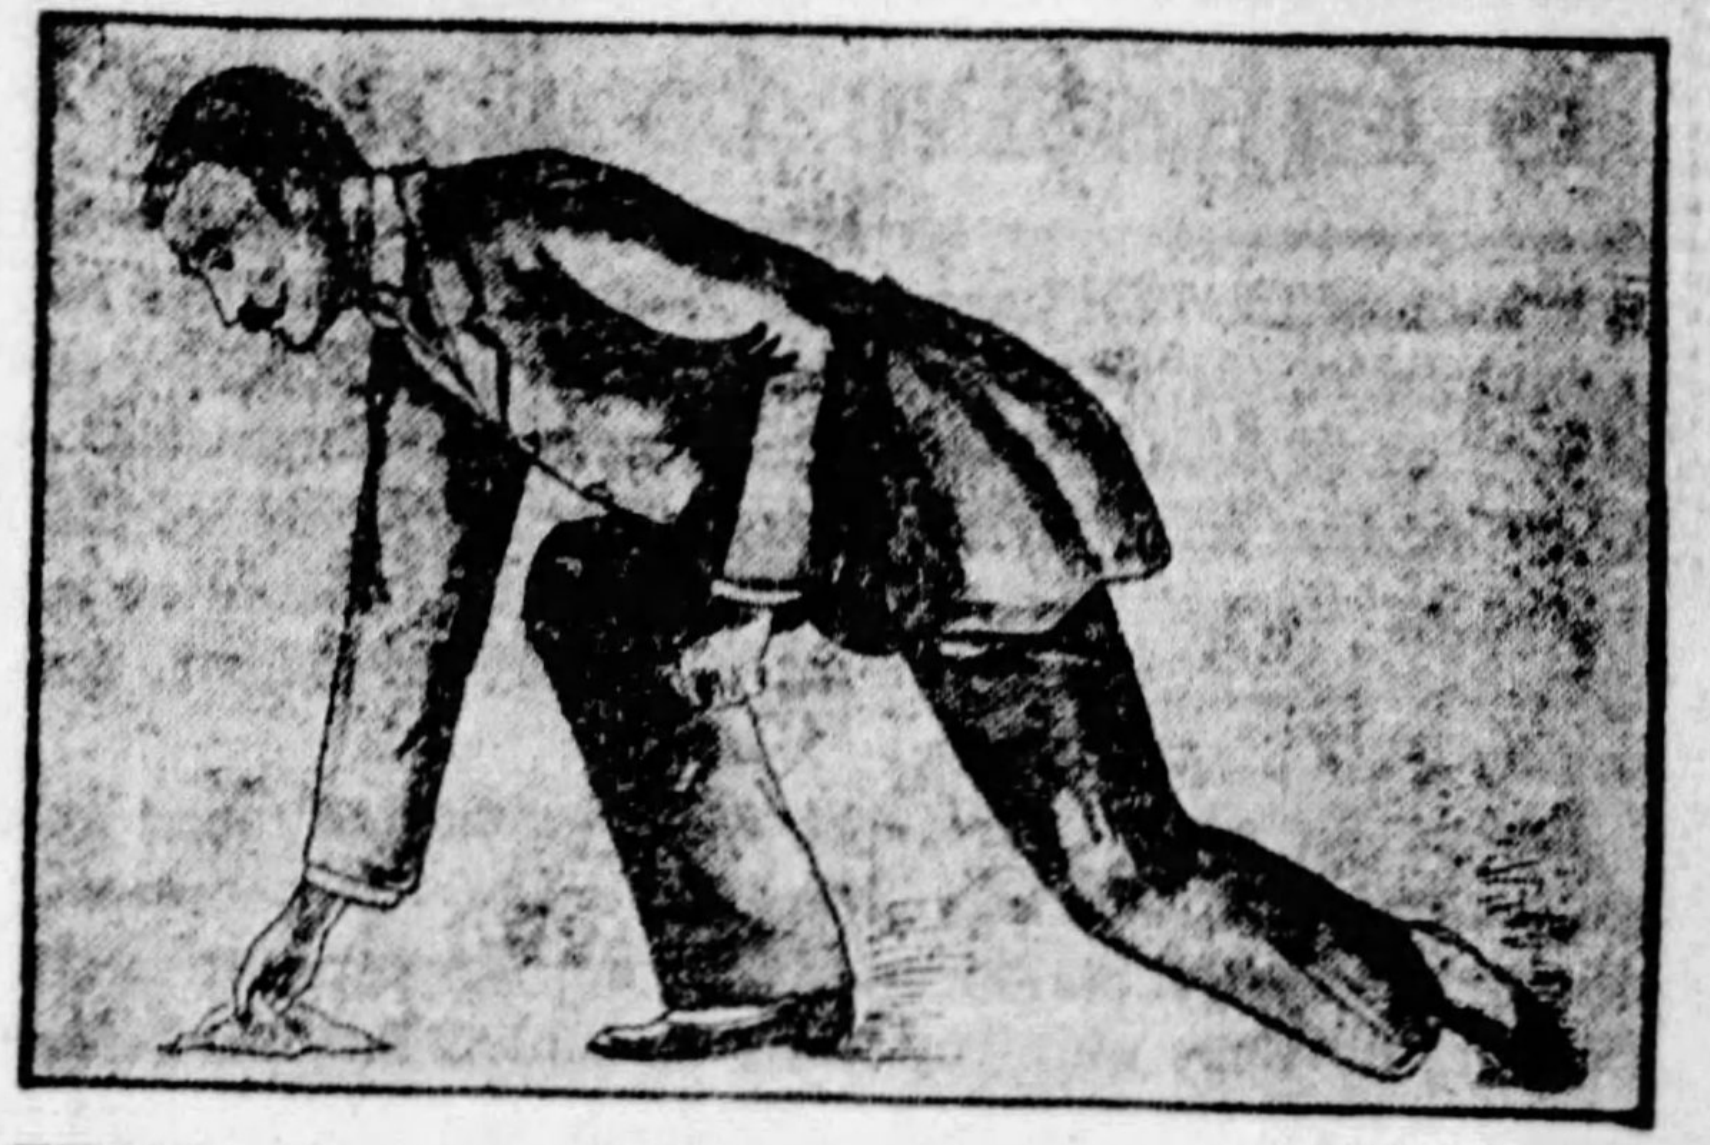
PRACTICAL THOUGHTS FOR PRACTICAL PEOPLE



HOW awkwardly people stoop! To practice graceful stooping, scatter mayonnaise on an ordinary Oriental rug Tiptoe from the room, re-enter gingerly, spy the mayonnaise, raise the eyebrow, whisk kerchief from kerchief pocket. Then gently lift the left foot and put it down again, taking care not to step in the mayonnaise. Bend the right knee. Let the body sink as the hand drops to position shown above. Rub vigorously, taking care not to twist the ankle.

One Echo of Tax Return Is Injustice to Earner

Echoes of the 1928 income tax return locally are that last day receipts are estimated at more than $12,000,000 for the final day, or $3,000,000 more than for the last return day of 1927. Also that fewer people paid a larger aggregate tax than was paid for the preceding year, when the total here was approximately $82,000,000, expected to be exceeded in the late return by $1,000,000 at least.

Except for emendations that will be necessary here and there, we are done with the 1928 income tax. But there will be future ones and it is necessary that our government do the right thing by those who pay taxes on earned incomes before another return time rolls around. The injustice of giving property rights that are denied to the worker are fresh in the minds of all those who filed returns on earned incomes.

Those who filed returns for income that combined earnings and rental from a little property, for instance, found that the property was greatly favored. From its income could be deducted the amount paid for taxes, interest, insurance, repairs and the estimated amount of depreciation in value. They could also deduct taxes and interest paid on their own home, but nothing for repairs or depreciation. Yet the home of a worker is part of his "plant," and his body is part of his "plant," both wearing out as much as the property from which he draws income. Because the latter wears out, the government decreases the tax accordingly. Yet it does not make a corresponding decrease for a worker whose capacity to earn also is wearing out.

The Sun-Telegraph movement to rectify that injustice is being enthusiastically supported by income earners. Organizations are studying and indorsing the effort and individuals who are prominent in our local affairs stamp it with their approval. Thousands are signing the Sun-Telegraph petition, which appears elsewhere in this edition. As rapidly as it is possible to get them out these blanks also will be available in the principal hotels, drug stores and cigar stores and other convenient places.

If you wish to help in the movement you can do so by clipping the petition appearing in the Sun-Telegraph and circulating it among your friends for their signatures.

First Think, Then Express Thought

High School Journalism Helps, of Course.

Adolph Weissman, editor-in-chief of the Resista Lantern, published in New York by boys of the Hebrew Parochial High School asks:

"What is your opinion of school journalism? Do you think it is a worth while undertaking and apt to net some benefits to students? We should be very grateful if you would give your general opinion on this subject."

The most important thing in the world is THOUGHT. Before you can DO anything you must have the THOUGHT that is behind all action worth while.

It is important also to be able TO EXPRESS YOUR THOUGHT.

To think, without expressing thought, is like growing vegetables and not sending them to market, or making any other use of them.

Thinking of itself is an interesting occupation, but it PRODUCES nothing.

High school boys working at journalism, or in other forms of written composition, practice the ART OF EXPRESSING THOUGHT, which comes next in importance to thought itself.

No matter how good your thought is, it loses value if it is not properly expressed.

And we do not think of OURSELVES only, but rather in the hope that our thought will be planted in the minds of others, to grow in those other minds and produce good results.

Transplanting thought from your mind into another mind depends on THE USE OF WORDS.

The thing can be done also in pictures, cartoons, moving pictures, and otherwise.

For the average human being WORDS must be used. For all of us to learn the correct use of words is of the utmost importance.

Therefore, the answer to this young man's question is: "Yes, working at high school journalism is worth while, even though it may not lead into profitable commercial journalism later."

To Live in History

The Vatican Agreement With Mussolini.

Mussolini tells a great gathering of Fascisti, truly, that his agreement with the Vatican, restoring limited temporal rights to the Pope will make his, Mussolini's, regime live in history.

What the full results of the new relations between the Church and the Italian Government are to be, only time can tell. That they will be important, there is no question.

The arrangement will doubtless be a relief to pious ladies of the Italian royal family, to whom the excommunication placed upon the King of Italy by the Pope at a time the Pope's temporal power was terminated, must have been a great sorrow.

Be Sure to Stand Still

Transportation Is Criminal.

To have liquor in your possession while standing still is a misdemeanor. To be responsible for "liquor in transit" may mean five year in jail.

Ten thousand dollars fine and five years imprisonment are said to have caused panic among bootleggers. But it has not destroyed their presence of mind. All have raised the price of bootleg liquor, to meet the increased danger.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

Tales That Are Told

Saving in Vain

"SIX years ago," said Smithson, "I made up my mind that I was smoking too much. It didn't seem to affect my health, but I thought it a waste of money, and decided to give it up."

"A sensible idea," remarked Brownlow.

"So I thought at the time. I reckoned up as closely as I could how much I had been spending each day on cigars and tobacco. That sum I set aside each morning, and started a banking account with it. I wanted to be able to show exactly how much I had saved by not smoking."

"And how did it work?"

"At the end of six years I had $200 in the bank."

"Good! Could you let me——"

"And a few days later," interrupted Smithson, "last Tuesday, in fact—the bank failed. You haven't got a cigar about you, have you?"

Proof

A TEACHER was trying to explain to his class how air is compressed, and wheeled his bicycle into the room.

"Now," he said, pointing to the front wheel, "underneath that outer cover there is a hidden force—can any of you tell me what it is?"

"India-rubber!" suggested one boy.

"No; try again."

Several guesses were made, all of them incorrect. At length a youngster, who had been making a close inspection of the machine, turned to the teacher.

"I know what it is," he said. "It's wind—just wind. I've stuck a pin in it an' it all came out!"

Thoughtful Woman

THE young doctor sat down wearily in his easy chair and turned to his wife affectionately.

"Has my darling been lonely?"

"Oh, no!" she said. "At least, not very lonely. I've found something to do with my time."

"Oh," he said, "what is that?"

"I'm organizing a class. A lot of women are members and we're teaching each other to cook."

"What do you do with the things you cook?" asked the doctor.

"We send them to the neighbors."

"Dear little woman!" he returned, kissing her. "Always thinking of your husband's practice."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

YOU don't always give the kids credit for having as much sense as they've got. Sometimes they can trip you up with an awful sensible notion.

There was a woman that was trying to make her little daughter behave.

"You see those three gray hairs?" she says, showing some she'd been trying to pull out of her head.

"Sure."

"Well, those hairs turned gray last night when you were howling so loud that you woke up all the neighbors and they thought I was skinning you alive. When you are mean and devilish and have tantrums, you turn your mother's hair gray."

The kid didn't say anything to that, and seemed awful sorry. But pretty soon she says, "Say, mama, was you grandma's only child?"

"Yes. Why?"

"Oh, nothing. I was just wondering how many times you howled all night to make her hair so white as it is."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

AN hour ago the street was filled with people going to Lenten service. The forty days are upon us—forty days of contemplation of that mystery which reached its climax in Golgotha's cross and the empty tomb.

For forty days chu[illegible]ple pause and give themsel[illegible] to the thought of God. It [illegible] for every life to have its L[illegible]se.

Not necessarily a reli[illegible]use, but a period set aside [illegible]mplation of the eternal [illegible]

Those mysteries are n[illegible] property of the church. They [illegible] to the humblest and most ignorant man as well as the wisest and most proud. And we should remember them and set aside quiet moments in our lives for reverence and wonder.

We make such a poor business of living, we think only of what we shall eat and what we shall drink, where we shall sleep, whom we shall love, at what task we shall work. But these affairs are only the husks which enclose life—they are not life itself. If we live only on husks, we starve. Most of us do starve. Most of the eyes you meet are starving eyes—starving for that nourishment of truth and beauty and power and peace which we can only find in quiet moments alone with God.

Set aside a quiet moment for yourself—a Lenten period.

Consider the wonder of yourself—the Source from which you came—the earth you inhabit.

The story of the earth—that is YOUR story.

The story of God—that is YOUR story, too.

The story of Christ—that is most poignantly YOUR story.

You, too, must know your 40 days if you would triumph over life and death.

You, too, must tread the stations of the Cross, from Manger to the Tomb.

For you there waits, somewhere, a Cross on Calvary!

For you there dawns a Resurrection Morn!

Enter into the temple of yourself and think upon these things.

Think of yourself not as a man, or a woman, a wife or husband, mother or father—but as a part of the Eternal Wonder.

Kneel before Truth—

Break the Bread and drink the Wine of Pain—

Light a candle to Beauty—

Then, for a little while, be still and rest in God—

And so come back to life, reborn, released from the dark tomb of your small, petty self.

GEOLOGICAL TIME

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE more one sees of the increasing avidity of all readers for scientific facts and theories the more evident appears the need of some general ground of comparison and relationship with which the lay reader may easily make himself familiar and by whose aid he may more rapidly and truly grasp the significance of scientific statements and references.

To illustrate let me take a subject which presents itself apropos the "geological history of the Antillean region," as set forth in a paper read at the recent meeting of the American Association. Now this subject is intensely interesting to the geologist, and would be fascinating to the ordinary reader if he possessed a rapid means of fixing in his mind's eye the chronology of the story. If he could do that he would find a vivid picture of such stupendous world events as the formation by subsidence of the Gulf of Mexico and the cutting across of the Cordilleran spine of the two American continents by the transverse mountain chains of Central America.

If in human history you read that something occurred in the Middle Ages your bird's eye map of historical time enables you instantly to place the event, not of course in its exact, chronological setting, but near enough to have a good general idea of its historical location. But when you are told by a geologist that such or such a great change occurred in the "Traissic" or in the "Cretaceous," you may be utterly in the dark as to its time relations. You might even think that it belonged to about the same time as the "Eocene" or the "Pliocene," which you have frequently heard of in connection with the early ancestors, or blood relatives, of man. This would be like supposing King Menes of Egypt to have been contemporary with the Caesars.

This source of confusion would be avoided, and the intelligent interest of the reader would be enormously increased, if he would take the slight trouble needed to keep in his mind the succession of the main geological time divisions in the same way that he keeps those of human history. Then he would never find himself at a loss over the comparative antiquity of geological ages or changes.

Consider, for instance, that there are four great geological eras which, in the order of their antiquity, stand as follows: (1) Archean, (2) Paleozoic, (3) Mesozoic, (4) Cenozoic. Against these you may place in the same order, for human chronology: (1) Prehistory, (2) Ancient History, (3) Medieval History, (4) Modern History.

The geological eras are divided into periods, the earlier in each case being numbered before the later, thus:

(1) Archean — 1, Archaeozoic (first life); 2, Proterozoic.

(2) Ordovician; 3, Silurian; 4, Devon-Ordovician; 3, Silurian: 4, Devonian; 5, Carboniferous; 6, Permian.

(3) Mesozoic — 1, Triassic; 2, Jurassic; 3, Cretaceous.

(4) Cenozoic — 1, Eocene; 2, Miocene; 3, Oligocene; 4, Pliocene; 5, Quarternary (age of man).

These various subdivisions might be likened to the centuries of human history. You don't have to be a professional historian in order to know immediately the relative chronological place of an event which occurred in the fifteenth century, or in the "Augustan Age," or the Victorian Era." With equal ease, if you will once fix in your memory the succession of the geological eras and periods, you will be able instantly to locate chronologically any reference to geological history. As to the number of years or centuries involved in the geological periods, that is another question, which has been only partially and tentatively solved.

Bible Passages

David's Prayer

(II. Samuel 7: 18-29)

THEN went king David in, and sat before the Lord, and he said, Who am I, O Lord God? and what is my house, that thou hast brought me hitherto?

And this was yet a small thing in thy sight, O Lord God; but thou hast spoken also of thy servant's house for a great while to come. And is this the manner of man, O Lord God?

And what can David say more unto thee? for thou, Lord God, knowest thy servant.

For thy word's sake, and according to thine own heart, hast thou done all these great things, to make thy servant know them.

Wherefore thou art great, O Lord God: for there is none like thee, neither is there any God beside thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

And what one nation in the earth is like thy people, even like Israel, whom God went to redeem for a people to himself, and to make him a name, and to do for you great things and terrible, for thy land, before thy people, which thou redeemedst to thee from Egypt, from the nations and their gods?

For thou hast confirmed to thyself thy people Israel to be a people unto thee for ever: and thou, Lord, art become their God.

And now, O Lord God, the word that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, establish it for ever, and do as thou hast said.

And let thy name be magnified for ever, saying, The Lord of hosts is the God over Israel: and let the house of thy servant David be established before thee.

For thou, O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, hast revealed to thy servant saying, I will build thee an house: therefore hath thy servant found in his heart to pray this prayer unto thee.

And now, O Lord God, thou art that God, and thy words be true, and thou hast promised this goodness unto thy servant:

Therefore now let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may continue for ever before thee: for thou, O Lord God, hast spoken it: and with thy blessing let the house of thy servant be blessed for ever.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Arcady

OH, never, never comes the Spring
With all its wistful dower
Of tender green, of lifted wing,
Of sudden sun and shower,
But that it wakes again in me
The ancient dreams of Arcady!

Earth seems once more as fresh and young
As in the dawn of time,
When first love's ecstacies were sung
In sweet and simple rhyme;
And every lad and lass may be
A pair who walk in Arcady.

Oh, never comes the mockingbird
From sunlight and the South,
But something in my soul is stirred . . .
Brooks spring where all was drouth.
How sweet, how sweet life still may be
At but a glimpse of Arcady!

What Price Genius?

By Herbert Kaufman

DR. T. W. BOVIE, of Northwestern University, just received the Scott Medal from the City of Philadelphia.

Dr. Bovie is author of electro-surgical instruments which enable bloodless and painless operations, even in the brain area.

By his method, incisions are simultaneously made and cauterized, with practically no shock to the system, and a minimum of the subsequent suppuration, in which death so delights to lurk.

No one can estimate the lives and agony to be saved through his invention.

Nor can we fittingly appreciate the discoveries of Dr. Kamm, another Abou Ben Adhem, whose researches have given us hormones—a pituitary gland derivitive, to ease the pains of childbirth and nullify the dessicating action of anesthesia on human tissues.

Before these men could become adepts in their respective fields, they devoted years to study—meanwhile, spending large amounts on maintenance, college, university and post-graduate instruction.

Contemporary businessmen, intending no service to humanity and striving solely for personal profit, were already enjoying large incomes before Bovie or Kamm were qualified to practice and earn their first fees.

Specialized training not only involves considerable and protracted outlays, but also limits the opportunity to acquire a competence for old age and dependents, because of the late start in life characteristic of professional workers.

The creative spirit rides its possessors hard and ceaselessly, draws upon physical and nervous forces and soon exhausts them.

But the income tax law and its executors make no allowance for that obvious depreciation.

Congress admits the wear and tear on other tools and machinery, but denies doctor, jurist, historian, engineer or chemist any deduction for diminishing efficiency of body and brain.

Candy companies and pie bakers may write off the annual obsolescence of buildings, office and plant equipment. But idea-factories, and the structures that house them, are taxed to the hilt—rated and scheduled with fortune inheritors, wasters, wantons and poodle-petters—fiscally ranked with all the infertile parasites who never lift a hand or contribute a thought to progress and benevolence.

Thus democracy encourages originality and disinterested service! Thus it endows the scientist and honors intellectual attainment!

Its Shylock statutes exact heavier proportionate toll from a sculptor than a junk dealer.

Parliament regularly votes cash grants, the English Court confers knighthood, France bestows Legion honors, and liberal pensions, upon thousands, whom hill-billy legislation would ingrately penalize for successful inspiration and benefactory initiative.

Your Uncle Samuel is squinting through his glasses, when he can't differentiate between the yield of investment bonds or Wall street speculation, and the earnings of a Bovie or Kamm.

How do you feel about it, Friend Hoover?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 18.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up to thank Commissioner Harnett for a low numbered auto plate, not having felt so important since C. M. Schwab, mistaking me for another, rushed to my table in a cafe. And did he look annoyed! Then to see Leon Gordon's fine exhibit of his paintings.

To luncheon and a hullabaloo over a lady shrieking she had been robbed, but her missing necklace had slipped inside her dress. So to walk and at a book seller's bought a vellum folio with massy brass clasps and to talk with Chas. B. Driscoll, who discusses human weaknesses with a sardonic humor.

In the evening to drive along the Hudson which lay like an unruffled mirror and lost musing over days of Indians and howling wolves and with Ray Long to see "The Little Accident," slightly amusing, and had hot tamales at Chili Villa. Then to bed.

Gil Boag is a sharp contradiction of the theory the confirmed Broadwayite never turns from the lights. He has been away five years and shows no intention of returning for a permanent stay. The son of a university regent, he was the first theatrical press agent to feature a dropped "r" and broad "a." Later he controlled a chain of night clubs, among them the old Palais Royal, the most successful of all. He was dubbed the Night Club King and became interested in Gilda Gray, aiding in her rise from shimmy-shaking to stardom. They married and parted. Boag has been spending his time in Germany making pictures. He is reputed a millionaire.

A British writer discovers a touch of the poetic in the grim fire warning displayed in theater programs. It reads: "Look around now and choose the nearest exit to your seat. In case of fire, walk (not run) to that exit. Do not try to beat your neighbor to the street." Maybe it's one-legged poetry or something.

One of New York's old-timers clap-claps around town in a horse-drawn buckboard. And attracts more attention than a prince in a pink limousine. In the winter he wears a woolen cap with ear flaps and puffs a corn cob pipe—like a rustic out of Shore Acres. He is a relic of an ancient and honorable family and refuses to tune up with the times. Yet he is the only one to increase his share of the family fortune.

And Chic Sale at his country home near Scarsdale has an old-fashioned cistern with a rusty tin cup on a chain. His parlor is carpeted with a rag rug made by his great-great-grandmother. On the mantle are two waxed doves under glass, in his kitchen is an old-fashioned turkey wing stove duster and a carpeted brick door holder. Chic, himself, wears knitted wrist warmers and long whatyoucallems in cold weather.

Also a big-hearted family grocer on Third avenue gives away a 10-cent poke of mixed hard candy with every $2 purchase.

On Forty-second street a subway grating sends warm air upward with a cyclonic rush. There used to be a crowd on a nearby corner before the days of pen wiper skirts to watch unsuspecting ladies, who walked over it, beat down their flounces. But the crowd has vanished. The grating and its rush of air remain. Legs are no longer a mystery.

Even widely traveled New York worldings are tricked now and then. Two specialty houses have prospered for years creating the illusion they are branches of famous French concerns. The names are the same, but that is all.

"The New York reporter is perfectly at home as a guest in the fashionable drawing room but does not indulge the silly small talk of the tea table. His training has taught him conversational caution." —From a travel correspondent in a Dublin newspaper.

Sounds swell. But as one of them, most reporters I know have the social graces of a billygoat and are as full of gossip as a Lambs Club telephone operator.

A mustache fixer preening himself before a Fifth avenue window mirror this morning was greeted with a burly cop's "Move on: Beautiful!" And that white spec in the sky is my hat passing over Passaic. I grew that hysterical.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

THERE are times when you would like to "get a bit devilish."

Go where you are unknown and do things that persons as careful as you are do not participate in.

In middle age you would probably think back to your young manhood and there is a desire to live over some of the experiences of that period.

For years you have held yourself in check; lived as your position dictates.

Its demands curb many of your natural desires.

Its restrictions do not allow you to do what you think you'd like to do.

You wish your wife would go away for a while for a visit.

You wish she would take the children, too, so that you would not be hampered.

Perhaps you have had experiences of this sort where you made a fool of yourself or allowed someone to make a fool of you.

You were glad when she returned.

Wouldn't it be the same way again if your occasional desires to be alone were gratified?

Would you be willing to have your wife indulge in a few prankish indiscretions also because she is fed up with being housemaid to you and the kids?

That looks different to you, doesn't it?

But what is the difference?
